Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

A pastor told us Sunday that he learned the value of wordless conversation when he was assigned to an Indian post in northern Minnesota. If there was to be any talking it was almost entirely up to him, which was perfectly satisfactory to both.

He was suggesting that the people of this generation would gain if they did less talking . . . just sitting. It would cut down on stomach ulcers, tenseness, heart trouble and lessen discord in families and community.

Not once did he hint that his talk was aimed at womankind.

Here is another suggestion that was given to women attending a church meeting on the lake shore last week. "If you must gossip, try gossiping about the Gospels." It is not such a bad idea.

We brag about the American democracy of life but are we not getting away from the democratic part? News reports in the daily press and national magazines use a lot of printer's ink telling about the autocratic rule of union leaders, political bosses and special groups who try to force their opinion on others.

The only recourse politically is presence at the polls. The primary in April will give an opportunity for us to show our hands.

The faith that Arlington elementary school board placed in the voters was justified Saturday when they voted 4 to 1 in favor of a bond issue. Such a school vote is not unusual in these parts because the local school needs are being recognized by nearly everybody.

As an example of what can happen when voters do not recognize the great need of a corporate body and ties its hands by refusal to provide funds for expansion purposes was shown recently when the Mt. Prospect library board was turned down on purchase of a lot needed for its expansion.

Another corporate body (the village) decided to buy the property. Of course, the village could have "marked time" but the owner could have sold it to some other buyer.

This is what happened to the Palatine park board and Arlington Heights when efforts to keep commercial development of the existing railroad parks was turned down.

In Palatine it was a 40 acre southside park that could have solved Palatine's park requirements for another generation.

Instead of crying over spilt milk we are thankful that our schools are successful.

We never saw any group of men so happy over increased cost of transportation as the commuters who are using the modern equipment of the North Western railroad.

Evidently commuters want comfort and are willing to pay for it. Remember the days when railroads were the big bad wolf, whose fare increases were bitterly fought?

We do not know how many residents of Winston Park, Palatine, came from Missouri, but they certainly want to be shown before they will let up on their drive to get route 53 where they want it.

They are unwilling to believe the news stories published last week, that they have already won the battle. Perhaps we painted too optimistic a picture.

Their activity should at least build a fire under the state highway department.

SCHOOL CAUCUS CANDIDATES SET

Three Men Are Slated

It took seven ballots Monday night for Arlington Heights school district 25's caucus to choose three candidates out of 10 nominees for the April 9 school board election.

Practically assured of election to the school board are:

—Kenneth Anderson, of 734 N. Beverly. He is completing his first term on the board.

—Joseph F. Faner, of 615 Mayfair rd.

—Victor Myer, of 644 S. Lincoln ln.

SELECTION BY the caucus as a candidate is tantamount to election to the school board. There has been no opposition to the caucus candidates since the group's formation in 1954.

Anderson, 43, and the father of five children, was renominated as a candidate on the first ballot. A majority vote of the 44 delegates present was needed for selection. Anderson received 41 votes.

No nominee received a majority on the first ballot to choose a second candidate. On the second ballot, Joseph F. Faner, 43, and the father of two children, won the nomination with 31 votes.

It took four ballots to choose a candidate to fill the two year unexpired term of former school board member Victor Husty. All 10 nominees were voted upon for each of the openings, excepting those already chosen as candidates.

ON THE FOURTH ballot, Victor Myer, 45, and the father of three children, gained a majority and a four vote margin over Jack V. Keller.

Keller, a local realtor, was leading on the third ballot. The eight votes cast for nominee Francois Palmatier, however, were swung to Myer on the fourth ballot.

Anderson has lived in the district seven years. He holds an engineering degree from the University of Minnesota and serves as chief estimator for construction projects for Procon, Inc., Des Plaines. He is a member of the Arlington Heights Lions Club. He was nominated by a South junior high school PTA delegate.

FANER HAS LIVED in the district 10 years. He is active in scouting and Little League activities, and serves as the PTA's representative at school board meetings.

He holds a degree in mechanical engineering from Northwestern university and is employed as marketing manager for the Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply company. He was nominated by the Dryden school PTA and Scarsdale Improvement Association delegates.

Myer has lived in the district seven years. He served on the candidate selection committee for the village board caucus, and has been active in various fund drives. He is a past president of the Scarsdale Property Owners Association.

Myer holds degrees in engineering and law and is a partner in the firm of Olson, Mecklenburger, vonHolst, Pendleton, and Neuman. He was nominated by a Park school PTA delegate.

ALL CANDIDATES are members of the Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights.

The name of an earlier nominee, Vic Beisler, was withdrawn from consideration at his request.

The by-laws committee, headed by Edward Klamm, recommended a few minor clarification changes which the caucus passed.

Dr. Eric Gross, one of the Stonegate Property Owners association representatives, however, was rebuffed, as he has been since the caucus convened last month, in attempts to change the by-laws.

THE BY-LAWS committee recommended disapproval of nine suggested changes by Dr. Gross including one that would have provided for the selection of two candidates for each vacancy. The caucus concurred in rejecting the changes.

Harold Sortor, chairman of this year's interviewing commitee, was elected as next year's caucus chairman. Mrs. Sam Cullison was elected as vice-chairman when Edward Klamm withdrew on the second ballot.

Of the 58 delegates designated to vote on caucus proceedings, 44 were present.

Warn Motorists To Buy Stickers

Arlington Heights auto owners are reminded that this is the last week for procuring 1960 village vehicle stickers.

Starting Monday, Feb. 15, village police will begin ticketing vehicles not displaying the 1960 sticker.

As of this week, 6,900 stickers have been sold. There are, however, an estimated 8,000 vehicles in the village.

Ice Carnival Is Cancelled

Mild weather has caused cancellation of the Rotary Ice Carnival at Pioneer park. The skating event was postponed from January 30 and was melted out again last Saturday. Even if freezing temperatures came now, park workmen would not be able to get the rink in competition condition by Saturday, so Rotary Club officials decided to cancel the 1960 Carnival.

Except a Sure Thing

Nothing beats uncertainty to make tomorrow more interesting. — Farm Journal.

A FAMILIAR sight in northwest suburbs Wednesday was this snow-bound scene of youngsters helping a stranded motorist at Dryden pl. and Euclid ave., Arlington Heights. Hundreds of workers were absent or late to work as a result of the season's most severe storm.

Winter's Pent-Up Fury

Blizzard Paralyzes Area; Schools Close

Winter struck northwest suburbs with all its pent up fury this week, closing schools, blocking highways, tying up telephones, cluttering the countrysides with stuck autos, and grinding communications to a standstill in many areas.

There were, however, relatively few accidents. "Most cars can't get out of their driveways to get into trouble," explained one police officer.

Hardest hit community was Buffalo Grove, a subdivision just west of Wheeling. Over 1500 persons were isolated for 24 hours as six foot drifts piled up by 40 m.p.h. high winds blocked Buffalo Grove rd. The western half of Hoffman Estates was snowed in by 5 foot drifts.

TRAFFIC ON major arteries was slowed to a snail's pace and many highways were completely blocked. Over 100 cars were jammed up Wednesday morning at the intersection of U.S. 12 (Rand) and 68 (Dundee). County police described the junction at 62 (Algonquin) and 53 (Rohlwing) as "impossibly jammed." A jack-knifed trailer on Rt. 53 blocked traffic north of Palatine.

High winds made the work of plows seem futile as drifts several feet deep were piled up in a matter of hours. Most four lane highways were reduced to two lanes of traffic. Portions of highways 21 (Milwaukee) and 72 (Higgins) were impassable. Arlington Heights Fender and Body garage was forced to turn down over 20 stuck car calls.

Northwest Community hospital was virtually snowbound, as drifts clogged narrow entrance and exit roads. Personnel on duty when the storm struck stayed on to work around the clock as many employees were unable to get to work. The hospital was taking only emergency cases Wednesday morning.

A two-minute power failure at 8:30 a.m. saw an emergency generator brought into action.

PALATINE HIGH school didn't open. Arlington and Prospect high schools were open to reduced student bodies, and one enterprising young lady showed up at the latter school on a pair of skis.

Parochial schools were closed throughout the area. Public elementary and junior high schools were closed in Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling, and Palatine. Wilson and Forest View schools were closed.

Elementary schools were open in Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect, but noted Supt. L. R. Murphy of Mt. Prospect, "The doors are open, but they're not swinging very fast." Over a fourth of Arlington district 25 pupils were absent.

MUNICIPAL switchboards were jammed with people seeking help from plows, and there was often a prolonged wait for a dial tone. The phone company normally puts through 19,000 dial calls in 24 hours in area communities. Wednesday morning over 9,000 calls came through in four hours. There were a few isolated breakdowns of phone equipment.

Most communities were able to keep their main streets open as plows worked around the clock and tons of salt were scattered. Thousands of commuters, however, were unable to get their cars out of driveways and couldn't make it to railway stations.

A frantic Arlington Heights woman requested that the public works department pay special attention to her street. The expectant mother was scheduled to depart any minute for the hospital.

To Meet Residents

Sen. Douglas Visits Here

U.S. Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) will be in Arlington Heights today (Thursday) to meet and talk with suburbanites, civic leaders, businessmen, and village officials.

He will greet area residents at Paddock Publications offices, 217 W. Campbell st., at 5 p.m.

Earlier, the senator will tour the newspaper plant and hold a press conference for editors of Paddock's 13 suburban newspapers.

SENATOR DOUGLAS

Hosts for the reception from 5 to 5:30 p.m. include Stuart R. Paddock, editor-in-chief of Paddock Publications; James Stavros, Wheeling township Democratic committeeman; Gerald M. Chapman of Arlington Heights; and Joseph Schneller, president of Arlington Market Merchants association.

The public is welcome to visit the newspaper offices and meet Senator Douglas, added Paddock. It will be the senator's only local appearance prior to the April primary elections.

IN A TALK before Wheeling township voters Sunday at Amvets hall, Wheeling, Senator Douglas cited several major problems facing residents of the northwest suburban area. Among them were adequate sewage disposal, pollution of streams in the area, and "the urban sprawl" which is "gobbling up" the countryside.

He said he is working on legislation in congress to divert water from Lake Michigan to ease the sewage problems in the Illinois waterway.

Speaking of "saving the beauty of nature" for "ourselves and future generations," Douglas commended the work of the county forest preserve district. He also attacked the moves by steel companies to expand their operations into the Indiana dunes area.

"Life is not merely steel and cement and smoke and pollution," the senior senator from Illinois said.

Douglas, a veteran of World War I and hero of World War II, voiced confidence in a Democratic victory in November.

Editorial

Legal Counsel Duties Expand

(Arlington Heights' trustees will soon be considering the village's 1960-61 budget. With both an eye on the taxpayer's dollar and a realization that increased growth demands increased services, the Herald will periodically make recommendations it feels to be in the village's interest.)

Serious consideration should be given to hiring a full-time village attorney to serve as both municipal counsel and village prosecutor for Arlington Heights.

The village's rapid growth has resulted in many new ordinances, codes, court litigations, and other matters requiring legal attention.

Such attention has, at times, been slow forthcoming in matters of local improvements, badly needed ordinances and legal opinions.

This is no reflection upon the present part-time village attorney's ability or concern for orderly village development. It does reflect the need for an attorney who can devote his entire attention to village affairs and to the pressing problems that will continue to confront a booming community such as Arlington Heights.

There is also need for a village prosecutor who has the time to background himself on the many complexities involved in cases coming before the village's Police Magistrate's court. Again, this does not question the ability of the present part-time village prosecutor, but is an indication of the needs of a growing community.

Perhaps the best argument for a full-time village attorney is from an economic standpoint. Village legal department expenditures totaled over $33,000 for the 1958-59 fiscal year. Of this sum, $28,284.80 went to the village attorney. For general fees he was paid $12,951.75, and for litigation dating to 1957, $12,371.50. Court costs and special fees accounted for $2,961.55. The village prosecutor's salary is $2500 a year. The balance of legal department expenditures went for expert witnesses, court reporters, and other legal costs.

For the first six months of this fiscal year the village attorney has billed the village $14,855.40. Of this amount, general fees account for $8,208.75 and litigation services for $5,333.90. Costs total $1,312.75.

Admittedly Arlington Heights' affairs have required much legal attention in the past two years, and the legal fees charged are no doubt reasonable.

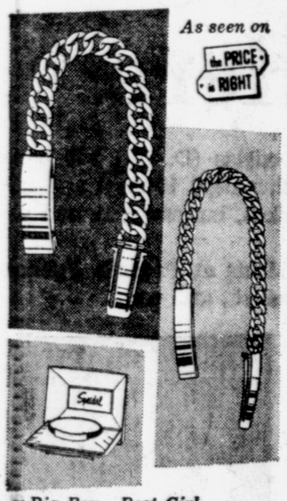

It is also reasonable to expect the burgeoning village's affairs to continue to need much legal attention, the kind that can be rendered by a full-time attorney, say for $15,000 a year.

Birthdays Appear as Bright Spots in Midwinter Doldrums

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

From a recent publication comes the intelligence that this is National Kraut and Frankfurter week. Arlington Heighters apparently are either unaware of or unconcerned about this "scentsational" occasion as there have been no reports to date of a single kraut 'n' weenie party in our town. In defense of local sociability, however, let it be noted that there were several birthday parties. Over the gloomy weekend there were also rumors, unconfirmed as yet, that there will be sun dances in the immediate future if the clouds don't disperse for at least one whole day in a row. The depth of midwinter gloom on local dispositions, this reporter's windows and the social picture deepens.

Burton Boman, 739 S. Evergreen, was 10 Saturday and had six buddies over for a boy-filling lunch before hosting them at the local matinee, "Journey to the Center of the Earth." Half the local population knows from experience the journey from the end of the line to box office was almost as long and hazardous as the filmed journey.

Eleven family members helped their host celebrate his birthday Saturday evening at a party in the Edwin Niemayer home, 1560 N. State. Among the guests were his mother, Mrs. George Niemeyer, his brother, Walter, and family and his sister and brother-in-law, the Paul Dacuses. A longtime family friend, Paul Mares of Chicago, added his congratulations and shared the party fun.

Twelve grandchildren were among the family members who recently honored Mrs. Peter Friedrichs, 1112 N. Dunton at " we'll-bring-the-party-to-you " celebration in her home. Sharing the birthday congratulations and fun was her daughter whose birthday was the day before her mother's, January 31. Others extending the double-duty best wishes were Mrs. Friedrich's sons, Earl and Ray, and their families and her sisters, Mrs. William Cook of Wooster Lake and Mrs. Maud Marek of Chicago.

The senior citizen of No. Dunton st., Mrs. Frank Runge, 940 N. Dunton, observed her 92nd birthday Monday and celebrated Sunday in her home at a family gathering with her 4 children, Otto, Barney, Richard and Mrs. Fred Harbecke and their families. Mrs. Runge has four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren and is affectionately known as "Grandma Runge" to many more north siders. The family moved to the home where Grandma now lives almost 40 years ago and lived for many years before that on the farm that is now the residence of Otto and his family, Mt. Prospect. Mrs. Runge is the only living charter member of the St. John United Church of Christ in Arlington Heights and she was honored last Thursday at the regular meeting of the Ladies aid society of which she is a member. Grandma is currently looking forward to an anniversary celebration of her church in which she will have a part.

SHARING WEEKEND birthday honors with Mrs. Runge was a 5-year-old neighbor, Vicky Weidner, whose last Friday evening celebration was a family party in the Weidner home, 1135 N. Dunton. Extending congratulations to the birthday girl were her grandparents, Mrs. Emma Klages and Engelbert Weidner, and her godparents, uncle Norbert Weidner and Aunt Kay and family, the George Folzes, all of Arlington Heights. Family friends, the William Barkeys of Morton Grove, joined the family and added best wishes.

The William Jablonskis of Chicago celebrated their 36th wedding anniversary Saturday and were the guests of honor at at a family dinner party in the home of their daughter and family, the Norman Bauskes, 102 E. Orchard. They received congratulations, then extended their own to their daughter whose birthday was the next day.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bauske celebrated the birthday occasion at Lake Lawn Lodge, Delavan Lake, Wis., with local friends, the John Gramms. The lodge is well-known for its excellent facilities for tobogganing, skiing and ice skating, which the foursome enjoyed "watching." A leisurely dinner-out occasion, not exercise, was the main objective Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larsen are home again at 102 S. Fernandez after a 9-week holiday vacation trip to Tacoma, Wash., where they celebrated Christmas and the New Year with their daughter and family, the Thomas Flints. They enjoyed a 6-week stay with the Flints and a week in Los Angeles. The rest of the time was spent in the leisurely motor trips to and from the west coast that allowed them to visit many friends along both routes. In Tucson they spent some time with former Arlington Heights neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Weigman, who sent back greetings to friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Precilio, Jr., 739 S. Dunton, returned last Wednesday from a 5-day trip that combined business and pleasure in Philadelphia. They had planned to spend more time on the pleasure part with their families in Philadelphia but the flu bug intervened.

Recent overnight guests in the Walter Stumpf home, 513 S. Highland, were Mr. Stumpf's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. MacKenzie who were on a Key West, Fla. vacation.

Mrs. Arthur Peterson, 207 N. Douglas, returned last Tuesday evening from a week's visit with her daughter and family, the Dr. Ernest Sotrops of Sandwich.

THE JOSEPH Connerys, 303 S. Gibbons, observed their 13th wedding anniversary Sunday and celebrated the occasion with dinner at the Villa D' Este.

Also celebrating a weekend wedding anniversary with dinner out were the James Browns, 107 S. Dwyer, who enjoyed a festive evening at Martinetti's in Crystal Lake with local friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Taege.

The Henry Wist family, 837 S. Vail, were guests a week ago Saturday at the home of Barrington friends, the E. F. Fords.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Behrens, 525 W. Kirchoff, jetted home last Friday from a short stay in Florida that concluded a 9-day vacation in Haiti with a proposed visit in Jamaica diluted almost completely by unceasing rain. In Haiti they were the guests of a former Chicago friend, Gerald Moore, and his wife who delighted in showing their midwester visitors many their midwestern visitors many wouldn't be able to find. One of the most impressive memories the Behrenses will have is of their trip 3,000-feet up the mountain side to the citadel La Ferriere, a huge fortress that overlooks Cap-Haitien. Much of the trip was made on horseback with natives guiding the way, and although exploring the fortress itself was exciting enough, the trip up the mountain was not exactly dull. Recent rains had made the ascents thick and slippery with ankle-deep mud. The chill Mr. and Mrs. Behrens experienced when their jet approached Montago Bay where the skeleton of a recently crashed plane welcomed them and the thrill of a primitive, mud-slick trek up a mountain on horseback is an interesting commentary on this modern age, and its vivid contrasts.

Mrs. Douglas Johnson and children, Jeffrey and Peggy, of Santa Monica, Cal. will next week end their month-long visit here with Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sullivan, 823 N. Walnut.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stephens, 639 S. Evergreen, enjoyed a weekend in Indianapolis on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mrs. Ray Brunk of Muskegon, Mich. last week visited here with her daughter and family, the John W. Thomases, 1111 W. Euclid.

MR. AND MRS. Paul Triplett, 400 S. Lincoln lane, joined their neighbors, the Edward F. Cockerhams, for a weekend at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton, Ill.

Miss Sharon Peery was among those celebrating birthdays in January. In honor of her 18th birthday there was a family dinner party January 31 in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Peery, 504 S. Beverly lane. Among her guests were Edwin Moehling of Mt. Prospect, who was here during his semester vacation from Northern Illinois university, and her brother and family, the Junior J. Peerys and their son, Ricky, who spent five days in Arlington Heights during a semester break from Purdue university.

A few Scarsdale resident who are transferred from this area have the good fortune to live near one another again and continue a friendship started here. Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Hawkins are next door neighbors to the W. M. Lavertys in Erie, Pa. Mrs. Hawkins, who was a member of the Scardale Ladies Bowling team, has again taken up the sport and is bowling in the Lake Shore league of Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller, who are temporarily living with her parents in Cleveland while their new home in Birmingham, Mich. is being readied, were recent weekend visitors of the Hawkins and Lavertys.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ballard, 407 E. Rockwell, are home from Florida where they were hosts to 300 All American Life and Casualty Insurance company agents and their wives at a 4-day convention in the Biltmore hotel in Palm Springs.

At the close of the convention, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard left for a 3-day holiday at the Grand Bahamas, where they were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. John Metropolous of Park Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Carr of Connersville, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Ely Benson of Boston, Mass.

While the Ballards were in Florida and the Bahamas, their daughter, Barbara, spent 10 days in Anna, Ill., visiting relatives.

BOB BARBOUR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barbour, 715 Bristol lane, was host Sunday to four of his Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity brothers from Northwestern university.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Guilfoil, 633 Burton, gave a family dinner party February 3 to celebrate the second birthday of their youngest son, Thomas.

John B. Hermes, 717 Mayfair, and his 17-year-old son Frank, returned last week from an 11-day vacation in Mexico. They visited Monterey, Mexico City and Acapulco. While in Monterey, Frank spent two days as the guest of a Mexican family, which he found most interesting.

Mrs. Andrew McMillan, 415 E. Grove, is home from Decatur, Ga., where she spent a week visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vanderlip.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Sayre, 606 E. Park, recently spent 12 days vacationing in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They were joined by their son, Jim, a student at Florida Southern college in Lakeland, for a 4-day visit.

The Byron K. Andersons, 923 S. Beverly lane, welcomed their daughter, Susan, and her roommate at Dennison university, Miss Carol Jenter of Summit, N.J. for a 5-day visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Lonergan, 1002 Mayfair, have a new grandson born Monday to their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sarich of Rolling Meadows. The baby, as yet unnamed, is the third son and fourth child born to the former Pat Lonergan.

Mrs. Clyde Potts of Pontiac, Mich., is visiting in Arlington Heights with her niece and family, the Charles Tullys, 311 S. Carlyle.

WEEKEND GUESTS of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Milliren, 411 Windsor, were their son and daughter-in-law, the Alan Millirens of Peoria.

The Millirens' daughter, Joanne, and her husband, Carl Bauman, are living in Pittsburgh, where both are taking graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Frank Kroll, 326 Derbyshire, celebrated his birthday, January 30 with a dinner party for eight friends.

Miss Babs Rasmussen spent her mid-term vacation from DePauw university with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruce Rasmussen, 202 S. Windsor dr.

Dick, youngest of the Rasmussen children, who recently made news by being one of the first patients in the new Northwest Community hospital, was back in the hospital to have a tonsillectomy. He is currently recuperating at home. (A

Encyclopedia Films Speaker To Address General PTA Meet

"Our minds are largely the product of education. Our program of education in this country is not only not keeping pace, it is even currently falling behind in terms of facilities and in the content of what is being taught. It is obvious that we will fall behind in everything else if we fall behind in our educational processes."

Elliott H. Newcomb, author of the above quotation, will discuss the topic "Education: A New Era Begins" at the all-school general PTA meeting to be held at Miner Junior high school, Arlington Heights, Tuesday evening, Feb. 16, at 8:15. Mr. Newcomb is administrative assistant to the president of Encylopedia Bretannica Films, Inc., an organization founded on and pursuing the principle of the value of audio-visual equipment as a teaching aid in the classroom.

High School Board Approves Pay Raise

BILL GRIFFITH (left), Arlington Heights businessman, gets some tips for Friday night's game from member of species he'll ride in basketball game. Businessmen are pitted against high school faculty.

A large percentage of Arlington and Prospect high school teachers will get a raise in pay next year as a result of District 214 school board's revision of the salary schedule Monday night.

While the base salary scale was not touched, teachers with bachelor's degrees and no experience will still start at $4800, and holders of master's degrees and no experience begin at $5000, teachers with four or more years experience will get a pay boost in addition to the regular annual increase.

THE REVISED schedule now goes to $6600 for a B.A. and ten years' experience and to $8400 for a M.A. and 15 years' teaching experience. This represents a jump of $150 for the bachelor degrees and $400 for master degrees.

"The revision definitely favors holders of master's degrees," Superintendent H. L. Slichenmyer pointed out. "We want to put pressure on the small percentage of our teachers who have not earned the extra degree and at the same time reward those who have indicated a desire to stay in teaching by doing graduate work and accumulating more than five years' experience."

SLICHENMYER estimated that the extra pay boost will cost the district almost 4.5 per cent more for salaries than otherwise would have been budgeted. Estimated total for teachers' salaries for the 1960-61 school year is $1,752,550.

This includes salaries for the additional 28 teachers who will be hired because of the increased enrollments. There are presently 202 faculty members and administrators employed by the district.

Another big item in the salary schedule revision was a change in policy which will allow incoming teachers a maximum of eight years credit in experience. Heretofore teachers were allowed only five years credit on the schedule, regardless of number of years taught.

"The board changed this policy because it was getting more and more difficult to hire good experienced teachers under the previous salary schedule," Slichenmyer explained.

MANY TEACHERS already working for District 214 will benefit from the policy change since teachers who were hired under the previous policy, but who had taught more than five years before joining the staff, will be given an additional three years' credit.

In addition to the regular salary schedule, teachers receive $200 for earning 32 hours in their teaching field beyond a master's degree, $300 for being the head of a family, and extra increment for supervising such activities as athletics, the newspaper, dramatics, or serving as head of a department.

Donkey Cagers Cavort Friday

A barnstorming troupe of four-legged basketball players from Oklahoma will present their version of the round-ball game Friday, Feb. 12, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington high school gymnasium.

Donkeys will be cavorting on the same floor that is usually reserved for the feats of gym-shoed athletes, with local businessmen, teachers, and students acting as straight men.

The Arlington high school Booster club, which is sponsoring the show, has imported the beasts from their training grounds in Crescent, Okla.

Two basketball games will be played. One pits 11 faculty men and their mounts against a group of Arlington Heights' businessmen.

INCLUDED on the businessmen's roster are Bill Griffith of Griffith Insurance; Vern Hagenbring of Hagenbring's Department store; Wally Aronson of the Cake Box; Jack Koske, owner of Koske's Shell service; John Flaherty of Flaherty's Jewelers; and Bill Dulaney of Paddock Publications.

In the other duel, the Cardettes, a girl's precision drill group from the high school, will be matched against the Triple S, a girl's service organization.

Donkey basketball is played entirely from the back of the animal. If the ball hits the floor, the rider hops off, retrieves it, and must mount again before attempting to shoot or pass.

A NUMBER of other events are also scheduled, including a mechanical donkey race, a girls' race, and a men's "garment race." Cheerleaders and Booster club fathers, as well as faculty members will be taking part in these side attractions. Also, a trick mule will show off its repertoire. All of the four-legged participants are especially equipped with rubber shoes to protect the court.

Admission for adults is 90 cents and for children, 50 cents. (AF

Mid-Winter Concert Is Set Feb. 18

Arlington high school's annual Mid-Winter Concert, "Travelogue in Music," will be presented at 7:45 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 18, in the Girls' gymnasium.

The concert band, senior choir, girls' glee club, treble clef chorus, and freshman girls' chorus will be featured in a program of French, English, American, and German music. These groups are conducted by F. C. Schmoyer, Miss Majorie Beu, and Robert Wolff.

All junior high school students living in the area served by District 214, who are currently enrolled in a musical organization, will be admitted to the concert free of charge if accompanied by their parents. General admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Tickets will be sold at the door on the night of the concert.

School Bonds Win by 4 to 1

Arlington Heights school district 25 voters approved by a better than four to one vote Saturday bond issues totalling $675,000 for a school, three sites, and an addition to a site.

In a light turnout, votes on the issues ran as follows:

—1,737-yes, 376-no, for $497,000 in bonds for construction of the Kensington elementary school on Evanston st., just south of Kensington rd. Included in this is the price of an acre of land the district wishes to add to the four-acre site it already owns.

— 1,710-yes, 399-no, for $178,000 in bonds to purchase one junior high and two elementary school sited.

— 1,793-yes, 324-no, for the use of $47,021 remaining from the building programs of 1957 and 1958 toward construction of the school.

THE CLOSEST vote was in the Park school area on the south side of town where the vote was slightly less tnan three to one in favor of the propositions.

Construction on the 19-room school will begin in the spring. Double sessions will, however, be required at the Windsor school next September until the new school is completed.

Commenting on the vote, L. W. Bredehoft, president of the board of education expressed the board's appreciation of voter confidence in the recommendations.

He added that planning for future growth is essential if district 25 is to maintain its excellent reputation.

Their First Day at School!

"THERE'S NOTHING LIKE a little relaxation after a strenuous workout" commented this 6-month-old German Drathaar as he sneaked a quick smoke after completing his first night of training in the beginner's class at Northwest Obedience Dog Training club. The Drathaar is one of 20 beginners enrolled in the class which started February 3 and will continue each Wednesday evening through April in the basement of the Jewel Tea building in Palatnie. Every three months a new group of pure-bred dogs and their handlers begin learning the fundamentals of obedience training. (A-13

"I DON'T WANNA heel" protested Reggie, 18-month-old Sealyham terrier handled by his owner, Mrs. F. A. Anderson of Winston Park, Palatine, in Northwest's new beginner's class. Mrs. Anderson hopes that by the close of his 13-week beginner's obedience training, Reggie will have learned to heel at her left side, come on command, perform sits and dows directed, walk figure eights and stand for examination, reasonably well. "Besides preparing the dog for showing in AKC licensed trials, our school also aims to make better household pets of these dogs," said Stanton Petry of Arlington Heights, president of the 7-year-old club. Choir Concert to Benefit Students

Concordia college choir concert at Prospect high school February 28 will benefit one or two local high school music students, it was announced this week by Arlington Heights Rotary club president John Schaff.

"Our club attempts to benefit the high school youth on many projects," stated Schaff. "We have been paying tuition for one or two outstanding music students from the high school each of the past three years to Interlochen summer music camp, and feel it is a very worthwhile project. If we can raise enough funds at our annual concert in February, we expect to again give two students the opportunity to further their music education."

Suburban Firemen Hold Area Parley

The Cook County Suburban Fireman's association, comprising more than 200 fire fighters from many cities and villages around Chicago, met at the Charles Bruning company plant with Mt. Prospect firemen as hosts Monday evening.

Speaker for the meeting, followed by a corned beef and cabbage dinner, was Ed Kemp of the Cook County Inspection Bureau. For 37 years he was chief of the Chicago Fire Insurance Patrol until its disbandment a few months ago.

KEMP discussed organized fire training as an essential of both paid and volunteer departments and declared that training starts with a fireman entering his probation period and never ends.

The firemen were welcomed by Trustee C. O. Schlaver, chairman of the fire and water committee, who said:

"You men exemplify the spirit of mutual help which exists even in these modern times and which built fire protection in Cook county suburbs"

He invited inspection of the fine new equipment "which the good people of Mt. Prospect purchased through a bond issue and for which we are thankful."

Firemen View New Equipment

Latest fire fighting equipment, including the newest trucks, were shown to Cook county suburban firemen's association Monday night of this week with everything indoors in the Bruning plant on Central rd., Mt. Prospect. Firemen from Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights and Wheeling were among the 200 in attendance. (B9

Interest in Stamps Grows; Attorney Provides Variety

TYPICAL OF LETTERS dispatched by Wheeling Attorney Peter Less is one reproduced above which is a testimonial to the many new postal department stamp issues. Stamps range over subjects from Mackinac Bridge to religious freedom.

Receiving a letter from Wheeling Attorney Peter Less is often like participating in a stamp centennial.

Any special delivery, overweight or foreign correspondence from Less is accompanied by a profusion of brightly-colored stamps which almost obscure addresses.

"No, I'm not a stamp collector," explains Less, "but many of my clients are," he added.

"They have expressed an interest in the stamps I send them," he explained.

LESS, WHO resides at 171 Fletcher, Wheeling, presently has 15 foreign cases involving war reparation claims in Germany and Italy, allowing him ample opportunity to decorate his mail with the latest post office issues.

He notes, however, most of the new stamp issues "make a nice label for the envelope but are not worth much to the collector."

"There are few new issues each month, and everyone seems to have a stamp: the barbers, milkmen, industry, agriculture, everything is celebrated," he observed.

"A collector's item is not measured by its money value but by its rarity and perfection. It is not sold by the collector, only traded to improve the collection."

Less, who recently opened new law offices at 251 E. Dundee rd., Wheeling, commented that the commerce secured from stamps is growing.

"HALF OF Monaco's budget comes from stamp issuances, and the United Nations has its own issues since it is located on extra-territorial property.

Born in Germany, Less has resided in this country since 1947. He was a translator in the Nurnberg war trials, having been hired by the late Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson, who was U.S. chief counsel for the Allies.

A specialist in international law, Less taught French and German in Washington, D.C., when he first arrived in this country.

The attorney, who also has offices at 20 N. LaSalle st., Chicago, ran and lost as an independent in the last village board of trustees' election in Wheeling.

AN EXAMPLE of his preference for lending his correspondence a lively-appearing cover was a letter recently received announcing opening of his Wheeling offices.

The envelope was covered by: three cent denominations concerned with religious freedom, Labor Day, and the Mackinac Bridge; four-cent issues of the petroleum industry, freedom of the press, a likeness of former Mayor Ernest Reuter of Berlin entitled "Champion of Freedom," and another of Ephraim McDowell; and an eight-center "Champion of Liberty," showing a portrait of the late Philippines president Ramon Magsaysay.

Revoke Drivers' Licenses of 2

Two northwest suburban area residents lost their licenses because of drunken driving in recent action by the office of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier. Licenses revoked were those of Julius A. Moellenkamp, 821 E. Golf rd., Mt. Prospect; and Charles M. Wendt, 312 N. Reuter, Arlington Heights.

Q. When drinking a cocktail that has a piece of fruit in it, such as organge, lemon, pineapple or cherry, is it proper to eat the fruit?

A. Yes; but be sure to do this as gracefully as possible. Above all, don't be too obvious with your efforts to get at the fruit—such as tipping the glass high and then tapping on the bottom of the glass in order to loosen an elusive bit of fruit.

Bureau Warns Area Of Charity Group

The Better Business Bureau of Chicago last week told Paddock Publications that an organization calling itself Goodwill Handicapped, Inc., had been soliciting contributions of used clothing and other goods by telephone in and around Chicago under the name "Goodwill."

According to the bureau, this organization is in no way connected with Goodwill Industries of Chicago and Cook county, a charitable, not-for-profit agency which solicits like donations to be refurbished by salaried handicapped persons and sold through stores maintained by the agency.

GOODWILL Industries does not solicit by phone, the bureau said.

Goodwill Handicapped, Inc., when it applied for a state charter, declared itself a "for profit agency," according to the bureau, that was "to engage in the business of buying and acquiring by gift or otherwise, merchandise and goods, either new or used, and repairing or processing same for disposal either by sale or gift." Install Gaslights For Estates Area

The Scarsdale Estates association announced February 6, that gaslights will be used to illuminate the entrances to the Estates.

"The first two of a recommended total of ten lights have been contracted for today," said Bob Platt, chairman of the lighting committee, "through the efforts of Chick Fry, who is serving on my committee.

"The Northern Illinois Gas company has surveyed our area and submitted a plot locating a total of 10 lights. These first two will be installed experimentally to light the entrance at Burton pl. and Central rd. We expect them to be installed within 30 days."

"THESE GASLIGHTS will be dedicated to the memory of Al Langos," said John Carnell, president, "since this need for illumination was recognized by Mr. Langos before his death. The "Al Langos Lights" will be dedicated in a lamplighting ceremony when they are installed. Al worked tirelessly for our association as its president until his death in 1958. It is indeed proper that we name these lights for him." (A

Retired Policeman Wins Savings Contest

A quarter-century of honest and devoted service to the community sometimes pays surprising dividends, a retired Arlington Heights policeman has discovered. For one thing, it makes a host of gateful friends.

The policeman is Elmer C. Karstens, who retired December 1, 1958, after 24 years at patrolman, sergeant, and lieutenant with the Arlington Heights police department.

LAST WEEK, his fellow employees at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association feted Karstens for winning the recent "Partners in Progress" contest conducted by the employees. Since his retirement, Karstens has been on the Federal Savings staff as guard and building engineer.

The six-week contest, which ended January 30, brought 324 new accounts and $406,700 in new savings to the Association.

With a personal total of 52,000 points scored, Karstens led his team, the Abe Lincolns, captained by Jack Clark, Jr., 9 E. Hawthorne, Arlington Heights, to victory over three other association teams.

For his efforts, Karstens received several prizes, including a power-mowing machine. But his most prized possession is a framed certificate, hand-fashioned by his fellow employees. It now hangs on the wall of his modest home at 440 S. Evergreen, where he resides with his wife, Hilda.

THE CERTIFICATE commends Karstens for "exhibiting inexhaustible energy during extensive distribution of documents pertaining to 'Partners in Progress' in a most ambidextrous manner, above and beyond the call of duty."

Karstens admits to distributing 500 cards inviting friends and acquaintances to open new accounts.

Even he was surprised at the ready response of people who, for years, had respected his integrity and service and wished to show their appreciation.

"All last week, after the contest had closed, my wife and I kept getting calls at home, asking if we had won," Karstens said, smilingly.

"You can't beat Elmer," was the rueful comment of Roger A. Wahlin, Crystal Lake, captain of the second-place "Tom Fullers."

"Each time one of our team members came up with a big account that would move us up into first place, Elmer would mumble, 'This won't do,' and start making phone calls. He's just got too many friends in this town!"

MRS. KARSTENS admitted she was glad the contest was over. "Elmer pitched into it the way he always does. He never relaxes when he gets into some special project."

One of his sons, David, is following in his father's footsteps by studying police administration at Michigan State university, where he is in his third year. Another son, Donne, is an air photographer with the U. S. Navy.

Karstens himself was assistant police chief in Arlington Heights for nine years, under Chief Carl H. Skoog. In his 25 years of service, he has seen the department grow from three to 30 men, as police problems mounted with the community's growth.

"Our principal problems have been traffic and juvenile mischief," Karstens says. "This is a pretty clean town. We've tried to keep it that way." (A

WINNERS OF Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan contest, Elmer Karstens and Jack Clark receive certificate from Roger Wahlin and Kenneth E. Becker, runners-up in the contest.

School Nurse Marks A Double Celebration

A woman who had a most unique celebration last month is the school nurse in Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

She is Mrs. Wilma Wood, and the celebration is a double one.

The 47-year-old mother of six and grandmother of two celebrated her 25th wedding anniversary and graduated with a bachelor of science in nursing degree from Loyola university.

Graduation exercises were held last week, and the event was coupled with a visit from Mrs. Wood's parents, a church kaffee klatsch, and open house for friends at the Woods' Des Plaines home.

And a busy home it is—especially since mother has been combining education and housewife-mother careers.

With the whole family around, there was never a dull moment, but Mrs. Wood credits her husband, Glen, and children with helping her complete her "30-year education plan."

DAUGHTER, Mrs. Fran Martin, made the family dinner, and father became adept at bed-making and kiddie watching. Even the Woods' five boys, Robert, Bruce, Bill and twins, Glen and Ben, pitched in to make housekeeping less a chore.

Actually the last book was closed and final exam finished for Mrs. Wood, October 31. All she had to do was wait until the formal ceremony, February 3, to receive her sheepskin. But she didn't sit and wait.

To Palatine and Rolling Meadows she came, November 1, and started using her new knowledge to revamp the schools' health department.

To help her she had an assistant, Mrs. Ressa Sipp, a registered nurse, and Mrs. Gray Sanborn, health department secretary. Together they brought physical exam forms up to date and worked to make parents aware of their important responsibility for children's health.

TWICE A YEAR each student in the district is weighed and measured, and Mrs. Wood compares these figures with national norms and the students' statistics for the past year. Each year students' vision and hearing are tested at school. Parents of first and fourth graders must have the family doctor complete a thorough physical examination.

A series of polio shots has been finished in Palatine schools, but the health department is still giving the fourth one to Salk and Kimball Hill students in Rolling Meadows.

MRS. WILMA WOOD, who leads a double-life as mother-grandmother-school nurse, recently had a unique double celebration. Her 25th wedding anniversary coincided with the completion of a bachelor of science in nursing degree. A sheepskin diploma is her symbol of many years of education. A silver necklace with hearts or round disks for each of her six children and two grandchildren is a symbol of her warm family life.

These are the big things—things that tell little about the everyday occurrences in Mrs. Wood's office. A teacher comes in for an aspirin. A little girl comes in because she feels sick to her stomach. She is given a blanket and lies down. Her family is called. (No child is sent home from school unless someone is at home to take care of him.) A boy is brought in from the playground with a bump on the head. Between five and 10 children are sent home from the district every day because they are sick.

These are the things that keep Mrs. Wood's days full and interesting. And she keeps a busy schedule, stopping at each school once during the week.

PEOPLE WHO congratulate Mrs. Wood on her degree usually ask, "Why? Why spend all the time and effort?" She earned her registered nurse certificate in 1934. Why did she need a degree?

"There's so much more to it than just a piece of paper," she said proudly, speaking of the symbol of a project that started before her marriage.

She noted that each class was so much more meaningful with her years of experience. Each case she worked with, with the Cook county department of public health became so much more poignant because of the knowledge that she would be a better school nurse.

One might be startled when he first enters the nurse's office in the Stuart R. Paddock school, Palatine. Mrs. Wood doesn't wear a uniform. No crisply starched, white-gowned figure is she.

"Often a uniform will frighten children," she explained, dressed simply but neatly in a gray wool jersey. "A public school nurse, today, is supposed to have the same education as a teacher, with bachelor's degree plus her registered nurse certificate and work in public health. Street clothes help put nurses on the same level as a teacher.

THE REASON Mrs. Wood came to Palatine to work is that her territory while doing hourly work for the county was in Palatine and Barrington. When she heard of the job opportunity, she jumped at the chance, because she had worked with many of the families here.

Not only has her degree given her the satisfaction of accomplishment, but it has sharpened her knowledge of psychology and interviewing techniques. Moreover, she has met and worked with persons whom she calls for help in special cases. If a child needs outside counseling for an emotional problem coupled with a health problem, she knows what specialist to send for or refer parents to.

Things are beginning to calm down now in the Glen Wood home. Mrs. Wood's double-life is now a different double-life. Instead of the daily trip to Loyola, she has been making since 1956, she comes to Palatine. Instead of hourly work for the Cook county department of public health, she does daily work with her children at school. Her long years of formal education are at an end. (B8

Along the Camp Fire Trail

by Dorothy Schomburg CLearbrook 3-7017

Wampum Drive

Arlington Heights Camp Fire Girls Wampum roundup held Sunday was well received by community residents as Camp Fire families, friends and neighbors opened their hearts and pocketbooks to generously contribute to the ever-expanding needs of the growing local organization. In a matter of five short years, the Camp Fire organization has grown from a group of six girls and one leader to a "totem pole" high of 50 active girls and adult workers. Pioneers of the local program have seen the formation of a leader's association, a district committee and a summer day camp, all in these few years.

Although final figures of the fund drive have not been tabulated, it is believed receipts will equal and perhaps top last year's drive. Many thanks go to all who contributed their time and talents to make this year's drive a successful endeavor. Thanks are also given to the residents of Arlington Heights for believing in today's Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds and enabling them, through generous contributions, to participate in the character-building, leisure-time activity program that will prepare them for tomorrow's womanhood as wives and mothers, responsible citizens, and service-minded individuals.

Welasi Day Camp

A meeting of the Arlington Heights day camp committee was held January 26 in the home of Mrs. Robert Roth, 537 S. Chestnut. Present were Mrs. Charles Snyder, Camp Fire co-director; Mrs. Harold Purvine, Bluebird co-director; Mrs. John Flodin; Mrs. Mirrel Kephart, council-wide day camp chairman; Mrs. Arthur Langerock; Mrs. J. A. Nelson; and Mrs. Roth.

Plans for the 1960 summer day camp were discussed. The theme "Golden Days in the Sun" was introduced. Decision was made to place emphasis on the nature part of the program to coincide with the conservation theme of the Golden Jubilee celebration.

North Arlington

It has been an active season thus far for the Petite Fleurs, second grade Bluebird group from Windsor school, under the leadership of Mrs. Edmund Gerber, with Mrs. Fred Neubert and Mrs. Carl Vigstedt acting as co-leaders. The group has had numerous projects, but one of the most interesting was making picture frames to hold each girl's portrait. These portraits were taken by Ed Gerber and were given to the parents for Christmas.

January 27 the girls toured the Arlington Heights Fire department. The girls participating in this trip were Jo Albertson, Judith Downing, Nadine Gar, Susan Gerber, Sharon Klinger, Sandra Janisch, Mary Langerock, Marcia Mangan, Jan McCarthy, Lynn Neubert, Suzanne Wille, Maryln Wrobleski and Nancy Vigstedt.

South Arlington

January meetings of the Okiciyapi Camp Fire Girls were devoted to several planned requirements of the girls' wood gatherer rank. January 6 and 13 the fifth grade girls learned Indian symbolism through the means of flash cards and symbol bingo games. A special service project for January 11 had the Okiciyapis baking cookies for patients at Elgin State hospital.

Planting tulip bulbs for the January 20 meeting was pleasant fun as each girl carefully placed five bulbs in a colorful plastic container. After indoor forcing, the planters will be given to shut-ins. After the meeting, the girls enjoyed a skating party at Pioneer Park rink.

Window display plans occupied the group's meeting time January 27. An exhibit of the seven crafts was decided upon for the Okiciyapi display in Landmeier's Hardware store. Dividing into committees of three, each committee planned and executed the craft display. All chosen activities were represented by the use of 8-inch dolls dressed in Camp Fire costume and carrying out an honor learned in the crafts of home, outdoors, creative arts, frontiers, sports and games, business and citizenship. The display was set up on February 1 and acted as a reminder for Sunday's Wampum drive.

Westgate

Lelataki Camp Fire Girls elected new officers at a recent meeting. Holding office for the coming three months are Alicia Martin, president; Susan Harding, vice president; Jan Nelson, secretary; Barbara Snyder, treasurer; Cindy Flodin, scribe. Mrs. John Flodin is guardian of the sixth grade group. (B9

Singing Sensation Set For Arlington Concert

Fresh from her triumphs in Africa and Germany, singing sensation Camilla Williams will appear in a concert during the evening of Sunday, Feb. 14 at the Arlington Heights high school.

Just returned from an eight-week State department-sponsored tour, under auspices of ANTA, when she sang before tumultuous audiences in Accra, Lagos, Leopoldville, Addis Ababa, Khartoum, Cairo and other African cities, Miss Williams is scheduled for a three-week tour in Israel with the Haifa orchestra, after which she will return to the New York City Opera company to sing "Madame Butterfly," and the role of Liu in Puccini's "Turandot."

IN 1954, after establishing herself in this country as an operatic star, she went to London, Vienna, Berlin and Salzburg, where she was hailed as a "phenomenon." The following spring, she returned to Europe to make her debut with the Vienna State Opera for the role of the tragic heroine of Puccini's

CAMILLA WILLIAMS

"Butterfly," was forced to sing the role four times more than the once she was engaged for, and signed a contract for the entire 1955 fall season.

In between, she did recitals in England, Holland, Germany and Switzerland. Things were fairly hectic on both sides of the Atlantic, when she had to appear in America in May of 1955 to sing scheduled dates and to appear as "Aida" on the Canadian TV network, to Vienna in June for a rehearsal of Menotti's "The Saint of Bleeker Street," and back in New York in July to sing Verdi's "La Traviata" with Richard Tucker and Martial Singher.

She was back with the Vienna Opera in the fall for the role of prima donna soprano, especially successful in "Butterfly" and scoring a triumph as Annina in "The Saint of Bleecker Street."

THE SAME SORT of magnificent triumph dogged her for her recital in Vienna in November, a chartered plane trip to Stuttgart to sing several arias, another to Bern for a single appearance in 'Aida," back to Vienna for the Mozart litany with the Vienna Symphony orchestra.

Back in America, she sang solo and in joint recital with Todd Duncan, appeared on Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell and New York's Lewisohn stadium, on the NBC-TV "Tonight" show and the Max Liebman's 'Salute to George Gershwin."

In 1957, she sang "Butterfly" with the Stuttgart and Munich operas and sang in Iceland, under the ANTA sponsorship. After concerts and radio and TV engagements in Stuttgart, Berlin, Cologne and Hamburg, she flew back for a Fourth of July concert in New York, and came back to Europe in the fall for "Butterfly" in Wiesbaden, for the "American Decade" festival in Brussels, for appearances in Vienna with the Vienna State Opera, concerts in Naumburg, Essen, Frankfort and Gratz.

LAST SEASON, she made a coast-to-coast concert tour of America, made operatic appearances in Vienna and Munich as well as with the Berlin Philharmonic.

Her first big "break" came when Lazlo Halasz, at that time musical director of the New York City Opera company signed her for the title role of "Madme Butterfly" for May 15, 1946. It was at this time her career was born. Feted by Time magazine, given a Page One Award by the Newspaper Guild, she became an overnight sensation.

Ridge Park—Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

Newcomers are the Richard Hulberts, who have moved to 1407 W. Elm from Chicago. Dick, 4½, and Susan, 2½, help make up the family. Mr. Hulbert is connected with the Pure Oil company.

Dick Sorensen, 943 N. Kaspar, and his son, Dickie, were among the boy scouts and their fathers who went to Camp Baden Powell Friday night for a weekend campout. Sunday morning they attended services at St. Peter Lutheran church commemorating the beginning of Boy Scout week.

When the Gene Barnes, 1016 N. Kaspar, got their idea for a Japanese party the three couples they invited didn't have the least idea what they were getting into. As they arrived last Saturday night, they were asked to take off their shoes at the door, in true Japanese style. And they didn't sit on chairs at the table either. Each one had his own cushion on the floor where he and she sat at a low table. They began the wonderful meal with tempura (frech fried shrimp, onion and green peppers dipped in tempura sauce). Egg foo young was next on the menu, followed by sukiyaki which Norma made right at the table and served over hot rice. To make the whole evening more authentic, everyone ate with chopsticks, drank woo loong tea and honest-to-goodness hot sake (wine to you). By the ed of the evening, they were all speaking fluent Japanese.

Sunday the Adolph Danes, 725 N. Harvard, went to a surprise birthday party for her niece, Mrs. Herbert Fox, in Winston Park. Twenty two of the family were there, each family bringing part of the dinner so that it was a real party for Mrs. Fox.

When Joe Dunne, 1016 N. Illinois, came back from a trip to Philadelphia recently, Kathleen felt as though she had gone along, too, hearing news of family and friends back there. One of the reasons for his trip was to attend a retirement party for his former Philadelphia boss and of course, he was wined and dined by brothers, sisters, their families and friends. By strange coincidence, their neighbor across the street, Ken Zadwick was in Philadelphia at the same time, but Joe didn't know it, and Ken ever did catch up with him. For a Valentine present, Kathleen took her mother, Mrs. Catherine Megeary, to see "Music Man" Tuesday evening. Kathleen and Joe had seen it when it first came to Chicago and enjoyed it so much that she was determined her mother should see it before it left town.

MANY RIDGE PARK folks will remember Alice and Bill Flanagan, who moved to Liberty, Mo., several months ago. Kathleen Dunne says she and Joe had a telephone call from them at Christmas time. They are very happy in their new home and enjoy being close to their families; however, they still miss their Arlington Heights friends and wish to be remembered to them.

The Len Garashas, 809 N. Harvard, celebrated his sister's birthday at the home of his parents, the Clarence Garashas in Chicago, Saturday.

All Ridge Parkers are invited to come out Saturday night to the Ridge Park Community ass. dance at the VFW hall from 9:30 to 12:30. Len Winkleman and his orchestra will furnish the music. No tickets to buy —just pay at the door.

As a reward for good report cards, the Frank Kiecas 821 N. Salem, took their children into Chicago Saturday for a tour of the Field Museum and Shedd Aquarium. They had lunch at the museum, so they could spend the whole day there, and like many other children, that is a big treat.

The Winston Kilburys, 1011 N. Illinois, were happy to have Ada home for the weekend. Ada is doing her first year of teaching at the Junior High school in Beloit.

LAST WEDNESDAY Corky and Lee Mirs, sons of Mrs. Louise Mirs, 932 N. Ridge, went to the father and son banquet at St. John church with their grandfather, John Bencic.

This past weekend was an especially nice one for the Donald Mohrs, 927 N. Fernandez. His brother and sis-David Mohr, came up from Table Grove, Ill., to be with them.

When Jean Kunberger, 926 N. Kennicott, entertained her bridge club last Thursday, the ladies presented Eleanor Searfoss with a farewell gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Waara, 804 N. Ridge, had an interesting house guest with them for a few days recently. G. P. Bhat of Baroda, India, has been living with several different families while studying the public school system here and the Waaras feel they were fortunate to have him in their home The children, too, enjoyed listening to him tell about life in his country.

There was a double celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Len Sundquist, 804 N. Fernandez, Saturday night. Rickey will be six February 11 and his sister, Corrine, was just one, so they celebrated with a family supper party. Both sets of grandparents were there, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Behnke of Silver Lake, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sundquist of Chicago, and their aunt, uncle and cousins, the Henry Donatelli family from Northbrook. Six candles lined up one half of the cake, decorated with a Zorro, and one candle was on the other half, decorated with flowers for Corrine.

MARK BLEDSOE, son of the William Bledsoes, 724 N. Fernandez, was six Saturday and to celebrate the occasion he invited the following children to a party in his honor: Andrew and Stephen Schlickman, Rickey Sundquist, Valerie and Joan Zachwieja, Gale Schuart, John Bird, Suzette Wilmotte, all from Arlington Heights and Kurt and Wayne Johnson from Grayslake. After playing a few games, the children sat down to ice cream and cake shaped like an American flag. Several of the kindergarteners who are studying the flag were simply fascinated by the cake. Friday the Bledsoes are looking forward to out-of-town guests arriving for a double celebration of Mark's birthday as well as his mother's.

Tommy Grey, son of the Bud Greys, 817 N. Yale, invited Judy Peterson to the Dartmouth winter carnival recently. Judy, a student at Lawrence college, Appleton, said she had a wonderful time and the fact that "Sports Spectacular" chose the winter carnival to televise added to the excitement of the weekend. While the Greys couldn't pick out Tommy and Judy on the program last Sunday, it was quite thrilling for them just to know they were there.

Doris and Cas Nastal, 701 N. Kennicott, are still glowing from the recent week's vacation to New Orleans. They stopped off in various spots on the way so they only had a few days there. However, they did manage dinner at the Court of Two Sisters, one of the famous eating places there. They fell in love with the French Quarters, took a boat cruise on the Mississippi and went to the races at the fair grounds. Coming home they stopped in Memphis, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky.

Bill Read, son of Ginny and Bob Read, 1019 N. Kennicott, is finding himself mighty busy at Adams State college in Alamosa, Colo. He has been made chairman of the Freshman Sweetheart dance to be held at the college February 12. February 21 he goes on a concert tour with the band to Texas and eastern Colorado.

FROM SHERWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackburn, 1004 Waiting, were delighted to have a sales meeting in Chicago bring their son, Robert, and his family here for a visit. The junior Blackburns, who live in Davenport, brought their children with them and Cindy and Bobby always look forward to a visit with Grandma and Grandpa Blackburn.

Over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Harold A Witt, 1138 N. Patton, drove Sharon to Springfield, Ohio, to look over Wittenberg University, where she will be going next year. She attended classes and parties and came home looking forward to the fall semester.

For 'lo these many years we have been talking to you good people about prescriptions and the compounding thereof. Now let's get down to some real serious discussion.

When you go to your family doctor and he gives you an examination and then a prescription to be filled — REMEMBER — that particular prescription is for you and ONLY FOR YOU. Your family physician knows, from that examination, your chemical make-up, and the chances are the prescription he gives you would do no one else any good and possibly a lot of HARM. Also, please REMEMBER — you pay good money for a prescription, so please take as your doctor has directed, and above all don't let anyone else in the family take your prescription.

Sure, I know, I sound like an old "fuddy-duddy", but we at Harris Pharmacy have built an enviable reputation in the compounding of prescriptions and we want you to get every protection.

Prophetic Spirit Lacking

Brotherhood Week Now Has Hollow Ring, Says Rabbi

This month's coming Brotherhood Week has a hollow ring for at least one northwest suburban clergyman.

"A pious platitude, mouthed and forgotten by most of us," Rabbi Karl Weiner of Temple Judea in Niles township told members of the Opportunity Council, Inc., in Arlington Heights last week.

The rabbi noted sadly that while he still believes in and works toward brotherhood, he no longer holds Brotherhood Week services during the traditional observance, February 21-28.

"Today's desire for normalcy and security and a fear of any change in the status quo makes a mockery out of talk of brotherhood in this country and in many other parts of the world," notes Rabbi Weiner.

HE DEPLORES the lack of "prophetic spirit" in the United States, the kind of idealism that dares to shout that this is not the best of all possible worlds, and believes our destiny is tied to the welfare of the earth's hungry and homeless.

Particularly disheartening, he notes, is the fact that so many young people are today afraid to commit themselves or become "involved" in any thing that smacks of "being different."

He cites a poll taken among an outstanding group of teenagers with which he was associated. Only 29 per cent classified themselves as idealists.

TYPICAL comments by these youngsters were:

—"I'm idealistic now, but I suppose when I get to be my parents' age I'll become more realistic."

—"I guess I'm more idealistic than my parents because I've spoken out that we can by our efforts change things. They warned me, however, to be careful, that I could get in trouble by thinking like that."

This "Let's not rock the boat" attitude often results in young peoples' frustrations being channeled into delinquent acts, reasons Rabbi Weiner, who once served on the psychology faculty at Colorado college.

"Teenagers are discouraged from venting their normal aggresions against social and economic injustices. Thus their rebellion leads them to take a temporary exemption from society's rules in the form of delinquent acts.

"They may become 'beatniks' for two or three years or juvenile delinquents. If they don't get into too much trouble, they'll eventually rejoin society and follow in the safe, sound footsteps of their parents," says Rabbi Weiner.

HE BLAMES some of the recent acts of anti-semitism in this country on young people "slashing out at being trapped by the status quo."

The resurgence of many of these acts can also be attributed to people wanting to forget unpleasant things that upset the notion of brotherhood, says the rabbi, born and educated in Germany.

"Many of our young people don't know what it was like in Hitler's Germany. They've never been told of the horrors of concentration camps and gas chambers. As a consequence they don't realize the significance of the swastika. Even some youngsters in my own synagogue draw these symbols on the sidewalks," notes Rabbi Weiner.

The rabbi, who left Germany in 1939, feels West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and most of his cabinet are anti-facist, many of them having been persecuted under the Nazi regime. "They, like us, however, have failed by wanting to forget as quickly as possible the atrocities of the war. Most of Germany's youth has little idea what it was like in their country 20 years ago," says Rabbi Weiner.

HE NOTES that in 1947 German history textooks gave 71 pages to the Nazi era. Today, 34 pages are given to the same subject.

In 1947, three pages discussed the persecution of the Jews and five lines referred to the concentration camps. Today, the Jews are covered in 14 lines, and there is no mention of the concentration camps.

Instead of sermonizing over the equality of man during Brotherhood Week, Rabbi Weiner suggests it might be more appropriate to dust off the films of Belsen, Dachau, Buchenwald and other films made of concentration camp inmates at the end of the war.

St. John United Church of Christ, Evergreen and James aves., Arlington Heights, is planning its annual Winter Picnic February 14 at 3:30 p.m. All church families are invited to bring their picnic supper and enjoy the fellowship of a summer Sunday school picnic, this time in the winter.

Movies of former picnics, vacation school activities and slides of other activities will be shown, and there will be barbershop singing for all.

A box will be placed in the entry hall of the church for members to place their estimate of what the temperature will be outside on February 14 at 4:30 p.m. The winner will be the person guessing closest to the actual temperature at that time, as given in Chicago. PROVIDING FOR THE PRORATION OF COST OF CONSTRUCTION OF A SANITARY SEWER INSTALLED IN 1206 TO 1220 NORTH MITCHELL STREET IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS.

WHEREAS CARLSON & TOSCH, who at the time were the owners of and interested in lots and premises located at 1206 to 1220 North Mitchell Street in the Village of Arlington Heights, have heretofore caused to be constructed, by private contract, and have paid the cost thereof, a sanitary sewer in 1206 to 1220 North Mitchell Street, from and connecting with other facilities on said North Mitchell Street, which said improvements, with their appurtenances so constructed, can serve property on said North Mitchell Street, and described as follows:

Lots 11 to 15, inclusive, in Block 10, and Lots 6 to 10, inclusive, in Block 11, in the Northwest Highlands Subdivision, being the East Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian,

WHEREAS said improvements so constructed are and will be of benefit to said adjoining and adjacent lots and property hereinbefore described; and

WHEREAS the said CARLSON & TOSCH were given permission to construct said improvements by private contract, with the understanding that the Village of Arlington Heights be not charged with any part of the cost thereof, and with the further understanding that an ordinance be passed by the Village of Arlington Heights, after the completion of said improvements, requiring that the owners of any property adjacent thereto desiring to make use thereof pay the proportionate share of the cost of said improvements, to be used in reimbursement of the said CARLSON & TOSCH, or its successors or assigns, for the proportionate cost of the construction thereof; and,

WHEREAS, the cost of said improvement was $1,230.00 and paid for by the said CARLSON & TOSCH and that the total number of lineal feet so improved was 480 and that there is, therefore, a per lineage cost of $2.57 per foot on such property, and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of the Village find said costs and charges to be reasonable and in their judgment less than the cost of such improvement if constructed by special assessment; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COUNTY OF COOK AND STATE OF ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That the cost of said improvements, which do not include any house connection or service pipes, is hereby determined and fixed at the rate of $2.57 per lineal foot of property adjacent thereto in 1206 to 1220 North Mitchell Street, said amount being the cost of the construction of said improvements and engineering and other costs paid for the construction thereof by the said CARLSON & TOSCH.

SECTION TWO: That no person, firm or corporation, being the owner of or party interested, nor any contractor, agent or other representative of such owner or party interested, of the above and the following described premises, to-wit:

Lots 11 to 15, inclusive, in Block 10, and Lots 6 to 10, inclusive, in Block 11, in the Northwest Highlands Subdivision, being the East Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian shall connect to or obtain service from said improvements without first obtaining a permit from the Village of Arlington Heights to make such connection. Such charge and the amount so paid, shall entitle such property owner to connect to any or all of said improvements, and shall be in addition to the usual charges and fees payable to the Village for making sewer connections. Such payment shall not relieve such property owner or owners from the payment of the established sewer rentals chargeable by said Village for sewer service rendered and furnished.

SECTION THREE: All moneys collected by the Village from such adjacent property owners for such connection charges, provided for in the preceding section of this ordinance, except the usual connection fees and charges made by the Village in other instances, shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt thereof by the Village, be paid to the said CARLSON & Tosch, or their successors or assigns, less, however, an amount of two per cent (2%) to be retained by the Village for the cost of collection legal and publication costs with a minimum fee of $100.00 paid from the first sums collected.

SECTION FOUR: Any person, firm or corporation being the owner or owners of or parties interested in any of said property being capable of being served by said improvements, and any contractor, agent or representative of any such person, firm or corporation making connections with the improvements hereinbefore described, without first making application to the Village for a permit, and without first paying the fees and charges herein provided for, shall be subject to a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00), and upon conviction thereof, the Village shall enter upon said street and remove all such connections so made within the street lines of said street.

SECTION FIVE: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication.

New Bank Reports $1 Million Total

Opened less than three weeks ago, The Bank of Arlington Heights' resources already total over $1 million.

As of February 4, deposits totaled $601,000, with $430,000 in commercial accounts and the balance in savings accounts.

Personal checking accounts number 211, and savings accounts, 269. Forty business checking accounts have been opened.

PARTICULARLY gratifying, notes Fritz Wolf, bank president, is the number of accounts opened by individual depositors, aside from those of businesses and institutions.

Wolf also notes that his bank has invested $61,710 in the community in the form of loans for autos, trailers, home improvements, revolving credit and businesses.

Service to the community and its residents, says Wolf, is the number one consideration of the bank.

"Of course we're interested in banking money, but we also want to invest it for people where they can get the best return," he says.

AS AN EXAMPLE, he notes that his bank watches customers' checking accounts, and when they become large, advice is given on how a better return could be realized. On the other hand no account is too small for the bank to handle. A $1 account has been opened in the bank.

Future plans call for a savings program for students to be initiated shortly.

SECTION TWO: That no person, firm or corporation, being the owner of or party interested, nor any contractor, agent or other representative of such owner or party interested, of the above and the following described premises, to-wit:

Lots 113 to 117, both inclusive, in Thomas A. Catino's Addition to Arlington Heights, Illinois in the Southeast Quarter of Section 31, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian and also parts of Section 4 and 9, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian, and part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 31, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian shall connect to or obtain service from said improvements without first obtaining a permit from the Village of Arlington Heights to make such connection. No such permit shall be issued unless the applicant will first pay to the Village of Arlington Heights for the use of the said ST. SIMONS EPISCOPAL CHURCH, or its successors or assigns, a sum equal to $2.38 per lineal front foot per lot of such applicant's property to be served by such improvements. Such charge and the amount so paid, shall entitle such property owner to connect to any or all of said improvements, and shall be in addition to the usual charges and fees payable to the Village for making water connections. Such payment shall not relieve such property owner or owners from the payment of the established water rentals chargeable by said Village for water service rendered and furnished.

SECTION THREE: All moneys collected by the Village from such adjacent property owners for such connection charges, provided for in the preceding section of this ordinance, except the usual connection fees and charges made by the Village in other instances, shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt thereof by the Village, be paid to the said ST. SIMONS EPISCOPAL CHURCH, or its successors or assigns, less, however, an amount of two per cent (2%) to be retained by the Village for the cost of collection, legal and publication costs with a minimum fee of $100.00 paid from the first sums collected.

SECTION FOUR: Any person, firm or corporation being the owner or owners of or parties interested in any of said property being capable of being served by said improvements, and any contractor, agent or representative of any such person, firm or corporation making connections with the improvements hereinbefore described, without first making application to the Village for a permit, and without first paying the fees and charges herein provided for, shall be subject to a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00), and upon conviction thereof the Village shall enter upon said street and remove all such connections so made within the street lines of said street.

SECTION FIVE: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication.

Guido Franch Invents Extraordinary Powder

GUIDO FRANCH, who says he can make water burn like gasoline, touches a match to the mouth of a bottle containing one drop of his chemical. The solution flamed brightly. Franch claims his invention, if marketed, would revolutionize transportation. (B-8

Mixture Is Better Than Gasoline . . .

The days of the poverty-stricken, socially-ostracized inventor are not over.

People even in this day of tremendous scientific development, still have a tendency to tell a fellow he's nuts if he comes up with something out of the ordinary.

Ask Guido Franch.

Franch is an inventor of the Edison and Wright brother school.

He lives in a small frame house along route 53 just north of Army Trail rd. in DuPage county.

And he's got quite a story to tell.

IT STARTS when he was a young man in the southern Illinois coal town of Livingston.

Franch was the son and grandson of coal miners. He was the oldest of 15 children, and the family lived in poverty.

When Guido was almost 15 years old he quit school after finishing seven grades and went to work in the mines. That was in 1925.

About the same time a distant relative of his, an Austrian scientist named Alexander Kruft, came to Livingston to live out his days in retirement.

KRUFT, after the first great war, had been one of the top research chemists in the German government.

He brought with him a vast file he had compiled on a synthetic rocket fuel he was trying to perfect.

After he established a home in Livingston, Kruft found an eager protege in the young Guido. Taking the boy into his confidence, he began a 16-year schooling program in chemistry.

When the old man died in 1951, he left Guido the ideas and research he had gathered during his lifetime.

SINCE THAT time Guido Franch has been working on his project, supporting his wife and two children in poverty, hoping against hope that his invention may someday revolutionize the world of transportation.

Four years ago, he says, he reached perfection in an experiment. He had done all he could without outside help.

After more than 30 years of work, during which time he held jobs as a railroad fireman, a machinist, a handy man, and a lumber yard worker to support his family, he had come up with a powder manufactured from coal hydro-carbons that, when mixed with water, would run an automobile more efficiently and powerfully than gasoline.

From one ton of coal, Franch says, he can make 50,000 gallons of his fuel. The powder, when mixed with water, produces a chemical change in the water and turns it into a highly-explosive liquid.

The solution smells like gasoline. But it is clear, like water. And it burns without the oily waste of gasoline.

Franch has tested it out in automobiles. The owners of the cars who have submitted to the experiments testify that the machines ran better than with the gasoline.

Franch says that he has had considerable trouble trying to market his product.

HIS BIGGEST problem is money. Today he is working part time for a tool company. He is sick with what he thinks is heart disease. He has never seen a doctor because he feels he is too poor.

He has conducted his experiments over the years in secret laboratories. He has been accused of running confidence games to raise funds for his work. He has been driven out of towns when neighbors discovered his labs.

He even had one burn down when firemen sprayed water over some of the powder while fighting a small electrical fire in a building where he was working. The powder mixed with the gallons of water to create a roaring inferno.

Today Franch has his own secret laboratory in a shed behind the home of a northwest suburban friend.

He is working as much and often as he can to ready 200 pounds of his powder for demonstration before a national concern that may be willing to invest in it.

FEBRUARY 19 at 8 p.m. in the basement of the bank of Rolling Meadows, Franch is going to demonstrate his experiment at a meeting of the Rolling Meadows American Legion post.

He has great confidence in his invention, 35 years worth of confidence.

"Everyone is afraid to make a fool of himself today," he says. "And you're wrong until you prove you are right. People will call you a fool 100 times for 100 years and then in 10 minutes admit they are wrong."

Someday the name Franch may be found in the history books alongside those of Edison, Wright and Bell. (B13

Post Office Honors Famed Pony Express

This was the sort of job advertised for those under 18; another preference - although not a requirequirement - was that applicants be orphans.

Other desired qualities: that the employes be skinny, may even wiry fellows, and that they be willing to risk death daily.

The employer of these skinny, wiry, death - daring 18-year-old orphans was, indirectly, the United States post office.

The Civil Service requirements have changed considerably since this period of the mailman's history, although he is still expected to brave the usual elements of snow, sleet, etc.

THE advertisement was for Pony Express riders, and has been brought to mind again with centennial celebrations planned this year to commemorate the wild gallops of these teenage mailmen.

As part of the centennial year celebrations, the Post Office Department will issue a new Pony Express commemorative postage stamp next July 19 at Sacramento.

On the same date, the National Pony Express Centennial association plans to re-enact the Pony Express runs, starting out - just as the original service did some 100 years ago - from both St. Joseph and Sacramento.

The reenactments are expected to take nine days for both eastward and westward pushes, while the runs over the 1,966-mile original route required about 10 days.

A RECORD RUN was the dispatching of Lincoln's inaugural address in 1861, carried by the horse-riding mail carriers in less than eight days.

Among the rarities growing out of this unique method of mail distribution were Pony Express bibles which were handed out to the youthful riders when they joined the service. The youngsters were also required to pledge to their employers, the transportation firm of Russell, Majors & Waddell, which operated the service:

"I hereby swear, before the Great and Living God, that, during my engagement, and while I am an employe of Russell, Majors & Waddell, I will, under no circumstances, use profane language; that I will drink no intoxicating liquors; that I will not quarrel or fight with any other employe of the firm, and that in every respect I will conduct myself honestly, be faithful to my duties, and so direct all my acts as to win the confidence of my employers. So help me God."

TODAY'S MAILMAN, who encounters the perils of carniverous canines and unshoveled walks, should take note of some of the obstacles the Pony Express rider had to hurdle.

He often would have to outrun Indian pursuers, pack snows and howling storms, and face extremes of heat and cold.

Yet, those youngsters had an enviable survival record; only one rider was ever lost to the Indians.

Typical of the riders was Johnnie Fry, a native Missourian who weighed in at less than 125 pounds, and is credited by some as being the first of his kind to leave St. Joseph on April 3, 1860.

AN EARLY description observes: "Though small in stature, he was every inch a man. His run was from St. Joseph to Seneca, Kansas, about 80 miles, which he covered in an average of 12½ miles an hour, including all stops." Fry later entered the Union army, and was killed in 1863, taking five assailants with him, according to reports.

Another famous rider was William F. "Buffalo Bill" Cody, who entered the carrier-on-horseback service in his early teens. Bill still holds the record in courier service of the longest continuous performance of its kind when he completed a ride totaling 384 miles without any real rest period.

NONE OF THE Pony Express employes grew old on the job; the cross-country telegraph was completed in October 1861, making their services obsolete.

Despite its brief life, however, the Pony Express has been credited with many contributions, including the fact that it served as communications line between East and West during the early uncertain days of the Civil War.

A "PONY EXPRESS" BIBLE

THIS BIBLE, a rarity today, was passed out to young riders entering the Pony Express Service. Commemoration of this courier service will be celebrated this year with centennial.

Birds, Romans, Bishop Are Credited for Valentine Date

The few disgruntled and unromantic souls who think Valentine's Day is for the birds may be at least partly right.

Although the exact origin of the romantic day is shrouded in antiquity, research indicates the festivities probably date back to the pre-Christian days of the Roman Empire.

Romans celebrated a Feast of Lupercalia each Feb. 14, reports Carroll Means, greeting card historian and an international authority on antique valentines.

WHY DID THEY choose Feb. 14? That's the date the birds were supposed to begin their spring mating.

As part of the festival, maidens fashioned love missives and dropped them in a large urn. Young swains drew names from the urn, and during the ensuing year each courted the maid whose name he drew.

The custom was introduced later to England by the Romans. In adapting the festival to Christianity, the Church called it the Feast of Saint Valentine after a bishop who had been martyred on Feb. 14, 270 A.D.

Shortly before his execution, the bishop reportedly left a note for the Roman jailer's young daughter who had befriended him. He signed it, "Your Valentine."

ANOTHER FAMED early forerunner of today's valentine was a note written in 1415 by the Duke of Orleans to his wife while he was imprisoned in the Tower of London after the battle of Agincourt. That valentine is preserved in the British Museum.

Paper valentines with incribed sentiment date from the 16th century. The first printed valentines may have been the frontispiece of the "Valentine Writer," a book of verses printed in London that offered assistance to the inarticulate.

These were issued as early as 1669. Later "Valentine Writer" books, many of which are preserved in the Hallmark Historical Collection of antique greetings, provided ready-made poetry for ladies and gentlemen less gifted in the art of verse writing.

"Valentine writers," Means said, "often penned their romantic greetings in the language of the legal and financial worlds."

"SUMMONSES, writs and court orders, as well as bank notes and the 'IOU,' served as forms for the valentines of the late 19th century. The valentines often were lavishly embellished with simulated seals, scroll borders and other symbols of authentic documents.

"By 1880, hand-painted copper-plates by such artists as Francesco Bartolossi were in demand. These were followed by wood-cuts and lithographs, and some had embossed frames.

"With the introduction of penny postage and envelopes to England in 1840, the exchange of valentines increased and the use of lace paper, delicately ornamented, became popular.

"In the United States, crude wood - cut Valentines were produced by Robert Elton and Thomas W. Strong of New York. These gave way to lace-paper delicacies imported from England and, in turn, were superceded by the less expensive creations of Esther Howland of Worcester, Mass., which first appeared in 1850," Means said.

HEAVY GOLD work heralded the start of the Victorian "gingerbread" period in 1860. Cut-out bouquets ranging from tiny appliques to massive decorations were the rage of the 1870's.

By 1880, the trend was away from fine lace. The lettering that appeared on the valentines had become more distinct, and printed attachments were being used, Means said.

Valentines in the final decade of the 19th century developed into elaborate mechanical greetings, many of them German, in many shapes - ranging from battleships to picnics in the park. (B8

'Gentletress' Is New Look

"Gentletress" is the new look in the northwest suburban area during National Beauty Salon week, Feb. 8 through 13, according to Alfred Martin, of Martin's Hair Fashions, 23 S. Main, Mt. Prospect.

Martin, who is a member of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association of the Northwest Suburban area, reports that this is a trend styling that "is destined to emphasize the lady in every woman.

"The silhouette of the new style," he continued, "is an easy oval sometimes tilted or asymmetrically balanced, but always proportioned to the individual. Hair will be dressed in a natural flow of soft, draped waves, drifting with its natural growth.

"Its silhouette will be less bouffant than in previous seasons. Any fullness in the silhouette will be natural and adaptable."

A NATIVE of Switzerland, Martin explained that hair coloring, too, will be featured during this week. Most popular will be blond tones of honey hues, smoky casts and muted shades of ash.

Among beauty salons participating in the national celebration are: Arlington Beauty service, 11 N. State rd., Arlington Heights; Beauty Bar, Arlington Market; Clip' n'Curl Beauty salon, 108 S. State rd., Arlington Heights. Martin's, and John's Beauty salon, 12 W. Busse, both of Mt. Prospect; Ann's Beauty shoppe, 217 N. Brockway; Della's Beauty salon, 37 N. Hale; Fran's Beauty salon, 107 S. Northwest hwy., and Style salon, 10 S. Brockway, all of Palatine. (B8

School Costs

Public school costs in the U. S. today total more than $15 billion annually, up from slightly less than $6 billion in 1950.

Plastic Surgeon Opens New Office

One of the northwest suburban area's newest acquisitions in the professional skills is a plastic surgeon, Dr. Richard C. Schultz, 1430 N. State rd., Arlington Heights.

A native of Detroit in 1927, he was educated at the University of Michigan and Wayne University College of Medicine, served his internship at Harper hospital in Detroit.

DR. SCHULTZ received his surgical training in the latter hospital, in the U.S. Army hospital, Ft. Carson, Colo., St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, the University of Illinois Research and Educational hospital and the Hines Veterans hospital.

He and his wife, who is a former Detroit newspaper reporter, have a three-year-old boy and a 9-months-old girl.

The surgeon, now enjoying a practice in the village, served with the U.S. Army from 1955 to 1957, and presently is associated with the Northwest Community, the Hines Veterans and the University of Illinois Research hospitals.

HE IS HOPEFULLY anticipating a Fulbright scholarship which will take him to Sweden for study with an internationally famous surgeon. If the scholarship materializes, Dr. Schultz will leave with his wife, Pauline, and two children for Uppsala, Sweden, for a year's advanced study with the celebrated plastic surgeon.

Should he win it, it will be for clinical research in plastic surgery and reconstruction and hand surgery. The doctor would be sent abroad on the scholarship by the United States government.

Public opinion, though often formed upon a wrong basis, yet generally has a strong underlying sense of justice.

Dick Hauff Home Again

Colorful Club Owner Reveals Big Plans

DICK HAUFF, owner of the Mt. Prospect country club, stands behind the counter in the new pro shop in the west wing of the club. Hauff is putting $50,000 into remodeling the clubhouse and course facilities before opening this spring.

by TOM McSHANE

Richard W. Hauff is back in town.

And the dynamic, 26-year-old owner of the Mt. Prospect country club already is flying high, spending money, and readying his club for a grand opening with a new look.

Breezing in from Las Vegas where he has spent the last five months organizing a multi-million dollar corporation that is currently putting up a 21-story hotel and gambling casino next to the Sands motel, Hauff immediately kicked in $50,000 for improvements in the club house and golf course at the country club.

Hauff this week announced his plans for the club to allay what he called the fears of the people of Mt. Prospect who have been speculating about his financial standing and the future of the course.

HE SAID he has absolutely no plans to sell or subdivide the property. This reiterates the stand he took in November when it was rumored by several developers that he was going out of business.

To prove his good intentions he pointed with pride to a brand new pro shop that has been built in the west wing of the building, a remodeled cocktail lounge and dining room he plans to call "The Glass Room" that is going up in the south wing, and a large dance floor that is going into a remodeled room on the second floor.

Hauff plans to open the club to the public for dining and dancing Fridays and Saturdays beginning March 21.

THE second floor dancing room will be the ultimate in styling in this area, he said. This he calls "The Walnut Room," and his plans call for dancing to the finest bands and combos he can find along with a nightly floor show featuring some of the top talent in the Rush st. entertainment world.

The locker rooms, bar, main dining room, and old pro shop also are receiving attention. The locker rooms have a new coat of paint, the bar will be completely refinished, the dining room refurnished, and the old pro shop remodeled into a coffee shop that will open every morning at 6:30 for breakfast.

Hauff's plans are almost as ambitious and fantastic as life itself has been for the young man with the mysterious background.

OUTSIDE the building he has planned a new 300 by 150 foot parking lot north of the club house. He plans to enclose both this and the old lot with shrubs so that they will be invisible from surrounding homes.

The golf course, with a new superintendent of grounds, Hank Dorband, who was in charge of the Mission Hills course for 10 years, will be beefed up with additional shrubs and enlarged tees. Two "halfway houses" will be built, and a $12,000 water well has been dug to keep the fairways and greens in shape.

Norm Becker, former assistant pro at the Las Vegas Municipal country club will serve as pro at Mt. Prospect this year, Hauff said.

Also on the planning boards for this year is a large swimming pool to be constructed south of the club house.

Hauff, complaining about the cooperation he has received from some of his club members, said that he planned to bring in outside members to help support his vigorous expansion plans.

"I'm going to keep the club private," he said, "but how long it stays that way depends on the members."

EXCEPT FOR the main dining room and the night club on the second floor which will be open weekends only to the public, the club facilities will be available only to members, he said.

He also is accepting bookings for company, church, and large private golf outings and parties.

Hauff said he was forced to expand the membership and turn to the party catering services because certain club members were arrears in payment of bills.

"But," he said, commenting on the financial condition of the club, "my accounts receivable are more than my accounts payable."

COMMENTING ON his social life, which has won him more than a little notoriety on the playboy circuits of Chicago and the west coast, the young man said that he currently is dating a Las Vegas show girl who will be visiting Chicago soon, that he has little interest in getting married, and that he is concentrating most of his talents at present on making money.

"I haven't been on Rush st. in five months," he said, smiling.

When asked about Darlene Marshall, the ex-wife of syndicate hoodlum Marshall Caifano, the woman he was escorting when he was slugged by two men on a near North side street last September, Hauff said he didn't want to talk about her or her husband.

"I don't want to talk about Caifano because he has no part in my business dealings or my life," he said.

HE ALSO wanted to make clear that he had no court actions pending against him. One case, in which he was accused of defrauding a Chicago lawyer of $5,000, was thrown out of court last month for lack of evidence.

After giving himself a clean bill of health for all his dealings, financial and romantic, the young club owner laughed uproariously at the one question everyone has been asking:

"Where'd you get all this money, Dick?"

Year-Long Wait On Zone Appeal

Arlington Heights and interests seeking to erect a gas station at a village intersection are waiting almost a year now for a decision by a court hearing officer.

This came to light when Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington last week granted the property owner leave to amend the complaint against the village. The amendment must be made to include an attack on the village's recently adopted comprehensive zoning ordinance as well as on the ordinance in effect when the suit was filed in 1957.

THE CASE involves the southwest corner of Arlington Heights road and Thomas st., a vacant tract held in trust at the LaSalle National Bank.

At hearings concluded last March before Jacob Shamberg, master-in-chancery, the village argued residential zoning of the property is reasonable.

Lawyers for the owner contended this classification makes the land "useless and valueless" because Arlington Heights or State road is a major traffic artery carrying heavy truck and passenger traffic in and out of the village. (A

Garden Books Are Available

One doesn't need a "Green thumb" to brighten one's home with blooming plants this winter. Even a beginner can follow the simple suggestions in gardening books at the Arlington Heights Memorial library, 112 N. Belmont, and be sure of success, accordington to Mrs. Charles Stadelman, librarian.

One of the best and most attractive guides to indoor gardening, she reports, is the recently published "Better Homes and Garden's House Plants." The book, which is illustrated by more than 300 color and black and white photographs, describes hundreds of indoor plants and supplies suggestions for their cultivation and care.

There are many other helpful books on house plants available. (A

St. James Guild Plans Men's Night

St. James Women's guild, Arlington Heights, will meet at 8 p.m. in the school hall Thursday, Feb. 18. This will be the annual "men's night" and all men in A musical skit entitled, "Program which has been planned for their enjoyment.

A musical skit entitled,, "Program Madness," under the direction of Mrs. Mary Best, a member of the parish, will be presented. Talents of 32 other ladies of the parish will also be used in the program. Some of those featured in the skit are Ellen Janda, Barbara Kiesa, Betty Yochem, Norma Barnes, Lorraine Stefanik, Pat Haney, Mary Jane Miller, Maureen May, Joan Schaeffer, Mary McGough, Rose Clemmons and Margo Grosspietch.

Modern Etiquette

Q. My bridegroom's parents, who live in a distant city, are giving a reception for us about a week after our wedding. May I properly wear my wedding gown at that time?

A. You may wear your wedding gown, but not your veil.

Q. What can a house guest do when the hostess serves him several vegetables at dinner which he dislikes?

A. If he would like to be invited again sometime, he will take at least a small portion of everything offered. Surely he can get some of it down!

Q. How does one properly eat clams on the half-shell?

A. Hold the clam down firmly with the left hand and remove the meat with a twist of the special small fork designed for this operation. Dip your morsel into the sauce and swallow the whole clam.

Q. When are "informals" properly used in correspondence?

A. The "informal" is a fold-over card, and may be used for any short note — for sending and replying to invitations, for enclosing with a gift, and so on. This type of card is not proper, however, as a letter of condolence.

Q. Is it necessary for a bride-elect to reply to notes of good wishes from friends who have seen her engagement announcement in the newspaper?

A. While not necessary to write notes, she may telephone some of her friends and she certainly should thank all those whom she meets.

Q. My cleaning woman, who is from the south, always addresses me as "Miss Joan," instead of "Mrs. Smith." Is this improper?

A. I think not. This is an old southern custom for house servants, and I think it has a certain charm about it.

Q. Are all plates removed from a dinner table before serving dessert?

A. Yes, the table should be plateless. Salt cellars, pepper pots, unused flat silver, are taken off the table, and the crumbs are brushed off with a folded napkin onto a tray held under the table edge.

Q. When, if ever, is it proper to say "thank you" to a waiter?

A. You thank him for any courtesies you think are "above and beyond the line of duty." You do not say "thank you" simply for the proferring of any dishes, however.

Q. If a girl is being married in a simple, informal ceremony, and she is wearing a traveling dress, does she have a number of bridesmaids?

A. In a ceremony such as this, the bride usually has only one attendant, her maid or matron-of-honor.

Q. Is it considered excusable now to "reach" at the table?

A. While the old "boarding-house reach" is still considered the sign of a chow-hound, we can properly reach for things that we can get as easily as our neighbor can — instead of being over-genteel and bothering him needlessly to pass them.

Q. When there is to be a supper for the bridal party after the rehearsal at the church, is it necessary to invite the clergyman — and, if so, his wife?

A. If you know the clergyman well (in which case you would probably know his wife well, too), they would both be invited. Otherwise, no.

Q. Does a lady or a gentleman chew gum in public places?

A. This is quite all right. But remember, there is a "ladylike" and a "gentlemanly" way of chewing gum!

Faith Lutheran Women To Study Dinnerware

Mrs. Wesley D. Kasl will speak before members of the Woman's society of Faith Lutheran church at its monthly meeting Wednesday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. in the church hall. Mrs. W. Ellertson will preside at the business session, which is an anniversary meeting.

Mrs. Kasl will illustrate her talk with a color and sound film entitled "The Art of Keramos." The film depicts the art of manufacturing dinnerware, from primitive times to the present and provides a pictorial tour of the factory that manufacturers Franciscan china.

Mrs. Kasl, whose husband is district sales manager for Franciscan ware, will have on display five different types of table settings, and she will explain the differences between them. A question period will follow the talk.

A social hour follows the program and will be provided by the February hostesses. Members and their guests are urged to attend. (A

Eastwood Events

'You Can Count On Her'

By Ellie Anson — CLearbrook 9-4655

Senior Scouts

52 Senior Girl Scouts enjoyed a winter sports weekend recently at Camp Ravenswood near Lake Villa, Ill. The event was arranged by the senior planning board, which is made up of representatives of all Senior troops. A similar weekend is being planned for all eighth grade troops for the first weekend in March.

The following troops from this area attended: all girls from Mrs. Sargol's troop 334 which is composed of Senior Scouts from Arlington Heights and Palatine, all girls from Mrs. Kay's troop 609 from Wheeling, and some eighth grade girls from Mrs. Yadon's troop 296 of Arlington Heights.

North Mt. Prospect

Brownie troop 59 has been making place mats to help make Valentine's day something special for the residents of the Thorsen Rest Home in Arlington Heights. Their leader is Mrs. Dolores Haugh.

South Mt. Prospect

Intermediate troops enjoyed song and game rests last week. Singing was led by Mrs. Keith Jewell, and Mrs. Guy Courtney and Mrs. Ruth Stock directed the games. Mrs. George Edgecumb, Senior Scout leader, instructed the troops in the proper flag presentation and color guard duties. The meeting was under the direction of neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Lydia Gallup.

Troop 499 and its leaders, Mrs. A. Montgomery and Mrs. E. Schimek, enjoyed an ice skating party recently at Lions park rink. The outing was one of the requirements for the backyard camper badge.

A guest speaker highlighted last meeting. To complete the the program of Troop 511 at its international friendship requirement for their second class rank, the scouts invited Mrs. Bruce McBeath, who was born in Japan, to speak of her life in that country. The girls especially were interested to hear of the speaker's personal experiences during an earthquake. An interesting question and answer period followed the program. Mrs. James Griffin and Mrs. George McNeil direct the troop.

Prospect Heights

The seventh grade girls of troop 675 and their leaders, Mrs. M. S. Jacob and Mrs. J. K. Walker, welcomed as a guest to their meeting recently Mrs. Philip R. Glaser, a beautician. The troop is working on its good grooming badge. Mrs. Glaser spoke to the girls about hair styling, care for hands, nails, and skin and answered questions in general.

Two Boy Scouts, Richard Lambert and Ronald Sessions, attended two meetings of Girl Scout troop 470 and taught the fifth grade girls all the knots for their second class requirements. Troop leader, Mrs. John Campbell, praised the boys for their willingness and ability and said they did an excellent teaching job.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glader of 202 N. Brighton pl. welcomed their second son Charles, who weighed 7 pounds 9 ounces, was born in Resurrection hospital. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knudsen and Mr. and Mrs. William Glader, reside in Park Ridge. Four-year old Gary is the Glader's elder son.

Busy redecorating and getting settled are new neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lees and their son Norman. The Lees who are from Wauseon, Ohio, moved into the home formerly occupied by the Luc LeBon family at 900 E. Euclid ave., on December 17. Ten-year old Norman is in the fifth grade at North school.

Virginia Terrace News

Itasca country club was the scene of much gaiety Saturday night as the Wilson PTA's "Valentine Whirl" continued into the early morning hours, with Jerri and Bill Rix, Shirley and Ralph Landes, Betty and Bob Gumz, Martha and Chuck Dillman and Pat and Bill Ross all agreeing that it had been an evening to remember.

One of the several neighborhood birthday clubs had its monthly celebration Friday evening at the home of Mary Kale, 1322 N. Illinois, with the birthday celebrant being Adelaide Fairfield. Other guests included LaRue Reed, Charlene Bang, Jo Lampasona, Barbara Montgomery, Doris Koser, Helen Marineau, Evelyn Schmidt, with the welcome mat being put out for newest member, Barbara Bade. The girls enjoyed playing games, catching up on the latest neighborhood news, and, of course, the serving of birthday cake and coffe.

Another Terrace group to enjoy the evening at Itasca country club included Joan and Ed Donath, Phyllis and Hal Fluhrer, Joan and Frank Zaucha, Betty and Ed Cech and Betty and Jack Sorensen. June and Kilburn Visk had to forfeit the night of fun due to that still prevalent flu bug. The evening was completed for Betty Sorensen when she proved to be the recipient of a prize.

Mary Healy, 1329 N. Chicago, is justly proud of her husband, Dan, who has just been informed he passed the difficult CPA exam taken this past November, the climax of which will be a formal banquet held this coming April.

TWO OTHER couples dancing away the hours Saturday night were Mary Margaret and Jack Francis, 1321 N. Wilke, and their neighbors, Vaneta and Ray Kellogg, 1341 N. Wilke.

Ruth and John Griffith, 1326 N. Race, and Lena and Lee Duss, 1322 N. Race, were among the many who joined their neighbors and had a ball for themselves at the "Valentine Whirl."

"K.C.", 2-year-old son of Diane and Charles Moser, 1418 N. Illinois, was one of the few Terrace children to celebrate a birthday this past week, but wishing him many happy returns of the day February 4 were his brothers, Chuckie, Michael and Mark, sisters, Valerie and Michele, as well as Michael Brown, Janet and Beth Grassly and Suzanne Von Ebers. Joining Diane in dessert and coffee while the children spent time playing were Ann Brown, Nancy Grassly and Jane Von Ebers.

Guests at the home of Cathy and Bill Gunnison, 1407 Clarendon, who co-hosted an open house cocktail party with Polly and George Herbert, 1227 N. Chicago, prior to attending the dance Saturday night at Itasca country club were the Bob Gumzes, Ed Cechs, Ray Nottolis, Jim Elfs, Bill Hotzes, Ray Funks, Frank Fietsches, close neighbors, the Jack Martins, Ridge Park, and former neighbors, the Joe Lennons, who now live in Westgate.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Bunny and Bill Reinhardt, 1414 N. Illinois, wish a speedy recovery for their 4-year-old son, Jamie, who is recovering in Northwest Community hospital from pneumonia.

The PTA dance was also attended by Margaret and Frank Chupich, 1316 N. Yale, who joined several Terrace friends at the country club.

February 7 Thomas Lee, son of Joan and Kenneth Herrmann, 1443 N. Race, was born in Northwest Community hospital, weighing 9 pounds 1 ounce. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herrmann, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Johnson, Palatine. Ken's sister, Mrs. Marcella Prestiano, Chicago, and her daughter, Marlene, are presently at the Herrmanns' taking care of Timmy's brothers, Kenny and Robert, and sister, Lori.

There was notable Terrace attendance at the "Hearts and Flowers" dance Saturday night, same being sponsored by the Junior Women's Club of Arlington Heights. Members of one fun loving group were the Curtis Waynes, Don Ballards, Don Kieffers, Ray Crouches, Terry McGuires, Emil Lechelts, John Noerenbergs, and the Dick Davises. By the way, much credit goes to Pat, 1255 N. Race, for the success of the dance, of which she was chairman.

A change of pace was in the offing last Saturday for Beatrice and Walton Alexander, 1346 N. Illinois, as their children, 4-year-old Ross and 2-year-old Lucille, were ring bearer and flower girl, respectively, in the wedding party of Walton's niece, Jae Frances Ziegler, St. Charles. After attending the wedding and reception, the Alexanders, including the baby, Robert, joined friends and relatives at the home of the bride and enjoyed a pleasant visit and buffet supper before heading for home with their weary, but happy, children.

LA VERNE AND BUD Reichert, Jo and Robert Hult, Mary and Dominick Massa and Linda and Darryl Thompson met at the home of Marva and Bernhard Kuhl, 1518 Clarendon, Saturday night for a pre-dance cocktail, after which they, too, enjoyed the "Valentine Whirl."

After a somewhat hectic journey into Chicago early last Wednesday, Sandy and Bruce Mullins, 1415 N. Illinois, are happy to announce the safe arrival of their daughter, Marianne, in Passavant hospital February 3. The baby, who weighed 5 pounds 4 ounces, will no doubt be the delight of her brothers, Michael and Kevin, who are now being cared for by their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Dolores Spietz, Park Ridge. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mullins, Quincy.

Mrs. C. W. Vogtritter, Front Royal, Va., arrived here last Monday to spend about a month with her son, Robert, 1208 N. Race and his family, which includes Shirley, and grandchildren, Kim, Gary and Scott.

A late buffet dinner was served at the home of Joan and Curtis Wayne, 1237 N. Chicago, last Saturday night following the "Hearts and Flowers" dance at the Elmhurst country club. Among their guests were the Don Kieffers, Ray Crouches, Terry McGuires, Elm Lechelts, John Noerenbergs, Burt Joosts, Sherwood, Gordon Segerstens, Glenview, and Polly and George Herbert, who toddled in from the "Valentine Whirl."

Henry, son of Doris and Arnold Silver, 1247 N. Chicago, celebrated his ninth birthday last Sunday by attending the matinee performance at the Arlington theatre, folowed by dinlington theatre, followed by dinents and sister, Leslie. Presbyterian Women To Study Missions

The fourteen circles of the Women's Association of the Presbyterian church in Arlington Heights will hold their monthly meeting February 17. Special emphasis will be placed on the work of the church in town and country in a program presented by the national missions chairmen in each circle, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Vanek, secretary of national missions for the association.

"People, Land and Church" by Dr. Rockwell C. Smith, will be used as the basis for this program. Dr. Smith spent 30 years in the town and country church ministry, 18 of them as a professor of rural sociology in a theological seminary. With such a wealth of experience behind him, he is a well-qualified authority on the subject of our "rural" brothers, and presents much food for thought and discussion.

AN ORDINANCE

PROVIDING FOR THE PRORATION OF COST OF CONSTRUCTION OF A SANITARY SEWER IN THE 1200 BLOCK ON NORTH MITCHELL STREET IN THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS

WHEREAS GEORGE SHEETS AND MILDRED SHEETS, who at the time were the owners of and interested in lots and premises located on the east and west side of the 1200 Block on North Mitchell Street in the Village of Arlington Heights, have heretofore caused to be constructed, by private contract, and have paid the cost thereof, a sanitary sewer in said 1200 Block on North Mitchell Street from and connecting with other facilities in said street, which said improvements, with their appurtenances so constructed, can serve the property on the east and west side of the 1200 Block on North Mitchell Street and described as follows:

Lots 16 and 17 in Block 10 and Lots 4 and 5 in Block 11 in Northwest Highlands, a subdivision in the East Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois,

and,

WHEREAS said improvements so constructed are and will be of benefit to said adjoining and adjacent lots and property hereinbefore described; and

WHEREAS the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS were given permission to construct said improvements by private contract, with the understanding that the Village of Arlington Heights be not charged with any part of the cost thereof, and with the further understanding that an ordinance be passed by the Village of Arlington Heights, after the completion of said improvements, requiring that the owners of any property adjacent thereto desiring to make use thereof pay the proportionate share of the cost of said improvements, to be used in reimbursement of the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS, or their heirs or assigns, for the proportionate cost of the construction thereof; and,

WHEREAS the cost of said improvement was $820.00 and paid for by the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS, AND that the total number of lineal feet so improved was 240 and that there is, therefore, a per lineage cost of $3.41 per foot on such property, and

WHEREAS the President and Board of Trustees of the Village find said costs and charges to be reasonable and in their judgment less than the cost of such improvement if constructed by special assessment; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, COUNTY OF COOK AND STATE OF ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That the cost of said improvements, which do not include any house connection or service pipes, is hereby determined and fixed at the rate of $3.41 per lineal foot of property adjacent thereto on the east side and the west side of the 1200 Block of North Mitchell Street, said amount being the cost of the construction of said improvements and engineering and other costs paid for the construction thereof by the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS.

SECTION TWO: That no person, firm or corporation, being the owner of or party interested, nor any contractor, agent or other representative of such owner or party interested, of the above and the following described premises, to-wit:

Lots 16 and 17 in Block 10 and Lots 4 and 5 in Block 11 in Northwest Highlands, a subdivision in the East Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 19, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the Third Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois shall connect to or obtain service from said improvements without first obtaining a permit from the Village of Arlington Heights to make such connection. No such permit shall be issued unless the applicant will first pay to the Village of Arlington Heights for the use of the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS, or their heirs or assigns, a sum equal to $3.41 per lineal front foot per lot of such applicant's property to be served by such improvements. Such charge and the amount so paid, shall entitle such property owner to connect to any or all of said improvements, and shall be in addition to the usual charges and fees payable to the Village for making sewer connections. Such payment shall not relieve such property owner or owners from the payment of the established sewer rentals chargeable by said Village for sewer service rendered and furnished.

SECTION THREE: All moneys collected by the Village from such adjacent property owners for such connection charges, provided for in the preceding section of this ordinance, except the usual connection fees and charges made by the Village in other instances, shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt thereof by the Village, be paid to the said GEORGE SHEETS and MILDRED SHEETS, or their heirs or assigns, less, however, an amount of two per cent (2%) to be retained by the Village for the cost of collection legal and publication costs with a minimum fee of $100.00 paid from the first sums collected.

SECTION FOUR: Any person, firm or corporation being the owner or owners of or parties interested in any of said property being capable of being served by said improvements, and any contractor, agent or representative of any such person, firm or corporation making connections with the improvements hereinbefore described, without first making application to the Village for a permit, and without first paying the fees and charges herein provided for, shall be subject to a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00), and upon conviction thereof, the Village shall enter upon said street and remove all such connections so made within the street lines of said street.

Just for Fun

Convenience for Leisure Time Is Parks' Function

BY JOEL CARTER

So much of the publicity on park district activities concerns classes and directed recreation programs that one may forget the parks' primary function.

First and foremost the Arlington Heights park district exists to make facilities convenient for citizens to use at their leisure. The various classes, shows, and special events that are run remain only a vital supplement to that task.

The classes and so forth are necessary to ensure that the tax payers are able to make full use of their recreation facilities and use their leisure time beneficially but the publicity necessary to promote them often obscures the "quieter" function.

OVER 150 meetings were held in the park fieldhouses in January. Most of the groups were recreational in nature and all had some worthwhile purpose. They ran the gamut of sizes ,functions, and natures including such groups as the Newcomers club, Alcoholics Anonymous, Swinging Squares, Village Theatre, churches, a model train club, and the Arlington Art Center.

Ice skating is available at Hasbrook parks and at the retention basin on Olive st. whenever the weather is cold. A hockey rink is provided at Pioneer.

IN THE FALL, outdoor basketball courts are usable at most of the parks. In December, Recreation park fieldhouse becomes an indoor sports center every afternoon except Sunday. Anyone may come in to play basketball, table tennis, or numerous quiet games. The center operates until March when the floor becomes a roller rink where skating is available at a small admission to cover costs.

A physical conditioning room with dumbbells, barbells, stall bars, mats, and other necessary paraphernalia is located at Recreation fieldhouse. Anyone may go in and use it whenever the building is open except on Wednesday and Friday nights. At that time the space must be cleared for the Youth Center.

There is open badminton at Recreation on Wednesday nights starting at 7 p.m.

AN ARTS and crafts room is available at Pioneer park to artists, ceramists, weavers, metal crafters, and anyone who works with their hands and needs place to spread out materials.

The lounge at Pioneer has a pleasing decor and provides a relaxing setting for just doing nothing. The latest issues of several popular magazines are always there.

In the summer there are tennis courts, swings, slides, diamonds, horse shoe courts, lounging benches, shuffleboard courts, an archery range, see-saws, jungle gyms, and other facilities for young and old. All these things are free, require no reservation or permit, and are readily available.

Teenage Girls Discovering That Dancing Is New World

THOUGH GIRLS at Palatine high school have had modern dance for half a year, they are beginning to design their own sequences. Girls in this triangular setting are Bonnie Mastin, Sally Knop, Gail Tolbert, and Judy O'Leary. (B8

CAROLYN CALEDRONE, star performer at Arlington high school this year, hopes to dance professionally. With Miss Joanne Austin, she demonstrates a position to other dancers. Seated are Nancy Owen, Suzanne Russell and Leslie Silver. Standing are Carol Mobus and Sandy Hartlein.

MAINE TOWNSHIP High School West student Jerry Thomas presents a gavel and base, which he made in his wood-working class, to Roland Fletcher, commander of the Des Plaines American Legion Post 36. The highly-seasoned block of walnut from which the gavel was made was given by Julius Kranz (left) of Palatine. According to Kranz, the wood came from a huge walnut timber from a barn built in 1854 on the old Van Harrs farm south of Palatine. Robert A. Pelikan (right), industrial arts teacher at Maine West, selected Jerry to turn out the gavel and base on the lathe. "It is a beautiful piece of work," Commander Fletcher said. "The Des Plaines American Legion Post is proud and honored to accept it. Speaking for the entire Post, I wish to express our appreciation to you gentlemen for this most useful and beautiful gavel and base."

"Dancing is more than an art; it is another world. A world where a girl may lose herself in a fantasy of movement; a world where she can bring out her inner feelings in her dance."

These are the words of Judy Elgas, an Arlington high school junior, who is now working with 27 other girls to put finishing touches on the school's Orchesis program.

Judy's words were echoed by seven Arlington girls, Friday. All are participants either in the school's modern dance classes or Orchesis, the formally organized, more polished group of modern dancers.

MODERN dance is becoming more popular in American high schools. Palatine offers it for the first time this year. Arlington is a veteran at the art.

To the uninitiated, modern dance is nothing more than a group of girls in tight black outfits waving their arms and making strange motions to music.

Ask any modern dance teacher or student, however, and they will tell you differently. "Modern dance is an expression of your ideas, feelings, and experiences," said Mrs. Barbara Kamman, teacher at Palatine high school. "It is not an imitation or pantomime, but an expressive art; true unto itself."

Miss Joanne Austin, who has taught dance at Arlington for the past three years, said modern dance gives one the ability to use his body as an instrument of expression. To accomplish this, she teaches her girls to be conscious always of what each muscle is doing.

According to Mrs. Kamman, modern dance developed years ago as a revolt against the ordinary way of doing things. It was a form of striving to express a new feeling of freedom from the rigid techniques of ballet. Like the artist with paint brush who went wild with color and shape, so modern dance at first was purely an emotional expression. Isadora Duncan, the founder of modern dance, was an emotional dancer.

IT TOOK men and women like Martha Graham, Ted Shawn and his wife Ruth St. Denis, to bring discipline to modern dance. This meant careful drill in exercise and technique.

When one watches a young lithe girl dance to the alternately smooth and frenzied beat of a particular phonograph record, one has no feeling she is revolting against an established art. one has the feeling she is making art; making beauty.

The girl is Carolyn Calderone, star performer this year at Arlington. Miss Austin has high hopes for this senior, of whose work she said, "Just a shrug of her shoulder on the stage makes you shiver."

To watch Carolyn at work is to watch one who has learned dance not as a revolt against conformity, but as a means of giving her reactions, ideas, and feelings to others.

Carolyn's work and that of all young modern dancers is example illustrating Miss Austin's feeling that modern dance and older dance forms are gradually moving closer together. The ballet has slowly come to accept much that modern dance is striving to convey. Likewise, modern dance has come to recognize many of the values of the highly disciplined ballet.

FOR THE first time this year, Miss Austin's girls work at a bar, newly installed in the small gym where modern dance has its headquarters. The bar gives a dancer support. She doesn't use her muscles incorrectly in her deep concentration upon keeping her balance. The bar helps a girl keep her body straight. The bar in Arlington high school runs along two walls. A third wall is lined with cabinets that house costumes, made by the girls themselves, records, phonographs, mirrors, and props.

These are instruments of the finished product—a fully choreographed sequence of expressions; a dance. The raw materials of this product are the feelings and emotions of each dancer.

Discipline for one of Miss Austin's dancers starts early, the freshman or sophomore year in high school. Girls may elect to take dance for a semester instead of physical education.

Freshmen keep a notebook with classwork notes, library research, a record of performances they attended, their own commentaries on these performances, and critiques from outside sources.

PAM BRYANT, a sophomore, chose dancing last year, because she felt "dancing is an important thing in every girl's life. It develops grace in movement."

Fran Lahoj kao lsaoso- ,hp Fran Lahojko, also a sophomore, chose dance, because "it helps develope poise and gives one an appreciation of some of the finer arts."

Diane Roszak, a freshman, chose dance, because she hopes to use it as a future occupation. Two other freshmen, Linda Johnson and Janet Hugg, chose dance to improve their posture and figures, and as a preparation for Orchesis.

A sequence or expression is introduced to beginners in this manner. Miss Austin chooses a poem or piece of music. (Girls later choose their own). Key words or musical phrases are singled out. If the key word in a poem for example, is "beauty," Miss Austin asks, "How does this word make you feel?" Girls work with all parts of their body — head, arms, legs, torso — to show best the feeling of "beauty."

Usually a dance is started with a theme, Miss Austin said. If something like jazz is chosen, the girls are asked to think of the colors, then feeling the beat evokes.

Mrs. Kamman, in Palatine, asks her girls to find an idea first; then find the music to go with it. She doesn't find music, then ask her girls to fit motions to it.

ORCHESIS seems to be the peak for which high school girls strive. In Orchesis the real test of creative ability and expression comes. Miss Austin's Orchesis group meets every day. Mrs. Kamman has no formally organized Orchesis, because modern dance is too new in Palatine. Girls have recently organized themselves into a club, however, and are working toward a program, May 14.

Girls don their leotards and go to work, first on basic exercises to keep muscles in tone, then on dance routines.

The leotard is thought by many to be a strange costume. It certainly doesn't do much to flatter the chubby or undeveloped figure. But the leotard is an important part of the dance.

"Shorts or a gym suit hide a multitude of sins," said Miss Austin. "The leotard shows the movement of every muscle, and only when I can see what my girls are doing, can I correct or praise them."

Freshmen and upperclassmen try out each spring for Orchesis. Only the best are chosen, a number varying between 20 and 30. This year there are 28 at Arlington.

The group is scheduled to perform at half-time at four basketball games, holiday assemblies, the school talent show, and for outside groups. This year the girls appeared at the Lutheran home, at Miner junior high school, and at fashion shows.

The biggest event of the year is their own two-hour show, this year, March 18 and 19. The theme is "Orchesis looks at Show Business," and routines will show future trends and recall years as far back as 1906. Costumes and sets have been designed.

GIRLS ARE given costume materials and patterns, which Miss Austin draws, two weeks before a show. Each girl then makes her own. Costumes for a basketball performance cost about $10. Before Miss Austin taught at Arlington, costumes were rented. During the past three years, however, quite a wardrobe has been built — everything from airy pink ballerina skirts to sweeping robes for a moonlight number and coquette can-can dresses.

For Friday's basketball performance, Orchesis members wore old fashioned bathing suits for a 20's routine and ragged jeans and sweatshirts for a hobo number.

Thus, the pioneering of the greats: Duncan, Graham, Shawn, and St. Denis is being carried on at the high school and college level.

The pinnacle of achievement for modern dancers, according to Miss Austin would be individual concertizing. When she spots someone like Carolyn whom she feels has potential, Miss Austin gets outside evaluation and advice. After high school Miss Austin advises several years of intensive training. Carolyn will attend special classes in Chicago. Summer stock work is also excellent training. Then a young girl will have additional poise, experience and contacts needed to try New York.

NOT ALL, of course, try the stage. Television and movies offer a young dancer other professional outlets.

Miss Austin knows most of her girls will stop dancing after high school; after college at the latest. But the exposure to the technique of dance gives every girl who passes through a class an appreciation for the art of dance.

And besides this modern dance teaches what Carolyn Calderone expressed as "the ability to get along with people, accept other views and ideas, cooperation, and a broad concept of art and form."

BEAUTIFUL SONGSTRESS Anita Bryant, singing star of Don McNeill's Breakfast club program and CBS TV's George Gobel show, will make a special guest appearance Monday, Feb. 15 at the Men's club meeting of First Presbyterian church, Arlington Heights. She will sing several religious songs. Also scheduled for the program is Willis J. Jensen, past president of the Opportunity Council, Inc., who will speak on "The Latin Americans Among Us."

Mitchell Issues Suburban Appeal

Stephen A. Mitchell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, appealed to suburbanites to rise up against the "untouchables" in voting down machine-chosen candidates in the April primary elections.

Mitchell spoke last Friday noon at a meeting of the Lansing Rotary club.

HE DEFINED the untouchables as the 22 Chicago ward bosses who, he said, select aldermen, appoint and fire precinct captains and distribute and take away payroll jobs.

Speaking of people who have moved to the suburbs, Mitchell said: "One of the reasons they moved to the suburbs was to get away from the boss system which ignores or dominates individual rights.

"These newly-arrived suburbanites find they can have a direct say-so in their government, something they found extremely difficult to get while they lived in Chicago," said Mitchell.

". . . this time," says Mitchell, "the voters have a real choice. It is time for them to step up to be counted."

CANDIDATES who filed for the Democratic nomination for governor besides Mitchell are Lar (America First) Daly, Otto Kerner and Joseph D. Lohman.

Saturday Mitchell shook hands at the Lincoln Village shopping center in Lincolnwood. Saturday night he attended a dinner at Waukegan at which Sen. Paul H. Douglas spoke (A13

Debonaires At Mothers' Club Event

Friday evening's birthday program of the Arlington Heights St. Peter Lutheran church Mothers' club will feature a half-hour performance of precision drill and baton twirling routines presented by the Debonaires of Miss Jennie's School of Baton.

This versatile twirling corps of 28 girls has arranged a program containing all the elements of fine showmanship. Their program consists of a variety of numbers, three of which are performed by the Senior and Junior Debonaires, "Barnum and Bailey's Favorite," "Sleigh Ride" and "Look Sharp." The Petite Debs, the youngest members of the corps, will present "Anchors Aweigh," "Synco pated Clock" and 'Sandpaper Ballet."

CAROL OJA, 921 N. Patton, Arlington Heights, and Paula Schomburg, 305 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, will be featured as baton soloists and a lighted baton routine will be presented by 11 members of the corps who received their prized batons for selling the greatest amount of candy during a recent area-wide candy sale to raise funds to purchase uniform accessories and equipment for the corps.

The Debonaires, newly-engaged in open competition, placed third in Saturday's NBTA Class "A" Twirling contest held at Brook Park school in LaGrange Park. First and second place trophies were awarded to the Starliners of Lyons, Ill., and the Twirling Parkettes of Evergreen Park, Ill. a(B9

Let's All Thrive Thru Thrift

Nothing can stop the march of inflation like personal savings in contrast to exaggerated expenditures beyond personal income.

Thrift tends to slow or stop inflation because some of the possible buyers voluntarily remove themselves from the market. On the other hand, borrowing adds to the sums which buyers can spend and promotes price increases.

What is true of individual consumers applies also to other spending units, including businessmen, farmers, private institutions and governmental agencies.

Two Families Left Homeless By Fire; Church Offers Aid

MOUNT PROSPECT FIREMEN train stream of water into burning interior of home which was occupied by two Mexican-American families. Our Saviour's Lutheran church of Arlington Heights came to assistance of the families. (EG

FLAMES ROAR OUT OF ROOF of home for Mexican-American workers and families provided by Charles Klehm & Son nursery off of Arlington Heights rd. north of Higgins rd. in blaze last Thursday.

The embers of a raging fire which left two Mexican-American families homeless were still smouldering last Thursday when the membership of an Arlington Heights church had fanned out to begin a collection campaign of assistance.

By Saturday, clothing and household items more than sufficient to meet the two families' needs had been secured by members of Our Saviour's Lutheran church.

Left homeless by a blaze which gutted a building provided for workers by the Charles Klehm & Son nursery in Elk Grove township were Fernando Villa, his wife and their four children, and Frank Vega, his wife and their six youngsters.

THE MOUNT Prospect fire department and Elk Grove Village police answered the fire call. The blaze's origin was of undetermined origin, although defective wiring was suspected of touching it off.

The two families each shared a half of the building, located off Arlington Heights State rd. north of Higgins rd.

Our Saviour's church was contacted Wednesday morning for assistance, and emergency needs were met by the Forest View school's Parent-Teacher association.

According to Church Pastor John P. Petersen, the Christian Service committee of the Women's Guild and the Parish Zone plan group were contacted to "collaborate on a survey of the congregation to collect the needed items."

Mrs. Earl Snodgrass, chairman of the Christian Service committee, and Mrs. Dan Anderson, acting on behalf of her husband, who directs the parish zone plan, began contacting wives of zone captains.

CAPTAINS, in turn, telephoned members in their zones. By mid-afternoon, more than 200 homes had been approached on the plight of the families.

Robert Hult and his Church Council Christian Service committee by Saturday were sorting the clothes and household belongings donated, which were forwarded to the two families.

By Tuesday, Rev. Petersen reported, one family had moved into temporary quarters with relatives and the other one had found an apartment. (ACM

Zoning Appeal Is Dropped by Owner

An Arlington Heights court victory in an important zoning case no longer is threatened by reversal.

An appeal by the landowner to the Illinois Supreme court has been dismissed by Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington acting on a village motion.

THE CASE involves a decision rendered last summer by Circuit Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski, who upheld the village's single family zoning classification on 3½ acres of land on the north side of Foundry road east of Dryden road.

The owner, William T. Wengler, formerly of Arlington Heights who now resides in Denver, filed a notice of appeal. He wanted to void the zoning and erect 72 town houses, a contemplated $1.25 million project.

However, the appeal wasn't pursued, and as the deadline for filing of the record passed without delivery of the necessary papers the village moved for dismissal.

THE KLUCZYNSKI ruling has been termed by Stephan Jurco, village attorney, "far reaching and one of the most important decisions ever rendered for Arlington Heights."

It involved what Jurco called the "first head-on test" of the Village's zoning ordinance.

Judge Kluczynski, who reversed the findings of a master-in-chancery, said "the very purpose of zoning is to prevent intrusion of less restricted uses into areas which are stable, and rising in value, character, and appeal."

Magistrate To Discuss Court Setup

Police Magistrate Robert M. Buckley will speak on "The Court" at the next meeting of the Greenview Estates Civic association at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 15 at the Lauterburg and Oehler funeral home, Northwest highway and Prindle, Arlington Hts.

Buckley will talk on court actions, including various types of cases, disposition of these cases and the post of police magistrate and how it can be most efficiently managed.

ALL NEW residents of the Stolzner section were urged to attend. Association members were reminded to pay annual dues to the block director, at the February meeting or to Richard White, 532 S. Donald ave., financial secretary.

Reports from block directors and recreation committee members indicate the Christmas program was successful. (A

Emergency Room Quiet This Week

Though the population rose --this week 79 patients and 12 babies—at Northwest Community hospital, the emergency room stayed quieter than usual.

However, those that did come in for treatment were unusual cases. Two students were injured in gym accidents. James Valukas, 14, of 245 S. Brookdale lane, Palatine received a concussion (any blow to a bone) of his left wrist while playing basketball at his high school, last week.

THE SAME day, Wednesday, Jan. 3, James Brome, 17, of 901 Sherwood dr., Prospect Heights took a six foot fall in the Prospect high school gym. He has a skull concussion, but no fracture.

Mrs. Maria Paloma, 31, of Red Oak st., Bensenville, suffered the partial loss of three fingers on her right hand after she got it caught in a punch press at work. She is in good condition after the partial amputation of the three middle fingers. (B8

St. Peter Mother's Club Celebrates 19th Birthday

February 12 will be the date of St. Peter Mother's club combined meeting and birthday party. The husbands are invited to enjoy the program planned for the evening.

One of the features will be a topic discussion by Ronald Kiel, eighth grade teacher, on "Homework." Among other points he will stress the need for homework in grade school to prepare for higher education and the training of individual study ability.

In a lighter vein the Debonaires from Miss Jennie's School of Baton will provide some active entertainment. Special party refreshments will be served.

FEBRUARY 24 the school dining room will magically be changed into a Hat Bar. From 1:30 to 9 p.m. spring hats of exciting new colors and styles will be on display. Everyone is invited to come and choose their Easter bonnet or select a perky new hat to brighten their "end of the winter" wardrobe. Little girls will also find an Easter bonnet to their liking in this "one day hat bar." The working girl may come after working hours and find just the chapeau of her choice.

This is the last reminder for the club's February 17 luncheon at 12:30 at Old Orchard country club. A program of dramatic readings and barbershop harmony is being planned. Anyone needing transportation for the luncheon may call Mrs. Norman Runge, Cl 3-7038. (A

Heat Lamps Keep Patron Warm, Snug

Patrons of McDonald's hamburger eatery at 1592 E. Northwest hwy. will be as warmly toasted as the hamburgers they consume now.

It seems that infra red heat lamps have been installed, just for this purpose during the cold winter season.

THE NEW HEAT lamps have been placed above each of the two service windows of the winter front at McDonald's, Richard Linnell, manager stated.

Now, as the patrons wait for their hamburgers, the heat from the lamp will not only thaw out the "deep freeze" atmosphere of the winter addition, but patrons as well.

During the summertime, the winter front is taken down, for the convenience of the hamburger consumers.

Prospect JV's Stop Glenbard East, 45-44

Glenbard East's junior-varsity quintet overcame a 10-point halftime deficit but still fell one point short Monday afternoon, 45-44, to Bob Hoese's Prospect Knights.

Prospect held a 29-19 halftime advantage but Glenbard's cagers put on a third quarter surge which put them in front, 38-37. The Knights held an 8-6 margin in the final period and that was the game.

Gordon Buchanan and Tom Polzin each collected 12 points for Prospect.

Revenue Reaches $4 Million Peak

Revenue collected for the state by the office of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier reached an all-time high in 1959, surpassing by almost $4 million the amount collected in 1958.

Total collections amounted to $105,633,499.10, an increase of $3,702,771.42 over 1958.

MOTOR VEHICLE license fees more than accounted for the overall increase, the $93,019,435.85 received being $5,326,389.90 greater than the amount collected the preceding year. Secretary Carpentier's office attributed the rise primarily to an increasingly effective enforcement program, particularly in the field of truck licensing.

Driver license fees declined $1,900,598, to $3,166,096, reflecting the fact that 1959 was the third year of the license renewal cycle, a period in which license renewals are always far less than in either of the other two years.

COLLECTION of the 1952 truck license deficiencies dropped to $259,687.93, a decline of $292,628.10, as a result of the steadily declining amount outstanding. Chauffeur license fees were $960,530, a decrease of $16,516, and certificate of junking fees were $37,549, a drop of $3,086.

In all other categories, collections increased, Secretary Carpenier's office said. They were: motor vehicle title fees, $1,811,576, up $178,446; title search fees, $16,347.20, up $2,137,35; corporation franchise fees and taxes, $6,051,555.11, up $345,655.44; securities fees, $192,310.85, up $45,650.81; index division fees, $83,152.12, up $8,899.21, and miscellaneous fees, $35,259.04, up $8,420.81. Competition Stiff Among 10 Schools

by BOB BUCHANAN

Tournaments take over this weekend! The first one is the district wrestling tournament, set for Palatine high school Friday and Saturday.

Ten northwest suburban high schools, including five from the Paddock Publications served area, will vie for honors in one of the toughest and most interesting of the 14 district tournaments being held throughout the state.

Coach Joe Farina's East Leyden grapplers, who have won their last 43 dual meets, are heavily favored to capture the title they won easily last year.

FRIDAY night's matches will separate the men from the boys as those going into Saturday's semi-finals also will be eligible to compete in the sectional tournament a week hence at DeKalb against the Elgin district champions.

Entered in addition to East Leyden and the host Palatine team are Arlington, Prospect, Fenton, West Leyden, Maine East, Maine West, Willowbrook and York.

Friday's matches will begin at 7 o'clock. Semi-final matches are set for 1 p.m. Saturday with the third place and championship matches at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

EAST LEYDEN'S lineup is uncertain Farina said. The Eagle coach did not want to disclose the exact position he'll wrestle several boys who may be switched in order not to give the opposition an advantage to figure out loop holes.

Regardless of how Farina moves his boys, it won't make much difference. It is very possible that Farina could have all 12 of his wrestlers seeded since none has lost more than three matches.

Three of them, Larry Barron at 127, Dennis Owens at 138 and Lason Monroe at 165 are unbeaten, as Leyden has piled up impressive dual meet wins over all the top suburban schools plus taking home the Waukegan holiday tournament title.

SEVERAL schools will have trouble in the tourney due to their youth. West Leyden, which has only two "bona-fide" varsity matmen, has only freshmen and sophomores in school. Prospect in its first year has no one older than a junior. Both West Maine and Willowbrook are also in their first year of operation, though both have seniors.

Of all new schools, Coach Dick Carlini's Maine West team is the best, but then Carlini has his troubles too. Maine West's squad is one of extremes — very strong and very weak.

Two very strong boys, Tim Byram and Darrell Wells, both of whom were unbeaten were dismissed from the squad recently for disciplinary reasons. Byram was 95-pound state champion last year and was wrestling 112 this season. Wells was unbeaten at 133 this year.

WITH THESE two boys Maine West stood a chance for the district crown. Now the Warriors must battle Palatine, Arlington and York for the runner-up spot.

Illness may hamper Bob Emmons' Arlington team. Rich Edelblute, Card 165-pounder, has been suffering from a blandular infection. If he is able to go, the junior matmen might be ranked in rather weak weight.

Also on the ailing list are 112-pounder Dan Hansen of Maine West with an injured elbow and 120-pounder Jim Liska of Prospect who is recovering from injuries.

WEIGHTS considered rather weak in addition to 165 for seeding four top boys are 133, 145, and 165.

The tough weights are 120 and 103. Boys such as Jim Diomar of Fenton with 13-5 and second in last year's district, and unbeaten freshman Larry Solomon from West Leyden may not even be seeded.

Palatine's Jim Nordin, who sports a 14-11 record and is North Suburban conference champion, may be left off the 103 seeding list since four men have a 9-2 or better record.

SEEDING OF the grapplers in the district tournament will eb held late Friday afternoon fllowing the weigh-in of the boys competing.

Here's the way the weights seem to shape up:

95 POUNDS — Three boys are top-ranked. Bob Jonas, winner of all 12 matches, has beatenBob Foster who is 14-2 for East Leyden and Johnny Anderson of Palatine who is 16-2. Foster has one of his wins over Anderson. Dark horse is Prospect's Dick Krause.

103 POUNDS — Sal Fuscone, who has lost one bout for East Leyden, probably will get top ranking since he was second in both the district and sectional last year at 95 pounds. Also vying for top spot will be Joe Ortiz of Arlington with a 15-1, including a win over Dennis DeStewano of Maine East who is 12-1. Tim Carlin is 11-1 for Maine West and Chuck Nelson is 9-2 for York. Freshman Nordin also can't be overlooked too much.

AT 112, PALATINE Capt. Chuck Conley will probably be top-ranked now that Byram is no longer competing. One of Conley's two losses was to Byram. The other was when Conley was wrestling at 120 East Leyden's Bill Penkava is a top man and Arlington's Bob Trausch, who is 4-2 this year and was 20-2 last season, must be considered in the seedings.

THERE'LL BE a gang fighting for the 120-seedings. Pirate Brad McCreery may have the inside spot with his 23-2-1 record since he beat East Leyden's Tony Rende. But then there is Henry Rosedale at 9-1-2 for Willowbrook, George Shartle of Arlington at 9-2-1 and Terry Richardson of Maine East with 10-3 as well as Solomon, the West Leyden freshman. In a dual meet, Richardson edged Shartle.

WHO TO RANK first at 127 is the question. East Leyden's Barron is 15-0 but Maine West's Bill Henning is 12-0. Then there is Palatine's Joe Bellenca who is 18-7 including a two-point loss to Barron. Fenton's Joe Cuthbertson is 18-1, losing to Bellanca and a fifth man. Bob Gould of York is 11-2.

Cards Invade Hinsdale For WSC Contest

Arlington Quintet Seeks Upset

Hinsdale isn't invincible in West Suburban basketball. Glenbard West proved that last Friday evening.

Now it's Arlington's turn to put some added emphasis on that fact, and the Cardinals will get their chance tonight (Thursday) with a clash on the Red Devils' floor.

Coach Larry Hoff's loop pacesetters had rolled through nine conference games unbeaten before Glenbard's Hilltoppers turned the trick last Friday. Hinsdale rebounded with a win Saturday but their victory skein had still been broken.

ONLY A COMPLETE reversal of form—something like three straight defeats — could cost the Red Devils the West Suburban title as the defending champions hold a two game edge over runnerup York.

But Arlington's Cards would like to give Hinsdale something to worry about and although the hosts will be rated the favorite, it's possible Frank Bohac's quintet could upset the form chart and walk off with a triumph.

Arlington battled Hoff's aggregation on even terms for the initial half of their meeting Jan. 8 but fell apart in the final 16 minutes and succumbed, 70-48. One boy personally wrecked the Cards' chances in that contest and if AHS is able to contain him tonight, the outcome could be a different story.

MARTY RIESSEN whipped in 30 points against the Cardinals and didn't favor any quarter in his efforts, tallying eight in the first period, eight in the second, six in the third, and eight in the fourth.

Riessen will be the cager to watch athough Hinsdale has some other boys who are caable scorers. Junior Hal Brandt has a 14.7 per game average in West Suburban play and Soph Bob Haarlow has an 11.5 standard. Combine Riessen's 18.4 average and Hoff has a trio which has been pumping home about 45 points a game.

ARLINGTON will counter with the loop's leading scorer and sixth best point producer and hope that the duo is more effective against the Red Devils the second time around.

George Bork and Bob Inman were checked with 10 points each against Hinsdale in January, both well below their averages.

Although Bork and Inman have been carrying the offensive load all season, Junior Jim Clabaugh captured the honors in the win over Riverside last Friday with 19 impressive points as all five Arlington starters tallied in double figures.

RICK JOHNSTON hit for 11 and 12 in the two weekend encounters and has now reached double figures in five of his last six games. The 6-2 senior has netted 105 WSC points for a 9.5 average.

Bork's 34 points in the two games boosted him into third place in the list of Arlington's top scorers in a single season of WSC competition. The 6-1 senior now needs only 46 counters in his final three games to establish a new record.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

WORD FROM UP Baltimore, Md., way indicates that an Arlington grad is making a name for himself in the athletic annals of the Middle Atlantic Coast conference . . . Bob Harrington was named to the all-league football team at an end slot and this spring will be a lacrosse standout for Johns Hopkins University . . . A letterman on the gridiron for three years at the school, Harrington was in the starting alignment for two campaigns and last fall tied for conference leadership in pass receptions with 15 . . . Johns Hopkins finished with a 7-1 football mark . . . Harrington was named to the All-West Suburban grid aggregation during his senior year at AHS.

BOB HARRINGTON

A former Arlington high coach, Maurice Ross, was on the staff of the Poly high school football unit in Long Beach which ranked as one of the powerhouses on the California prep grid last fall.

Bowlers who tend to get despondent over some kink in their delivery should take heart in some observations made by Buddy Bomar, one of the leading money winners in the tenpin sport . . . Bomar claims that he has never seen a perfect bowler . . . In fact, he says a lot of the game's top stars have noticeable flaws in their respective styles . . . For example, Don Carter breaks his elbow; Harry Smith charges the line, his knees aren't bent, and he hops; Eddie Lubanski's leg is locked and he throws sidearm; Bill Lillard has uneven footwork; Billy Welu has no pushaway; Dick Hoover forces the ball and has too much speed; Steve Nagy has a poor follow through; Joe Wilman doesn't follow through at all and drops the ball; Ray Bluth reaches in his hip pocket, holds the ball off to side; Dick Weber dips twice, then pulls back; and Ned Day, the greatest Bomar says he ever saw, whips his ball across his body . . . According to Buddy, the bowler who comes closest to being perfect in everything he does is Tom Hennessey.

While we're on the bowling kick: Bud Miller, proprietor of Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling, is donating both practice and game bowling this Saturday night for the Paddock classic match game with Hilton Shirts. March of Dimes will benefit when the hat is passed. Bud is also feeding the bowlers.

In the recent All-Star bowling tourney in Omaha, Neb., Buck Perkins of Woodstock averaged 199 for 36 games and Al Walter of Arlington averaged 188 for 24 efforts but both finished out of the money . . . The two bowlers are members of the Paddock Classic traveling league . . . How reliable are polls indicating strength of high school cage outfits? . . . In one wire-service release last week, Woodstock, a club which has only won two games this winter, was included in the honorable mention list . . . The seventh place quintet in the North Suburban league had such formidable company in the poll as insdale, Barrington, Moline, Lockport, and West Rockford.

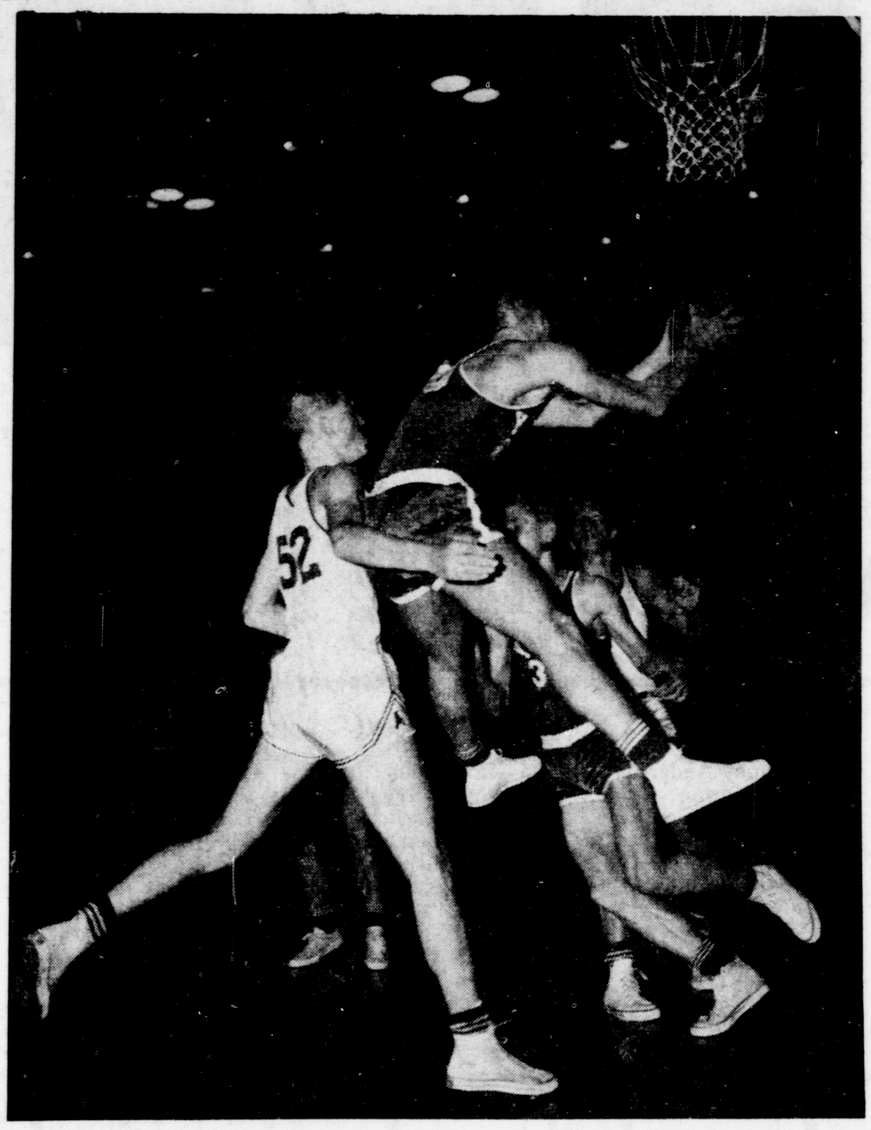

Cagers in Notre Dame high school's junior-varsity lineup against Lake Park included O'Connell, O'Neil, O'Dishoo, and O'Sullivan.

Several outstanding prep wrestlers, potential state champs in 1960, will not be competing in the mat tourneys this weekend . . . Disciplinary action has been taken against Jim Cosby of North Chicago, third in the state at heavyweight; Harry King of North Chicago, a state competitor at 120 last season and Palatine invitational titlist at 127 in the current campaign; Tim Byram of Maine West, defending state champ at 95 and unbeaten grappler at 112 in 1959-60; and Darrell Wells of Maine West, unbeaten at 133 . . . Both the Warhawks and Warriors have several outstanding individuals and would have been state threats, but without these key performers, their title aspirations have dwindled considerably.

In addition, Crystal Lake's Bob Petrulis, an unbeaten 154-pounder and Palatine holiday tourney champ, was declared scholastically ineligible for the second semester.

The pairings for the sectional cage tourneys were released earlier this week and it appears the Palatine regional gained the best draw for the Arlington sectional . . . The Palatine winner will clash with the Libertyville winner with the victor then battling the survivor of the Crystal Lake vs. Waukegan test . . . Our guess righ now would match the Palatine winner against Barrington with Elgin testing Waukegan in the second tilt . . . The winner at Arlington will journey a few miles east for the supersectional at Northwestern's McGaw Hall.

It's hard to tell in this peculiar prep cage season, but we wouldn't be surprised if Waukegan and Marshall of Chicago hook up at McGaw in a rematch of their classic of 1959.

RUNNING INTO A flying York Baron is Arlington's Rusty Blix (52). Clearing the board for the York frosh-soph quintet is Don Anderman in action during the league-leaders' tight, 55-51 victory over the Cardinals last Saturday evening.

Prospect Trackmen In Opener Monday

Prospect high school will kick off its indoor track schedule Monday afternoon with a home meet against Maine West's Warriors.

The meet will be the first of five straight home meets for the varsity and frosh-soph Knights with the events slated to get under way at 4:15 p.m. in the PHS fieldhouse.

Coach Bob Scott's thinclads will give away some meet experience to a Maine West squad which launched its campaign Jan. 29 with a 74 1/5-25 4/5 victory over Austin of Chicago.

SCOTT LISTED his probable entries for Monday's meet with Dennis Leonard and Tom Petrosino in both the 60-yard high hurdles and 60 yard lows. Dennis Dryjanski and Keith Voigt will compete in the 50-yard dash with Jim Gidden, Cliff Stock, and George Renner probable competitors in the 880.

Voigt, Dryjanski, Mel Aukamp, and Jeff Rogers will team up in the eight lap relay with the 16 lap unit still undecided.

Bill Bard is a leading 440 yard dash candidate with Don Coey and Rog Luedtke in the mile. Bruce Andrise and Aukamp will handle the shot put.

IN THE other field events Pat O'Keefe will compete in the high jump with Tom Flynn in the pole vault and Dryjanski and Voigt in the broad jump.

Maine West captured 10 of 12 first places in trouncing Austin. Winning marks for the Warriors included a :07.0 clocking in the 50 yard highs, :05.0 in the 50 yard dash, 2:11.2 in the 860, 1:20.1 in the four lap relay, :06.6 in the 50 yard lows, :54.5 in the 440, 4:00.2 in the mile, and 2:52.6 in the eight lap relay.

The Warriors' Art Steele took a first in the pole vault at 11-0 and high jump at 5.5½ with John Charles copping the shot at 47.2.

Proviso East's Gymnasts Fall to Cardinals, 77-55

Arlington's varsity gymnasts convinced approximately 500 fans last Saturday afternoon that they're going to be tough to dislodge from the top rung of the state ladder.

Coach Gay Hughes' defending state champions turned in their most impressive dual meet victory of the campaign with a decisive 77-55 triumph over Proviso East.

The Cardinals won five of the six events in total points and had six individual winners. Proviso East claimed its only margin on the parallel bar where it outscored the hosts, 12-10.

GARY Erwin, Arlington's junior phenom, turned in a brilliant performance on the Trampoline for one of the meet's highlights. Other Cardinal victors were Dick Wetzel on the side horse, Don Ballou on the horizontal bar, Arnie Harvey on the parallel bar, Mike Nelson on the rings, and Bill Sayre in tumbling.

In addition to Erwin's triumph on the Tramp, Bill Flood picked up a second and Soph Bob Cordaro a fourth. Larry Brousseau gained a second and Ron East a fifth on the side horse.

Ballou's victory on the horizontal bar was backed by Tom Geocaris' third and Bruce MacCallum's tie for fifth.

HARVEY, Ballou, and Ron East picked up Arlington points on the parallel bar with Nelson, Geocaris, and Harvey contributing markers on the rings.

Sayre and Lapham of Proviso East were the class of tumbling. Arlington's Cordaro gained a fourth with Dick Anderson in a tie for fifth.

Expect Capacity Crowd for Tilt

by BOB FRISK

This is a big day in Prospect high school's first year of athletic competition.

A capacity crowd—and a partisan one—will jam the school's gymnasium tonight for a prep cage spectacle which has been the talk of the area for weeks.

Prospect's Knights and East Leyden's Eagles, both 15-1 over the 1959-60 campaign, will be the contestants in the main attraction and when the final buzzer sounds, the Interim association will have either coleaders or an undisputed champion.

EAST LEYDEN is currently riding atop the Interim flag chase thanks to its 58-57 victory over Prospect in that first meeting Jan. 8. Coach Dick Kinneman's Knights have to win tonight to stay in the title picture.

A newspaper natural and an usher's nightmare, the headliner on the PHS floor is expected to draw a turn-away crowd with a report earlier in the week indicating that tickets would probably not be available at the door.

East Leyden would have brought an unbeaten slate into tonight's fray except for a little episode up at Elgin Saturday night. The host Maroons capitalized on a cold Leyden quintet (about 19 per cent from the floor) and with 7-0 George Clark putting on a one-man show, they mauled the visitors from Franklin Park, 74-42.

IT REMAINS to be seen what effect that stinging loss to Elgin will have on Lou Granzin's Eagles. The club could bounce back with revenge and set out to prove that it is still a formidable hardwood outfit. Or it could suffer a reversal of its previous form and experience a disasterous skid.

Prospect is afraid of the former, and the Knights are ready for another stiff battle. And if that first meeting is any indication of what is to unfold in the 32 minutes of cage action tonight, the fans are in for an exciting evening.

Kinneman will operate with his usual starting alignment, hoping the boys will be free from the tenseness which hindered their effectiveness in the initial test between the two schools.

PROSPECT'S No. 1 problem will be 6-2 Jim Rodgers, a Junior who is making a one-man race of the Interim scoring derby and who pumped in 20 points — 12 on free throws — in the Eagles' one-point decision over the Knights.

Whereas Prospect possesses a more balanced attack, East Leyden relies on the offensive output of Rodgers. The Eagles couldn't get started against Elgin as only one of Rodgers' 12 first half shots found the mark.

Leyden's Granzin has picked up the services of one boy who didn't play in the first game between the two pacesetters, and 6-5 Dick Behrens could play a prominent role in the contest. Although 6-4 John Madziara is the starter at center, Behrens will probably be pushed into extensive action at the outset of the battle.

OUTSIDE OF Mandziara and Rodgers, Granzin will open with Jerry Fandel, Rog Lenberg, and Dennis Beals. The Eagles' coach feels Beals played the only creditable game on his squad against Elgin.

How did Granzin sum up East Leyden's loss last Saturday? "We couldn't get in close, we couldn't hit, and we couldn't control the boards. That's the explanation!"

But East Leyden is ready for this one tonight.

Bolin Paces York In 66-61 Victory Over Cards' Five

by BOB FRISK

York's Jim Bolin becomes ineligible for future prep cage competition in two weeks when he turns 19.

But that won't do Arlington any good now!

Bolin put on another impressive performnce against the Cards last Saturday evening as the Dukes pulled out a 66-61 victory.

The 6-5 senior paced York to its first victory over Arlington with a brilliant relief effort, and he was just as effective Saturday--only this time in a starting role.

BOLIN contributed nine points in three minutes of the initial contest as York won, 69-63. He collected eight straight points last Saturday and 13 in the third period as York snapped a 32-all deadlock and went on to record its eighth conference victory.

Both clubs had battled on even terms in the first half with Arlington jumping off to a first period lead only to have York bounce back in the second segment.

Bolin initiated his heroics after Bob Inman had sent Arlington ahead, 34-32, early in the third quarter. He pumped in a jump shot from the side, added a free throw, hit a layup and connected on another jump and tossed in one from the charity line.

RICK JOHNSTON was the only Arlington player to break into Bolin's one-man assault and when the dust had cleared, York had a lead it never relinquished.

The Dukes moved out to a ten point advantage with 4:20 remaining in the third period and held a 55-44 lead at the end of the stanza.

Seven straight points put York on top, 64-49, but Arlington wasn't through for the evening.

BORK HIT on two jump shots, Inman tossed in a two-pointer, and Carl Massa connected on a 13-footer, cutting the York margin to 64-57.

Chuck Adams split the nets for the visiting Dukes, but Arlington finished up the game's scoring with Inman and Bork hitting from the free throw line and Gene Dahlquist on a layup.

Bolin's 21 points paced the victors, but Bork copped game honors with 22. Inman contributed his second 17-point performance of the weekend.

Matmen Unbeaten

Prospect's freshman wrestling team concluded an unbeaten season last Saturday when it battled Maine West's young Warriors to a 24-all tie.

Coach Hel Henson's Knights recorded five wins and the tie in its six meet card, including victories over Glenbard East, Proviso West, and Maine West.

In the Maine West finale, Bob Johnson dropped a decision at 95, but Louis Limauro topped a boy at 13 who had pinned him in a previous match.

SAM ABBINANTI copped the 112 pound test but Rog Guiney bowed at 120 before Wayne Zaehler concluded an unbeaten campaign with a victory at 127. Zaehler led the team in pins.

Jim Anderson copped the 133 pound match, but Prospect suffered successive defeats at '38 and '45. Ron Aukamp pinned an opponent at 154 who had dumped him earlier.

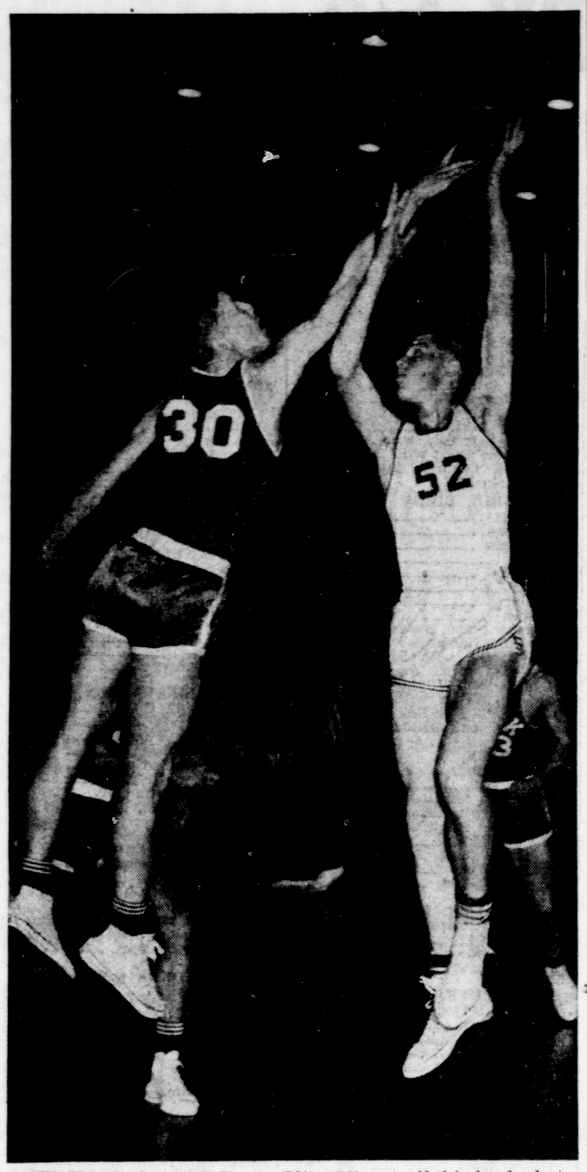

In the final three bouts John Krupa won with Louis Knecht and Bob O'Day dropping decisions.

DeWitz Second In Lake County Tournament

Casper DeWitz, high average bowler in the Paddock Classic league last year, finished second in the 17th annual Lake County singles bowling tourament Saturday at North Chicago.

DeWitz finished second to Mario Nannini of Highwood among the 16 finalists rolling at the North Chicago Bowlarium.

Casper, who rolls for Martinetti's team from Barrington Ten Pin in the Classic, received $325 for rolling 1,641 across eight games. Nannini had 1,669. DeWitz, a Barrington resident, averaged 205 per game. The parts foreman for George Poole Ford posted a high game of 269.

WHETHER OR NOT Rusty Blix (52) got off this hook shot for Arlington is questionable as York's Bob Rudolph (300) reaches up in a defensive maneuver. York, league-leading frosh-soph club in the WSC, came from behind to top Arlington last Saturday, 55-51.

Prospect Knights Rout Willowbrook In Interim Tilt

by TOM McSHANE

The Prospect Knights swept to their seventh victory in eight Interim association starts Friday night by clobbering winless Willowbrook 86-55 on the Villa Park court.

The win set the stage for tonight's crucial battle in the Prospect gym when the Knights host East Leyden's league-leading Eagles.

The Warriors afforded little opposition for Coach Dick Kinneman's high-flying machine, as the Knights hit for 20 or more points in all four quarters, and placed five players in the double-figure scoring column.

PROSPECT moved right out to an 8-0 lead in the first two minutes of the game as Fred Lussow and George Pomey hit two shots apiece from the floor.

Gene Whitehorn broke the ice for Willowbrook with a 15-foot jump shot at 5:56.

With Pomey leading the way with 11 points, Prospect held a 22-13 advantage at the end of the first period.

The Knights rimmed 21 more in the second period to leave the floor with a 43-28 halftime lead.

The third quarter was a repeat of the first two. The well-balanced Prospect attack added 20 more, and held the held to nine points by the scrappy Prospect forward. In their first meeting, Empkie held Rau to eight.

Bill Offill, who hit 10 of 13 free throws in the first half, led the Warriors with 21 points. Jack Petruchyk had 13.

Tonight's varsity game will start about 8:15. The frosh-soph game will get underway at 6:45. School officials said this week that there probably will be no tickets available at Warriors to 12.

IN THE fourth quarter, Kinneman pulled the stops, substituted freely, and sat back and watched as Keith Grams and Bill Zadel led the reserves to the biggest quarter of the night. Grams hit for 11 points and Zadel seven as the Knights put on a 23-point closing spurt.

Pomey led the Prospect scorers with 18. He was followed by Grams and Zadel with 14, Lussow with 13, and Fred Empkie with 12.

Besides his 12-point offensive contribution, Empkie, for the second time this year, threw a defensive blanket on Willowbrook's high scoring Ron Rau. Rau, who came into the game with a 14-plus average for conference play, was the door.

Arlington Stops R-B In Loop Tilt, 70-60

by BOB FRISK

Arlington's five starters hit in double figures with the front line contributing 47 points last Friday evening as the Cards raced past Riverside Brookfield, 70-60.

The two clubs recovered from a slow start to send home 77 points in the final two periods, Arlington collecting 46 of the counters.

Junior Jim Clabaugh started his second game of the season for the Cardinals and registered 19 points for game scoring honors. It was only the second time in the current campaign that an Arlington cager other than George Bork or Bob Inman topped the point production.

INMAN contributed 17 valuable markers, 13 in the final half, but Bork was handcuffed by a tight R-B defense with Bob Schmidt in charge, and the conference's leading scorer only netted 12 points.

Riverside trailed only once, 15-13, throughout the entire second period last Friday after the two West Suburban outfits had battled to a first quarter deadlock.

Clabaugh's basket with 45 seconds remaining moved the Cards within five, 29-24, but the hosts still held the advantage at intermission.

ARLINGTON started its rush late in the third stanza and pushed through eight points in 98 seconds to gain a 41-38 margin going into the final eight minutes.

Six of the points were the direct result of steals with Carl Massa on the scoring end of the trio of baskets. Inman's jump at the buzzer gave Frank Bohac's Cards a 41-38 lead.

Arlington picked up the momentum in the final quarter and in three minutes and 50 seconds had pulled away to a 55-42 lead. Bork, Rick Johnston, Clabaugh, Massa, and Inman all had a hand in the spurt.

WITH 2:05 remaining R-B 63-51, but that was as close as Chuck DeWild's junior-dominated Bulldogs came in the final minutes.

Johnston's basket gave Arlington a comfortable 70-56 cushion, but the host's Roger Reid and Jack Braun connected on four free throws to set the final margin at 70-60.

In addition to Clabaugh's impressive performance, Inman and Johnston combined to give the front-line an aggregate 47 points. Back-court performers, Bork and Massa, collected 22.

North Suburban Hottest Cage Race

THE NORTH SUBURBAN cage race is the hottest in the suburban area. With but three playing dates remaining, Barrington, McHenry, Zion-Benton, and Crystal Lake are tied for first with 8-3 records. Last weekend saw Libertyville upset Barrington for the second time and Zion defeat McHenry. Crucial games remaining are McHenry at Barrington this week, Crystal Lake at Zion-Benton next week, and McHenry at Crystal Lake and Zion-Benton at Barrington on the final night of the season. Libertyville and Dundee can still mix up the race as they can beat any team in the league on occasions. Only Woodstock 1-10 and Palatine 0-11 are out of the running and they settle their cellar duel tonight at Palatine.

Elsewhere in the suburbs teams moved nearer to championships. Elgin moved on top in the Big Eight as Freeport whipped LaSalle-Peru. Kankakee took advantage of Argo's second loss to move ahead in the South Suburban. Sandburg is a game ahead in the Southwest as is Antioch in the Northwest. East Proviso has a two game lead with three to go in the Suburban and Hinsdale, in spite of their first loss to Glenbard, is a game away from clinching the West Suburban. Geneva and St. Charles are deadlocked in the Little Seven. East Leyden still has a game edge on Prospect in the Interim Association but the showdown between the two is coming up tonight, as is the Antioch-Warren title contest in the Northwest.

Congratulations Palatine Wrestlers

CONGRATULATIONS TO Coach John Ellis and his Palatine wrestling squad on their decisive victory in the North Suburban Conference wrestling tourney. The Pirates got five first places, four seconds, and a third in scoring 103 points. Anderson, Nordin, Conley, Knowles, and Smith were the champs. Schuettner, Bellanca, and the McCreery brothers were defeated in the finals. Cook took a third. Palatine has had a well balanced squad with just two seniors. Several boys dropped wrestling during the season who had the potential to be top flight performers but lacked the interest. In spite of setbacks of this type, the Palatine coaches developed a formidable team which lost only four times in dual meets against top flight competition.

Palatine may win the most championships of any school in their first year in the North Suburban. The Pirates have now won cross country and wrestling and will certainly be strong contenders for track, baseball, and golf this coming spring with outstanding veterans returning in all three sports.

Paying Dad Not Legal in Indiana

THE INDIANA SUPREME COURT recently handed down a decision favorable to the Indiana High School Association in enforcing eligibility rules for athletic competition. A family moved from Illinois to Seymour, Ind., and an investigation indicated financial inducements were involved in the transfer due to the family having two athletes. The boys were ruled ineligible whereupon they got a county circuit court to issue a restraining order against the state association applying its eligibility rules. The case, after 12 months, was heard by the supreme court with a ruling in favor of the association. The court ruled there is a difference between curricular and extra-curricular activities and the right to attend a public school does not carry with it a right to participate in school activities. It held that the state association is a voluntary organization and not subject to court action unless it, as an organization, violated the rules set up and approved by the member schools. This decision along with those in a number of other states gives strength to the idea that schools may band together and set up plans and rules for the administration of their athletic and other activity programs.

Twenty Years Ago

PALATINE IS IN FIRST PLACE alone in the Northwest Conference by beating Antioch, 26-11, while Barrington whipped Wauconda 39-32. Palatine missed 30 field shots before getting their first basket and made only 15 per cent for the game but Antioch shot only 10 per cent, a fortunate circumstance for the leading Pirates. Two remaining games with Barrington and fourth place Ela stand between Palatine and their first league championship since 1935. In 1935, Palatine had to beat Barrington, and did so 20-17, in the final game of the season to share the title with the Bronchos. This year the situation is reversed and Barrington must beat Palatine to get a title tie and the home court will be a real advantage . . . Hebron and Hampshire have won 18 straight games . . . Crystal Lake is still unbeaten 9-0 in the Northeast with a three game lead. Boyk of Niles set a Northeast record with 32 games against Lake Forest.

Ten Years Ago

BARRINGTON'S BRONCHOS, with the league title clinched, did not look good beating Ela, 44-31, and losing to Marmion in a non-league game, 41-40. Lack of good competition has hurt Coach Les Harman's team . . . Palatine beat Wauconda, 44-23, as Don Klein scored 22 for the Pirates, and Nolan, a soph, got 15 for Wauconda. Klein tied Gerald Anderson of Bensenville for the scoring lead with 156 as the latter got only 10 in a 42-30 Bison win over Antioch. Arlington lost, 41-27, in Leyden's "cracker box" gym against a tight zone defense. Loftgren had 12 for Leyden and Gordon Busse 13 for Arlington.

Palatine to Host Wrestling Meet

season and 22 dual meet matches over two years, is expected to be No. 1 at 133. East Leyden's Ron Zajac is likely to be No. 2 since he defeated Karl Knowles of Palatine who is 15-5-2 and North Suburban champion. Fighting it out for the fourth spot probably will be Tim O'Gorman of Arlington and Rog Owen of Prospect since Well is no longer out for Maine West.

DENNIS OWENS, unbeaten this season for the East Leyden team after placing second in the sectionals last year, is expected to be seeded No. 1 at 138. Brad McCreery, Pirate freshman, has a 17-7 record. Ed Bryant of Fenton is 16-4 and Dave Hernandez, the best boy on Marty Schwartz's squad, is 12-0 for the seaosn.

THE 145-POUND division is a real toss up. Jerry Greer is 10-1-1 for Arlington. His tie was against Palatine's Norm Schuettner who is 14-8-1. York's Roger Ackerman can't be taken too lightly with his 10-3 mark and Leyden's John Dacewicz is a strong contender though he's certified at 138.

DICK ULRICH, Fenton's 154-pounder, heads that field with a 16-4 record though Terry Harris of Arlington, who is 8-4, beat him early in the season. Other contenders are Rick Kvistad of East Leyden and Mike Field of Prospect who is 8-6.

LEYDEN'S LASON Monroe heads an otherwise weak 165-pound field. Those who will be vying for seedings include Jim Becker, who is 8-4 for Willowbrook after lettering at York last year, and Edelblute.

TWO BOYS, Bob Kruse of East Leyden and Leon Noe of Maine East will be trying to obtain the No. 1 seeding at 180. Noe has posted an 11-2 record. Others are Larry Fontaine at 8-3 for Willowbrook and Denny Schneck at 8-4 for Arlington.

YORK'S ROGER Moos with his 11-0-2 record is likely to be top man in the heavyweight division though Bill Spyrison of Maine East with 10-1-1, Darryl Phillips of Prospect with 12-3 and Joe Milek of East Leyden are also expected to be seeded. A late comer, Palatine's Bill Smith could give them trouble after winning the North Suburban crown unexpectedly.

TO SHOW THE stiffness of competition, seven district defending champions are back although some are up a weight. Returning are 95-champion Fuscone of East Leyden, 103-champion Conley of Palatine, 112-champion Rende of East Leyden, 120-champion Brad McCreery of Palatine, 154-champion Monroe at 154, 180-champion Kruse of East Leyden and Heavyweight champion Phillips of Prospect who wrestled for Arlington last year.

The array of talent is great this year. The fight to win is expected to be the same.

Rybarczyk Gains More Honors; NW Open on Saturday

Jim Rybarczyk of the Mt. Prospect speed skating club added another individual trophy to his collection last Sunday afternoon at the Illinois state outdoor championships in Glen Ellyn.

Rybarzcyk won the juvenile championship with a first in the 1/6 mile event and second in the half mile.

Joining Rybarzcyk in the final event was Bobby Grady, skating his second meet as a juvenile. Grady started out strong but had to yield to the superior strength and experience of the second year skaters.

BOB McMILLAN also reached the semi-finals in the half mile race.

Tim Jilek reached the finals of both the 110 and 220 yard pony events but managed only to squeeze out a fourth place medal for his finish in the longer race. Dick Solley continued to show improvement in his performances as a pony skater and looks like a "comer" for next year's competition.

The Northwest Open meet is planned for Sat., Feb. 13, weather permitting. Every effort will be made to hold the meet at Lions Park.

The public is urged to attend and give their support to the Mt. Prospect club which will be performing on the home ice for the only time this season.

Notre Dame Dons 2nd in Catholic Suburban League

by DAVE SCHLAVER

Notre Dame took sole possession of second place in the Catholic Suburban conference standings and moved within one-half game of the leaders —Joliet Catholic—by beating last place Marmion Military Academy 77-64 last week.

This victory gave the Dons a 13-5 season record. The previous high for victories in one season had been twelve, set last year. It also marked the second time the Dons have won four in a row this season.

Tomorrow night Notre Dame meets St. Thomas of Rockford at home in a non-conference game. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

LAST FRIDAY'S victory was the second over Marmion this year. The Dons jumped to an early lead in the first period as each of the starters picked up three or more points. By the end of the period the Dons had a 10-point lead, 22-12.

Marmion's high scorer, Fred Reherman, picked up 10 of his 23 points in the second period as the Cadets narrowed the margin to 41-35 at halftime. Notre Dame's high scorer Bob Hammarley also scored nine of his 22 points during this quarter.

The Dons continued to widen the gap in the third period as they outscored Marmion's 17-8 to lead 58-43.

NOTRE DAME was able to hold its margin in the last quarter and beat the Cadets 77-64. The loss was Marmion's fifth in the conference. They have only beaten Joliet Catholic and St. Edward, teams the Dons haven't been successful against.

Arlington's Soph Five Splits Pair

Arlington's improving frosh-soph cagers put together two of their finest games of the season last weekend and came outwith a victory and defeat in West Suburban action.

Coach Ken Schaller's Cards blistered the nets for a convincing 65-25 win over Riverside-Brookfield Friday evening and played league-leading York on even terms until the closing minutes in a 55-51 loss Saturday.

Arlington possesses a 4-7 mark in WSC play with a sweep needed in the remaining contests for a .500 league season.

ROLLING UP A 28-15 halftime lead, the young Cards were never in serious trouble against R-B. Three boys carried the bulk of the first half attack with Ross Retterer tallying 11 markers, Chuck Close seven, and Bob Laughlin eight.

Rusty Blix sparked the third period uprising as the Cards pulled ahead, 46-19, and the reserves took over in the closing stanza. Gary Brodnan tossed in six points in the final eight minutes of play.

The Cardinals jumped off to a 17-9 first period lead on York Saturday, but the young Dukes worked away at that margin and went in at halftime trailing 28-25.

CLOSE, AN impressive frosh performer, netted 10 points in the first half to pace Arlington's attack and Blix collected eight.

York picked up another point on AHS in the third quarter to set the stage for an exciting finish.

The WSC pace-setters knotted the count at 47-all with 3:30 remaining and 49-all at 2:23 before Wayne Strauch connected on a pair to push the visitors ahead, 53-49.

Retterer hit on a two-pointer to put the Cards back in the game but with 18 seconds remaining, Ross missed on a jump shot and York took over, collecting a brace from the free throw line at the termination of the contest.

The Moon-Shiners rolled 2833 team series to win three games. H. Holznagel hit a 548 series with high game of 209. E. Hobbs hit 533 and 2nd high game of 204, while D. Parish and R. Green tied for third high series of 510. "Lonesome" G. Hahnfeld took third high game all by herself with 190. (B

Classic Keglers In Stiff Match

Paddock Classic traveling league bowlers who will compete against the Hilton Shirt squad from the Windy City in a match game Feb. 13 will carry a 988 team average, it was learned this week with naming of the actual five men who'll vie for honors.

Opposing the Paddock group will be the Hilton Shirt high-flying squad from Chicago All-Star loop, including Capt. Mo Schiffman, Jim Stefanich, Frank Huspen, Dick Rench and Gene Rhoda. Hilton team placed fifth in the National Match Game Championships last fall, with Schiftman averaging 210 in that meet, Stefanich 218 and Rench 219.

Buck Perkins, current top bowler of the Paddock Classic with a 203 average, will lead the squad of five local men who'll compete in the match game Saturday night, Feb. 13, at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling. Competition is slated to start at 9 o'clock.

PERKINS HAS won the Northwest Suburban Bowling Proprietors Ass'n match game championship twice and has competed in the national All-Star tourney on two occasions. He's No. 1 bowler of James Stavros in the Paddock Classic, and has 268 and 707 highs in the loop for this season.

Irv Hahnfeldt, No. 3 average kegler (197) in the Paddock league, is a member of Tommy Thomas' Casablanca of the local traveling loop which shot a state team high of 1191. That mark still stands, by the way, with Irv hitting 288 and 678. His 279 was tops in the Paddock loop last season.

Edward Duff, also a 197 man in the Paddock league, won the DiVito Individual tournament in 1958, carrying home about $4,000 in the process. He also won the Radio Industries all-events title in '57, is No. 3 kegler for Stavros.

CASPER DEWITZ won everything in sight, locally, last year as his team, Flood Engineering, won the Paddock championship. "Cas" finished with a 202 average, 277 high game and 756 high series. This year Dewitz has 298 and 757 highs, though ranks sixth in average at 196.

He and his team, Martinetti's, have "come alive" the second half and are leading the loop. Dewitz won the McMillan singles at Bloomington, Ill., in '57, as well as the Arlington Singles Classic at Beverly Lanes in '57.

TOM KOUROS, one of the co-founders and currently president of the Paddock Classic loop, will round out the team representing the league in the match game. Tom recently opened his own lanes, the completely remodeled Arlington Lanes, and his bowling has been suffering as his daily grinds on the lanes were forgotten.

Tom still carries a 195 average, though, and is beginning to shake off that December-January lag. He is a member of Beverly Lanes team which won the first half title in the Paddock league.

Wheeling March of Dimes fund will benefit from the match game, with collection taken at Jeffery Saturday night turned over to that group.

Prospect's Soph Matmen Fall, 35-15

East Leyden's frosh-soph matmen moved out to an early lead Tuesday evening and walked off with a 35-15 victory over Prospect.

The host Eagles led 13-0 after three bouts before Prospect's Gary Jernberg gained a pin in 1:10 of his 120 pound test.

Bob Laden won at 133, Ron Aukamp registered a pin at 154, and John Stafsnes recorded a draw at 138 for the Knights' other points.

Summary:

Prospect's Frosh-Sophs Capture Interim Crown

Prospect high school's frosh-soph basketball team won the Interim association championship last Friday night.

The little Knights retained their undefeated conference record by winning their eighth straight, a 46-38 triumph over Willowbrook, while second place East Leyden was cancelling out any chance it had for the crown by dropping its third loss to last-place Glenbrook, 63-43.

The Glenbrook victory mathematically eliminated the Eagles, and gave the little Knights the crown. Prospect has only two games left, and even if the Knights drop both, they still will have an 8-2 record. The best East Leyden can do is 7-3.

THE LITTLE Knights, of course, did not know Glenbrook was going to play giant killer when they took the court against the Warriors. All they knew was that they had to win this one to cinch a tie for the crown.

And win it they did.

Prospect took a commanding 12-6 lead at the end of the first quarter, and the little Knights never were headed after that. They stretched the lead to 21-12 at the half.

With 3:40 left in the third quarter Willowbrook made its only serious threat of the evening, moving within six points at 26-20 on the sharpshooting of Freshman Harlan Krafft.

BUT A NIFTY driving layup by Doug Spaulding and an eight-point third quarter performance by Mike Francek protected the Prospect lead, and sent the little Knights into the fourth period with a 37-29 advantage.

In the last quarter the two teams played even, each scoring nine points, and the little Knights left the floor to await the big news from Franklin Park.

Francek led the Prospect team in scoring with 14. Tommy Thomas and Dennis Mitchell each had 11. Krafft was the game's high scorer with 18.

Christensen Hits 703 Series, Team Wins Three Tilts

Connie's Snack Shop keglers shortened the lead of Martinetti's in the Paddock Classic traveling league Saturday night by copping all three games from rapidly-sliding Beverly Lanes, moving the Des Plaines team to within a single game of Martinetti's. Latter squad did not bowl Saturday night.

Don Christensen of Arlington Heights led the way for Connies with a 703 series at Des Plaines Bowling Lanes. He opened with 216 to help his squad win with 220 for with 957; came through his team's winning 965 effort: then finished with a terrific 267 as the winners hit 1037 for the third triumph.

ROGERS

DICK NETHAWAY came through with 247 and 607 for Connies. Bob Rogers hit 601. High for Beverly was Bill Radunz of Arlington Heights with 222 and 614.

Pentane Gas played rude hosts to Tommy Thomas' Casablanca at Gunnell's, taking a low-scoring 841 game, then copping a creditable 996 contest. The Palatine losers won the middle encounter

Casablanca attempted to regain their former speed Sunday with a make-up series at Jeffery Lanes, but James Stavros took two games with 973 and 1027. Casablanca won the final with 968.

THIS WEEK Saturday night, Feb. 13. Pentane Gas will travel to Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling to oppose James Stavros, Connies will meet Casablanca at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine, and Beverly Lanes will host league-leading Martinetti's from Barrington Ten Pin.

Loyola Ramblers To Host Stadium Bill Saturday

College basketball doubleheaders return to Chicago Stadium Saturday (Feb. 13) when four locally popular teams appear.

Marquette, with a 9-6 record and hopes of a tournament bid, will face Loyola, the host school in the opener.

Wheaton, which annually brings one of the season's largest and most enthusiastic fan groups to the Stadium, will face Brandeis in the nightcap.

Marquette, which appeared in the 1959 NCAA Tournament, bowing to Michigan State in the second round, rallied for a 63-60 win over Loyola at Milwaukee just after New Year's. The Ramblers had taken a 32-28 lead at the half, but the Warriors' balanced scoring shot them ahead by nine points in the second half. Loyola closed it up to 52-50 but got no closer.

COACH GEORGE Ireland, who has had to adjust to injuries and illness all year, is hopeful that a strong closing rush will get Loyola a tournament bid.

Eddie Hickey was voted 1958-59 coach of the year in his first season at Marquette after producing a 23-6 record.

A large Chicago Alumni group is expected to cheer such aces as 6-3 Walt Mangham, national prep high jump record holder, and Don Kojis, 6-5 junior. Kojis was second and Mangham third in scoring last year, and they were one-two in rebounds. They are pacing the team again this season.

WHEATON, ONE of the perennial small college leaders, will be favored over tough-luck Brandeis, even though a midseason slump indicated that the Crusaders are vulnerable.

After winning six straight, Wheaton lost its next six in an unprecedented losing skein, then bounced back to win its next five.

Mel Peterson, a senior and small college All-American the past two years, has paced the Crusaders' attack with a 24-point average. Roger Johnson is nationally ranked in free throws with 42 out of 49 for an .857 average.

BRANDEIS IS coached by 23-year old Rudy Finderson, one of the youngest head mentors in the nation—and he has aged perceptibly in this his second season at the helm.

After a 10-9 mark in his debut year, Finderson anticipated a strong team, but all five starters were lost through illness, injury, and ineligibility.

As a result, the Judges have won only one of 14 starts, over Tufts. They have played several teams close, losing to Clark, 73-71 in overtime, and to Colby by one point.

Second Half Lapse Costs Plebes Win

An offensive failure in the second half cost Prospect's freshman basketball unit a victory last Saturday against Willowbrook.

The Knights' yearlings held an 18-12 lead at halftime but could only collect ten points in the final two periods.

Bob Gerrard netted ten points and Ken Groh added seven to pace Prospect.

Mat Mill

The Lansing area has contributed eight of the 17 members of Michigan State's 1960 wrestling squad.

Captain Lake

Captain of Michigan State's 1960 track squad is Bob Lake, the Big Ten indoor and outdoor mile champion.

Arlington Soph Gym Team Wins

Decisive victories on the parallel bar and rings aided Arlington's frosh-soph gymnasts in a tight, 68-64 victory over Proviso East last Saturday afternoon.

Coach Mike Karon's Cardinals captured the top slots in three events with the visiting Pirates winning two. The squads were deadlocked in tumbling.

But it was a 14-8 margin on the parallel bar and 15-7 advantage on rings which were deciding factors in the AHS victory.

LARS Anderson and Dave Wollerman finished 1-2 on the parallel bar with Len Witter and Don Schanmier in the top two positions on rings.

Other Arlington victors were Bill Berg on the side horse and Engle in tumbling.

Rodgers Increases Loop Lead

Boasting a 22.3 per game average in Interim association play, East Leyden's Jim Rodgers holds a 46 point lead in the loop scoring rade.

Rodgers whiped in 32 markers against Glenbrook last Friday evening to virtually clinch scoring honors. The Spartans' Greg Slettleland is in the runnerup slot with 133 with Wheaton's Johnny Pfund in third with 113.

Prospect continues to have three boys in the top ten in Fred Lussow, George Pomey, and Bill Zadel. Lussow heads the list with 98 for eight league encounters.

Arlington's JV's Crush Riverside

Pouring in 28 points in the middle two periods, Arlington's junior-varsity basketball team dropped Riverside-Brookfield last Saturday morning, 42-28.

The Cardinals only countered 14 points in the first and final period but they exploded in the other segments.

Skip Witt paced Coach Norm Patberg's quintet with 14 points and Bob Jacobsen added 11.

Total aluminum production in the United States reached nearly two million tons in 1959.

Prospect At Fenton Tomorrow

Prospect's basketball Knights aren't through for the weekend after the crucial battle with East Leyden tonight.

Tomorrow evening (Friday) Coach Dick Kinneman will send his squad up to Fenton for a clash with the Bisons of the Tri-County conference.

Although Fenton isn't considered to be in the class with the Knights, Prospect has to watch out for a natural letdown following the East Leyden encounter.

FENTON CARRIES a 5-12 mark into the weekend play with wins over Elmwood Park, Glenbrook, Lake Park, Proviso West, and St. Procopius. The Bisons took care of Elmwood Park, 70-50, and Glenbrook, 58-54, on successive nights last weekend.

Four Fenton starters are averaging better than 12 points per game in Tri-County play.

Tomorrow's varsity test will be preceded by a frosh-soph game at 6:45 p.m.

JUST DOGS

by DAVE TERRILL

1959 Records Out

The American Kennel club, through its monthly publication Pure Bred Dogs, has just released some facts and figures regarding the most popular dogs based on 1959 AKC registrations.

The top 10 are Beagles, holding a rather shaky lead in first, followed by Poodles, Chihuahuas, Dachshunds, German Shepherds, Cocker Spaniels, Boxers, Pekingese, Collies and Boston Terriers, in that order.

The Beagle registration was 62,948 and what makes their lead rather close is that Poodles closed with 58,661, showing an increase of 36 per cent over 1958 figures. The Beagle on the other hand dropped off 8 per cent below the 1958 number for the breed. If the percentage figures keep moving at the present rate, the Poodle will be top dog in 1961.

Doing a little reflecting over these figures always brings to mind a few rather important points about "top dogs." It always seems that people climb on the band wagon with the popular dog and for awhile he goes great in the public eye. Then it always happens, either by too much poor breeding on the part of beginners or that something has taken place in the public eye which causes the breed to start down the ladder — in the case of the public eye it usually is due to publicity given to another breed through pictures in magazines, newspapers and the latest media TV.

The one reason why the Beagle has been on top for so long and will always be near to it is that, although the breed is not truly one that you see a lot of in the city, he is by far the one breed which is registered year in and year out in great numbers by the field trial people. There are perhaps more beagle field trials run in this country throughout the year than all other field trials put together for hunting dogs. This alone, combined with great respect and admiration for the breed by owners of this fine little dog, will always keep him in the race.

In looking over the 1959 closing it also was of interest to note how fickle the public can be. A case in point is the Cocker Spaniel, who for a number of years was top dog and tumbled from his perch back in 1953 when the Beagle took over. The Cocker has moved now to the number six spot, with a drop of 14 per cent against the 1958 figures. Also the Boxer, who was up near the top a few years ago, has now dropped to seventh place with a percentage drop off of 22 per cent, the greatest decrease of any breed in the top 10.

What 1960 holds for purebred dogs perhaps only a crystal ball can point to. Needless to say it will be rather interesting a year from now to see what has taken place.

Westminster Week

This week New York City and Madison Square Garden really go to the dogs. It is the week which was started by the Westminster show and for the first two days, February 8 and 9, the dogs take over the city. The Best in Show title will have been picked by the time this column gets into print, so folks from around here will know who took top honors by the middle of the week.

Many people from this area are at the show and have dogs entered, so it will be of interest to hear from them when they get back as to what luck they had with their prize hounds.

Barks and Bays

This business about records and dog shows points up the fact that the International Kennel club show held in Chicago last year was the largest dog show in the nation for 1959. There were 2189 dogs in competition. Closest show to the International was Westminster with 2031 dogs.

Problem of Session Law Crush Is Under Study

By
W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON
State Senator,
4th Senatorial District

As I have explained in earlier articles, most laws passed by the Illinois Legislature cannot become effective earlier than the 1st day of July following enactment.

In the final two days of the last General Session of the Legislature, viz: June 29 and 30, the Legislature passed more than 500 bills, most of which became effective July 1 or a few days thereafter upon the governor's signature.

PRINTED copies of these new laws were not available for many weeks following the close of the session. The public, therefore, was largely operating in the dark, pending publication of the new laws.

I had some 40 or 50 requests for copies of bills as printed for legislative consideration. In many cases such copies were not available. Even when they were, they were not "official," and in those cases where amendments to the bills are adopted they are very difficult to use and understand. In the case of laws of widespread interest, the limited supply of copies is quickly exhausted.

Various suggestions have been made to correct this bad situation. But the problem is fraught with constitutional complications.

For instance, it has been suggested that a law should not become effective until it has first been published. Many say that such a law conflicts with the constitutional mandate that laws become effective on July 1 following passage.

IN THE interest of resolving this rather difficult problem, the Illinois Legislative council, of which I am a member, has been directed to conduct a survey to determine how other states handle this problem.

It is known, for example, that in some states session laws are printed as individual "slip" laws before the bound volumes are available. Other states tie the effective date of the bill into some formal publication of the statute, in some cases in a temporary volume. Whether such devices would be legal in Illinois is quite questionable.

It is hoped that the survey to be undertaken by the Illinois Legislative council will evolve a satisfactory means for solving the problem without requiring a constitutional amendment.

Low Budget 'Spec' On Stage Saturday

A low budget "spectacular" will be presented this Saturday, Feb. 13, at 8 p.m. on the boys gym stage of Arlington high school.

Total cost of producing 'Patterns in Music," Arlington high's 1960 talent show, will be less than $150.

Thirty student acts, representing the outstanding teenage talent in the area, have been blended into a program of foreign and domestic music.

There are no speaking parts in the show, with the entire production built around vocal, dance, and instrumental numbers.

FRENCH, GERMAN, and Oriental music will constitute the first part of the show. The second act will trace American music, including spirituals and folk tunes, the gay 90's, vaudeville, the jazz era, and show tunes.

A can-can, square dance, barbershop quartet, jazz combo, string trio, five vaudeville acts, interpretive dances, and vocal solos are some of the numbers in the production.

Tickets, priced at $1 for students and $1.25 for adults can be purchased at the door the night of the show.

Prize Possession Frayed Flag Is

The anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday Friday will be more significant for Mr. and Mrs. John G. Humphrey, 417 Gibbons st., Arlington Heights, than for many people.

The reason? A frayed, 36-star flag, owned by the Humphreys, which bears the inscription "Abraham Lincoln for president, Andrew Johnson for vice president" sewn on the flag's white stripes.

SINCE 1860 the flag has been a possession of the Humphrey family. It was used as a campaign flag in 1860. Lincoln was president from 1861 to 1865. Humphrey says that the flag first was owned by his grandfather.

The Humphreys do not know how the flag was used in the campaign. It may have flown from a pole in the yard of a supporter or it may even have waved at the Republican convention. The flag is muslin and 4' x 6' in size. Stars are sewn in the upper right corner instead of the upper left as they are today. Seven red stripes and six white ones complete the design.

A second, smaller flag owned by the Humphreys one would suppose to be of Civil War vintage because of the inscription "Union Forever." But the number 76 sewn in the center of the field of stars upsets this deduction. If the "76" means "1876" the flag is 84 years old.

THIS ONE also has been handed from one member of the Humphrey family to another since it was made.

Arlington Seniors In Science Search

Two Arlington high school seniors recently placed among the top 448 young scientists in the nation in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search.

Tom Wade, 3201 Peacock ln., Rolling Meadows, and Bill Flood, 108 N. Main st., Mt. Prospect, were recognized for turning in outstanding projects.

Wade's project, "Ground Control Vehicles," deals with the controlling of a vehicle that runs on a cushion of air. Flood worked on the "Corrosion of Metals," showing the effect of salt solutions on different metals.

STUDENTS WHO entered the talent search were judged on four factors: a comprehensive science examination, a research paper on their project, a personal data sheet, and a copy of their high school transcripts.

Names of the top young scientists were sent to all of the colleges in the United States.

It's Easy to Make Home-Baked Bread with Simple New Mix

If you remember the taste of home-baked bread with nostalgic joy, but can't stand the thought of the hours of work involved, take heart. A new packaged mix to which you need add only warm water has been released on the consumer market by a Philadelphia firm.

The process of making bread with the new mix could hardly be simpler. Add warm water and the yeast which comes with the package, knead for a few minutes and let the dough rise in a warm place. Pop it into the oven and that's all there is to it. A three-pound bag makes four large loaves, enough to crinkle any small boy's nose with delight at their wonderful aroma.

ALTHOUGH new to homemakers, the product has been used by the navy for several years. It was originally developed by Russell Spruance, a Philadelphia food products manufacturer, for use on the high seas where the intricate measuring and blending which goes into making bread the old-fashioned way is impossible.

At first there were no plans to enter the consumer market with the mix, but everyone who tried the mix or smelled it baking wanted some. A grocery chain in Iowa picked up the product and it was an immediate success. Other chains and independent stores have followed and this year the product achieved national distribution.

For those who want a little more variety, Spruance Bread Mix can also be used for making pizzas, biscuits, pie crust, potato bread, coffee cake and sweet rolls.

High, Light Cheese Cake Is Good Bridge Dinner Dessert

SAMPLING THE elegant cheese cake prepared by their mother, Mrs. Harold Dunn of Prospect Heights, are the Dunns' two daughters Susan, 8, and Judy, 6. This good cook and her excellent recipe are being featured in this week's Successful Homemaking column. (S

By LOIS SEILER

A high and light cheese cake is irresistible whether served as a bridge or dinner dessert.

This week we are featuring an excellent recipe for this popular cake. It has been shared with us by Mrs. Harold Dunn of Prospect Heights.

A tried and true "hand-me-down," this recipe was passed on to Mrs. Dunn from her mother and it is now a favorite of both families.

EASY TO make, the cake has a Zwiebach crumb crust and topping which is flavored with cinnamon. Four eggs, cream cheese and cream are used in preparing this cake, which make it nourishing as well as delicious. It is baked in a spring form pan.

This cheese cake is quite rich, light-textured and a delightful taste treat which appeals to both youngsters and adults. It is a dessert favorite with the Dunns' three children, Susan, 8, Judy, 6 and Jeffrey, 2.

The Dunns live at 206 E. School lane in Prospect Heights. Mrs. Dunn is a member of the Prospect Heights Women's club and the Book Review club.

Cheese Cake

Crust

1 package Zwiebach
¾ cup sugar
1 level teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup melted butter

Put Zwiebach through a meat grinder or crush with a rolling pin. Add remaining ingredients. Set aside one cup of the crumb mixture to use for the topping.

Butter a spring form pan and press mixture on the bottom and sides of the pan.

Cake:

1 POUND CREAM CHEESE
½ cup sugar
½ pint cream
4 egg yolks
2 tablespoons flour
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites

Cream the cheese. Gradually beat in the sugar. Add the cream. Beat in the egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the flour, salt and vanilla.

Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into the batter. Pour into the crumb-lined spring form pan and sprinkle remaining crumbs on top.

Bake in a 325 degree oven for one hour. Turn off heat and let cake remain in oven one hour longer in a gas range or one-half hour longer in an electric range.

Remove from oven and cool completely. Then remove the spring form.

Serves eight.

What Does It Cost For Family Health?

How much does it cost to keep a family healthy?

The Health Information Foundation sponsored in 1956 a survey of 400 families in New Jersey which showed the median expenditure to be around $225 per family per year. These families averaged out at between four and five persons, including the parents and two to three children. Their median earnings were around $6,500 and the contacts with doctor and destist averaged 11 per year.

THESE FAMILIES had all the usual troubles with getting to the doctor or dentist. The poorer families often put off going because of the cost and the richer families because they thought they were too busy. All income groups managed somehow to get to the hospital to have the most serious things taken care of.

A regular budget for health care would have been a good thing for any of these families. They budgeted for groceries, clothes, car and rent, but most still clung to the hope that there wouldn't be any doctor or dentist bills.

HEALTH COSTS are undoubtedly higher today than when the survey was made. Regular trips to the dentist and to the doctor for shots and examinations are now considered a necessity in the average family. The emergencies are also more costly because of higher wages in hospitals and the high costs of the new techniques and miracle drugs which are now available to all persons who need them. There are no bargain rates in medicine because everybody expects and usually gets the very best that medical science has has been able to discover.

Since these costs are here to stay and will probably increase, health authorities urge families not only to see they are covered by prepayment insurance, but to budget health costs as if they were food or rent.

MOST FAMILIES can expect to spend $200 to $300 a year for health services. These services are worth the price or they wouldn't be using them. Some years the family health cost will be below normal and the fund can be built up against the years when emergencies arise and the budget will get its jolts.

Many families now have hospitalization insurance provided as a fringe benefit of employment. These should not be taken for granted. The cost of these benefits should be ascertained and they should be considered as a part of the health cost records of the family. (B8

County Tax Levy Will Be Reduced

County Clerk Edward J. Barrett announced last week that the 1959 Cook county tax levy will be abated or reduced nearly $23.5 million.

This abatement will amount to approximately 16.5 cents per $100 of equalized assessed valuation to Cook county taxpayers, or will mean that the County requirements will amount to approximately $16.50 less to a taxpayer with a home that has an equalized assessed valuation of $10,000.

BARRETT SAID reasons for the reduced levy are:

1. The needs of the bond and interest fund will be $20,374,079.71 less than the tax levies authorized at the time of the sale of the bonds because of the receipt of money from the state of Illinois for the retirement needs of the superhighway and expressway bonds, premiums and interest received on bond sales, and money earned on the investment of capital on hand. (It has been Barrett's policy as county clerk and comptroller to invest all funds not immediately needed for county purposes in government securities.)

2. The requirements for general corporate purposes will be $3,079.062.25 less than the amount originally levied due to the excess payments received for the care of patients at Cook county and Oak Forest hospitals, and the amount of money collected from the county retailers occupation tax. (B8

Bad Intersection Convinces Resident of Traffic Needs

A rash of accidents at the intersection of Algonquin and Wilke rds. has convinced one resident that the only solution to the problem is a stop light.

John H. Oltrogge, 1506 N. Algonquin, Arlington Heights, still limping from a recent auto accident he was involved in himself, says he intends to circulate a petition for presentation to the proper authorities asking for the traffic lights.

Most recent crash at the intersection occurred last Thursday, with two motorists hospitalized as a result of injuries.

Oltrogge, whose farm property adjoins the intersection, says two cars have already torn through his fences as a result of hazardous conditions created by the intersection, which is guarded only by a stop sign halting Wilke rd. traffic.

INJURED IN the Thursday mishap at the intersection were George D. Jamieson, 24, of 910 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, and Henry D. Franz, 41, of 108 S. Hickory, Crystal Lake.

District 3 state police cited Jamieson, who was traveling east of Illinois 62 (Algonquin) with failure to yield the right-of-way and driving with an expired driver's license.

His car collided almost head-on with the Franz vehicle which was headed west on Illinois 62.

JAMIESON was treated at Northwest Community hospital for lacerations which required 20 stitches and then discharged. Franz had severe lacerations of the forehead, left cheek, nose, and a compound nasal fracture. Plastic surgery was performed on him upon admittance to the hospital.

Police classified Franz' car as a total wreck; damage to Jamieson's automobile was estimated at around $800.

In other mishaps during the past week, police cited George C. Turba, 36, of 704 E. Lincoln, Arlington Heights, for driving too fast for conditions after he lost control of his car while going north on Arlington Heights state rd. a quarter mile south of Illinois 58, and hit a telephone pole before careening into a tree after running off the road.

Turba Monday was classified in serious condition in Northwest Community hospital with a crushing injury to the chest and multiple rib fractures.

ON FEB. 3: police cited Marilyn J. Cardelli, 22, of 2526 N. 79th st., Elmwood Park, for improper passing, after she pulled out around a truck making a left-hand turn while proceeding north on York rd. three miles west of Touhy ave.

The truck smashed into the rear of the woman's car. Driver of the truck, E Van Cleave, 29, of 536 Germaine ln., Elk Grove Village, was charged with failure to signal a turn.

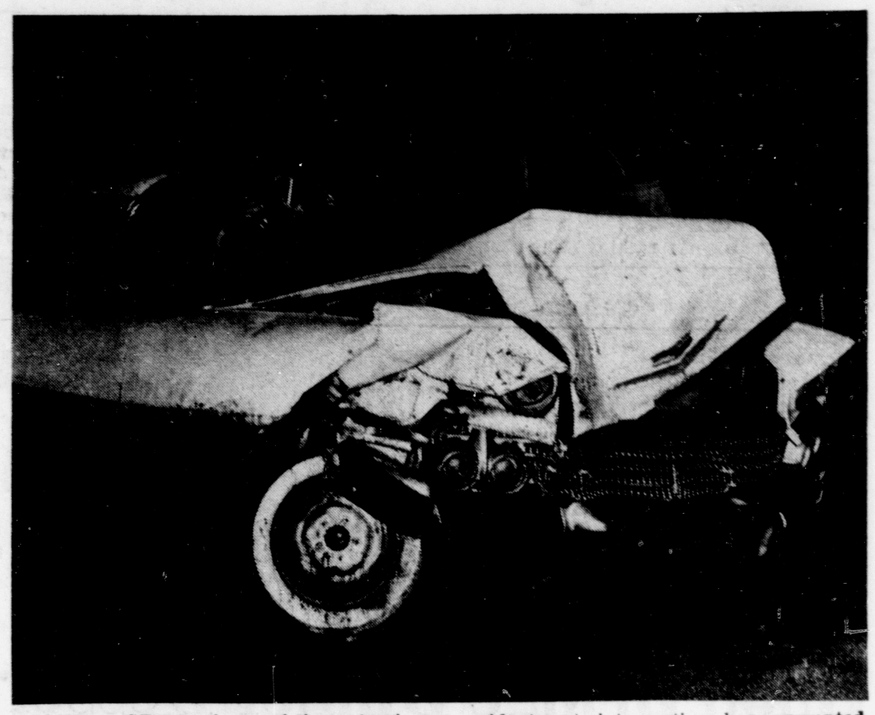

Damage to the vehicles was estimated to be around $190, state police figured.

Feb. 1: Police cited James F. Theis, 27, of 1908 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights, with driving too fast for conditions after he lost control of his pickup truck going north on Illinois 83 a mile north of U. S. 12, hit a mail box and plunged into a culvert.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,200. Theis and a passenger, Kenneth Goodwin, 24, of R. R. 1, Wheeling, escaped injury.

BLOODIED MOTORIST IS lifted to stretcher following traffic mishap at Illinois 62 and Wilke rd. last Thursday. Injured were George D. Jamieson, 24, of 910 W. Euclid, Arlington Heights, and Henry D. Franz, 41, of Crystal Lake, motorists whose cars collided almost head-on. (B-8

SMASHED GRILL of one of the autos involved in crash at Illinois 62 and Wilke rd. testifies to impact of collision. Rash of accidents at intersection has prompted one resident to press for petition which will ask for traffic lights at location.

SPRAWLED IN grotesque manner in front of tree is automobile belonging to George C. Turba, 36, of Arlington Heights, who lost control of it on Arlington Heights State rd. a quarter mile south of Illinois 58. Turba was listed in serious condition Monday at Northwest Community hospital. (B-8

Burglars Loot Gas Station

Burglars made off with close to 40 automobile tires from the Shell service station located at Euclid ave. and U. S. 12 last Saturday night, District 3 state police reported this week.

Police said the new tires were for passenger cars. They are also investigating a break-in at the Gaare Oil company, Rohlwing rd. and U. S. 14, where thieves smashed a window to gain entrance and stole six business machines and an undetermined amount of money. (B8

Force Flowering Shrubs Indoors

Give spring a gentle nudge by forcing early-flowering shrubs indoors, and watch blue moods fade away.

Forsythia is perhaps the most common early-flowering shrub. But others that may be forced to bloom indoors in late winter include crabapple, dogwood, flowering or Japanese quince, redbud, bridalwreath, flowering almond and pussywillow.

G. M. FOSLER, University of Illinois floriculturist, says that branches of these shrubs should be cut for forcing when the flower buds begin to swell in late winter, generally six to eight weeks before normal blooming.

Clip long branches from shrubs carefully so that the permanent shape of the bush will not be ruined.

To encourage flowering, Fosler gives these suggestions:

Split the stems of the branches or pound them to help them absorb water.

Place the branches in a deep container of warm water (about 65 degrees to 70 degrees F.). Keep in a semi-cool area with moderate light and as high a humidity as possible until the flowers appear.

TO SUPPLY additional moisture, spray or dampen the branches daily. A small hand sprayer or laundry sprinkler is a handy tool for this process.

Change the water every few days. And once a week cut one-half inch from the base of the stems, preferably at an angle.

To speed up flowering, plunge the stems daily into hot water (100 degrees to 110 degrees F.), and let the water cool naturally.

If the flowers are coming too fast, move them to a cooler room. But avoid abrupt changes. (BB

SUBURBANITES IN THE NEWS

Two Suburbs Leaders In 10-Years' Growth

A total of 8,709 of the 19,091 homes built during the 1950's in 11 northwest suburbs were built in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect. Home construction in these two suburbs was valued at $145,447,804, nearly half the $296,105,611 valuation of homes built in all 11 suburbs.

These statistics are contained in a compilation of home construction facts for the past decade furnished by Bell Savings and Loan Association of Chicago.

NUMBER of new homes, with valuation in parenthesis, for the 11 suburbs are Arlington Heights, 4,772 ($80,796,104); Mt. Prospect, 3,937 ($64,651,700); Elk Grove Village, 1,966 ($31,110,738); Palatine, 1,827 ($28,530,130); Rolling Meadows, 1,609 ($24,812,26).

Streamwood, 1,185 ($13,542,880); Bensenville, 1,181 ($15,106,220); Addison, 1,122 ($15,352,000); Wheeling, 806 ($9,942,057); Roselle, 534 (8,989,450), and Wood Dale, 152 ($2,272,070).

Best years in terms of number of homes constructed occured during the last half of the decade in nine of 11 suburbs. Exceptions were Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect, the two suburbs which accounted for about 45 per cent of home construction starts. Best years in these two towns were Arlington Heights, 1954 (641 homes), and Mt. Prospect, 1954 (684 homes).

Throughout the Chicago area 427,375 new homes were built from 1950 through 1959. Highest number of housing starts for a single year in this area was 52,870 in 1955. Lowest number of housing starts for a single year was 32,938 in 1951.

IN ALL of Du Page county 15,182 homes were built during the past decade. Their valuation was $236,707,849.

Addison's 1,122 homes listed in the survey all were built from 1956 through 1959, Rolling Meadows from 1955 through 1959, Streamwood from 1957 through 1959 and Wheeling and Wood Dale from 1956 through 1959. The Bell survey began in those years in these communities.

Large percentages of the total home construction during the decade were recorded in one year in Elk Grove Village (763 of 1,966 in 1958); Rolling Meadows (700 of 1,609 in 1955), and Streamwood (632 of 1,185 in 1958. (BB

Oak Park Federal Growth Continues

Figures released by John P. Domeier, president of Oak Park Federal Savings, 1001 Lake st., Oak Park, reveal a pattern of swift growth for the association during 1959.

Domeier said, "1959 has been more than gratifying at Oak Park Federal Savings. Savers broke every single-year record that has ever been established here.

Nine thousand, four hundred sixty-one new savings accounts were opened during the past year. Gross new savings money in 1959 totalled $39,000,000, as compared with the association's previous high record of $30,000,000 during 1958.

"IN TOTAL resources, Oak Park Federal grew $21,923,000 compared with $13,768,000 in 1958, and $3,144,000 in 1957. Resources now exceed 104 million dollars.

"Savers in 1958 were paid $1,991,000 in earnings on their savings—a previous all-time high. For 1959 more than $2,627,000.00 was distributed to savers.

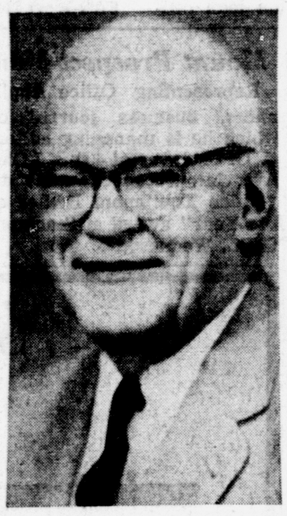

"$512,000.00 was set aside, out of earnings, increasing total reserves for losses from $4,599,853.34 to $5,111,540.34.

"THREE THOUSAND four hundred thirty-nine first-mortgage loans and home improvement loans were made, in the amount of $40,815,000.00.

"All in all, 1959 proved to be our most successful year to date. With the settlement of the steel strike, and a continuing-high level of business activity, 1960 will be undoubtedly a more competative year for those financial institutions, businesses and governments interested in attracting the saver's dollar.

"Mortgage rates as well as savings rates will continue to rise—at least for the first half of the year. Associations who fare best will be those who place most emphasis upon the safety of savers' funds, and who make saving more convenient than ever." (BB

St. Paul Federal says...
"Sometimes, progress is hard to see!"

Building Report No. 14 to shareholders and friends

Despite rain and snow, work has moved along steadily on the new St. Paul Federal addition. But if you've ever built a home, you know there are times when progress can hardly be seen with the eye. Right now, we seem to be going through such a period with our expanded building.

Concrete, more concrete

Two of the 21-foot-high basement walls are completed, and the mammoth room-size footings have been poured. Some concrete work remains on two walls. Next in sight are the concrete columns that will rise up out of the basement to the first floor. There will be 35 of these columns, ranging from 12 inches to 24 inches square.

Speed-up in sight

"Soon as we get out of the hole," said the contractor, "progress will be much faster. And pouring of the first floor slab, as well as preparations for it, should interest any sidewalk superintendent."

From the photo below, you can see that our expanded building will cover an entire block on North Avenue between Normandy and Rutherford. The right wing will be entirely new. There will be a new center foyer on North Avenue, an entrance on Normandy, and drive-in facilities on the north side of the new addition.

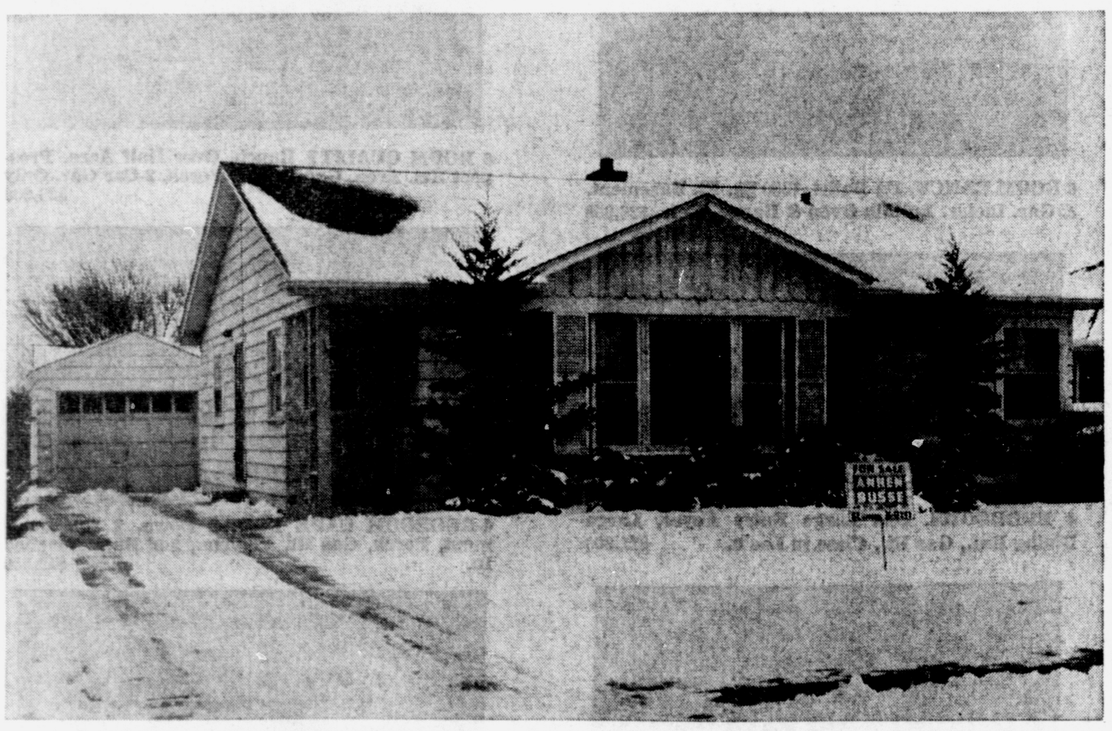

Come, watch 'em work

Remember, the fence around our building site has been specially built for you sidewalk superintendents. There are over 25 wire mesh viewers, each a foot wide and running from the ground to fencetop. That's so you can see everything that's going on. Plan to stop by real soon and see our new addition going up.

Learn Flower Talk For St. Valentine

In this Leap Year of 1960, surprising numbers of people are taking Valentine's day as a cue to brush up on the language of flowers. Floral Symbolica, a best seller of 1866, said: "Some flowers almost bear written upon their upturned faces the thoughts of which they are living representatives." And by the same author (John Ingram): "Not only have poets made use of flowers to portray their intense passions, but the untutored savage woos his heart's chosen treasure with floral symbols."

Most of the sentiments found in 19th century tomes still hold true in 1960, though the flowers of the ancients have been replaced by the St. Valentine's varieties of today.

IN THE MODERN version of the language of flowers there are very much the thoughts of Henry Ward Beecher when he wrote: "Flowers have an expression of countenance as much as men. Some seem to smile; some have a sad expression; some are pensive and diffident; others again are plain, honest and upright."

So modern botanists have brought their language up-to-date in ways which give a practical hint. Swains, young or old, can say just about what they mean to say in the floral Valentines they send. The warm greeting of roses, if they're red, comes right to the point with "I love you." If the roses are white, "You're heavenly," or "You're innocent." Pink roses promise, "I'll never forget you;" yellow roses, "Try to care," or "I'm jealous." Sweetheart roses, the miniature rosebuds clustered on a single stem, vow that "I'll remember always."

Red carnations mince no words; "I'm carrying the torch for you." Fragrant white carnations breathe, "You're sweet and lovely," Pink carnations promise, again, "I'll never forget you." Newest in the carnation and camelia spectrum are the striped or variegated colors which at St. Valentine's day have a very definite way of saying, "Sorry I can't be with you," or "Wish I could be with you." Yellow carnations plead eloquently, "You have disappointed me."

"To a beautiful lady," is exclusively the voice of the orchid whether expressed by the large lavender kind that belongs to the mature woman or the dainty orchid spray for a young girl. Sophisticated camellias, the red variety, are warm reminders that "You're a flame in my heart. If the camellias are white, "You're adorable," or "Adorable you."

DAINTY PINK camellias plead, "I'm longing for you." The white gardenia, in quiet grace, breathes "You're lovely." Violets tied in an old-fashioned nosegay promise, as you would suspect, to be "always true."

The colorful gladiola pleads "Give me a break — "I'm really sincere."

The golden daffodil carries its ancient message: "The sun is always shining when I'm with you," and the modern version, "You're the only one." The blue iris declares, "Your friendship means so much to me." Stately snapdragons bear greetings to "A gracious lady." Tulips unfold their voluble petals to say, "I love you — believe me." And, daisies, of course — "I'll never tell."

McDonald Hamburgers Set Sales Volume Records

A record 93 per cent increase in sales volume to a total $21,438,041 gross in 1959 was reported by the McDonald's hamburger drive-in chain. Sales for 1958 were $11,085,499.

Total number of units in the 12-month period rose to 148 drive-ins in 24 states as of January 1, reported Ray A. Kroc, 620 Ironwood, Arlington Heights, president of McDonald's System, Inc.

IN THE local area there is a McDonald's drive-in at 1592 W. Northwest Highway in Arlington Heights. The operator is Dick Linnell.

More than 75 million hamburgers were sold by McDonald's during 1959, bringing the total sold since inception of the chain in April, 1955, to 300 million, stated Kroc. More than 3,500 tons of beef were used by McDonald's units during 1959.

"The hamburger continues to be the single most popular restaurant order in America today," reported Kroc. "The remarkable growth of the McDonald's chain to a $20 million business in less than five years is indicative of the tremendous popularity of this favorite American food.

"BASICALLY McDonald's success is due in large part to making hamburgers a large volume business and reversing the present inflationary trend of prices.

"Also we have eliminated all the nuisance adjuncts of drive-ins, such as juke boxes and tipping, and set a new trend in self-service. As a result of this formula, we haye been able consistently to double our sales every year. We fully anticipate again doubling our sales and number of units in 1960."

Only three food items are sold at McDonald's drive-ins They are hamburgers, cheeseburgers, French fires. Seven kinds of drinks make up the limited 10-item menu. Headquarters of the chain are at 221 N. LaSalle St. in Chicago. (B

Auto Once Was A Big Curiosity

The automobile was such a novelty in 1896 that the Barnum and Bailey Circus displayed one as its main oddity.

Today there are more than 80 million passenger cars traveling on the world's roads, according to World Encyclopedia. And about 56 million are owned by Americans.

That's enough cars to take every man, woman and child in the U. S. for a Sunday drive at one time — with room left over for all the people of Great Britain and France. And even then, there would be 15 million empty seats.

HERE ARE some other interestng facts about automobiles:

England tried to discourage the use of cars in 1865 by passing the Red Flag Law. The law required that someone carrying a red flag in the daytime and a lantern at night walk ahead of any steam carriage traveling on the highways.

The first president to ride in a car was William McKinley. He was taken to a hospital in an electric ambulance after being shot by an assassin in 1901.

A Cadillac was driven up the steps of the Capitol in Washington, D. C., in 1905 to prove the car's power.

The average car lasted 6.5 years in 1925. Today it lasts more than 12 years. The average 1925 car traveled 25,750 miles before it was scrapped. The average car today travels 110,000 miles.

Private passenger cars in the U. S travel more than 500 billion miles a year . . . a distance greater than 2,700 round trips to the sun. (BB

Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

Some weeks ago I announced in this column the "National Flower" election being held by the florists all over the country.

The votes are in, and the final tally shows the rose to be the winner by nearly 2 to 1 over its closest rival, the carnation. Third in the standing was the chrysanthemum.

Forty-eight of the fifty states named the rose as top choice, with only Hawaii and Colorado naming the carnation as most favored.. Varieties of roses are already the state flowers of Iowa, North Dakota, New York, and Georgia. If Congress decides to name the rose the official flower of the United States, we will be the fifth country to adopt the bloom as the national emblem. England, Luxembourg, Iran, and Honduras have named the rose as their national flower.

The official returns will be submitted to the chairmen of the Senate judiciary subcommittee on federal charters, holidays and celebrations, and the House committee on administration which will consider the recommendation for the national flower.

The first five flowers in the balloting and the number of votes cast for each flower are: rose, 386,841; carnation, 171,591; chrysanthemum, 75,729; lily-of-the-valley, 60,033; the orchid, 46,681. Other flowers in order of popularity were tulip, gladiolus, camelia, blackeyed - susan, mountain laurel, geranium, magnolia, goldenrod, rhodendron, daffodil, peony, shasta daisy, grass, corn tassel, and marigold.

Well over one million votes were cast in virtually every community in the United States.

For over 40 years, selection of an official flower has been discussed in Congress. Last session, 15 bills were introducing nominating various flowers. It is hoped that the results of this election will hasten the selection of the rose as the national flower.

The 11-week course included instruction in all basic military subjects and infantry weapons.

Upon completion of training new Marines are assigned to a unit for further infantry training, or to one of the many Marine Corps schools.

A Steal

Foreign countries shipped about 4 million tons of steel to the U.S. in 1959, almost twice as much as ever before, due to the long-struck steel mills idled in this country.

At Spence AFB

Aviation Cadet Robert C. Haase, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Haase, Lexington Fields Estates, Route 1, Palatine, graduated from Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, on Nov. 10, 1959, where he received 12 weeks of Pre-Flight Training.

At present, Robert is at Spence Air Force Base in Moultrie, Ga. His Flight-training there consists of 130 hours of flight training, plus a complete physical training and ground-school training program.

The entire Aviation Cadet program takes 15 months to complete, and Bob is expected to graduate in December 1960.

He is a graduate of Lane Technical High, in Chicago and the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana.

At Great Lakes

Lance J. and Kurt J. Engle, sons of Mr and Mrs. James F. Engle, 115 E. Willow, Arlington Heights, and Jon M. Woodworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kennith M. Woodworth of 801 S. Owen, Mt Prospect, graduated from recruit training January 30 at the Naval Training center, Great Lakes.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of boot camp, included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

Marines Offering Aviation Posts

In a strong bid for its share of today's air-minded young men, the U. S. Marine Corps is now guaranteeing aviation assignments to some recruits at the recruiting station at 5255 Main st., Skokie.

This is a sharp departure from past Marine Corps recruiting policy, says MSgt. Donald Nygaard, local Marine recruiter, who works out of the Palatine post office each Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

UNDER present recruiting policy, Nygaard said, he can guarantee a few enlistees each month a spot with Marine aviation. The program will slowly fill the Marine's three air wings with air-minded volunteers. It is a permanent Marine recruiting feature, Nygaard believes.

A recruit guaranteed aviation duty is assigned to basic airman school after he completes regular boot and combat training. From there, the aviation recruit is further assizned to school or on-the-job training in one of the many aviation specialties such as jet mechanics, aviation electronics, air traffic control or aviation communications.

Marine recruits who qualify academically and physically are eligible to apply for pilot training. They must meet the requirements of the Naval Air cadet program under which most Marine pilots are trained. (WUS

Although the Chicago Motor Club distributes the poster above for the benefit of children in 45,000 grade school classrooms in Illinois and Indiana, it applys to adults as well. Its message warns children of grade school age of the hazards of icy streets. It also serves as a warning to drivers, advising them to "Be Extra Alert In Bad Weather" for the safety of the motorist, all pedestrians, and other drivers. It takes just a split second of carelessness to be involved in a serious accident. Winter weather makes it all the more important for drivers to practice courtesy and caution behind the wheels of their cars.

Explorer Campout Caps Scout Week

About 150 Signal Hill and Blackhawk district explorer scouts will take to the woods tomorrow night as a climax to their week-long celebration of the Boy Scouts' 50th birthday.

The boys - all of high school age will officially christen Lakota reservation, northwest suburban council scouts' newly purchased week-end camp site seven miles west of Woodstock. One or more adult volunteer explorer advisors will accompany each of the 16 units in attendance, designated variously as explorer posts, ships or squadrons.

The overall three-day program was arranged by a five scout planning committee headed by explorer Douglas Smith, Inverness. Smith is a member of Palatine Explorer Squadron 109, sponsored by the Palatine Lions club.

THROUGHOUT THE weekend, the scouts will live in tents and cook outdoors over wood fires and portable gas stoves. Part of their time will be devoted to expanding the service facilities of the new site, which has no buildings as yet. Firewood will be cut from heavy standing timber available. Improvement of the road leading into Lakota camp is also on the docket.

If the weatherman cooperates, toboggans, skis and ice skates will be the entertainment order of the day. "Moskeet" is also on the program. Moskeet is a .22 calibre skeet shoot utilizing special guns at a range of about 100 yards and described by scout leaders as "safe but exciting." Archery followed by a bowling tourney in Woodstock, Saturday night, round out the scouts' schedule.

Anticipated scout attendance by suburb at the campout is: Arlington Heights, 25; Barrington, 20; Hoffman Estates, 15; Lake Zurich, 15; Mount Prospect, 20; Palatine, 25; Prospect Heights, 15; Rolling Meadows, 15.

Visitors to the winter camp will include Signal Hill and Blackhawk district scout executives John Fanning and William Griffin, according to the explorers' committee for guests and special arrangements.

The Lakota campout will officially end local observance of national Boy Scout Week, which runs through Saturday. However, the 285 northwest suburban council cub scout packs, boy scout troops and explorer units are planning other special activities for the remainder of the year in recognition of 1960 as the BSA's golden jubilee year.

Palatine Council Proceedings: The lamplighting and police committee were authorized to provide suitable iron bunks for the jail.

Judiciary committee reported that they had examined the seating capacity of the Palatine Opera House and that the same safely accommodates 354 people, and they recommended that this hall be not crowded above that seating capacity hereafter. They also reported that a fire escape was necessary on the south side of building.

Carl Meyer, born at Berlin, March 5, 1846, died Feb. 6, 1910. He came to this country about 45 years ago and married Helena Wehrenberg Oct. 5, 1872. To them were born 6 children of whom three, Henry C. Meyer of Lake Zurich, Louise (Mrs. Clark Keyes) of Jackson, Mich., Bertha, (Mrs. Wm. Devermann) of Barrington, survive him. He had been a farmer in Palatine and vicinity all his life, and had a large acquaintance throughout the country.

Meacham

Friends and neighbors of Adolph Hinz joined him in a barn raising Saturday. As a result there is a fine new barn on the hill southeast of the station.

Schaumburg

The basket social and spell down was a grand success. The amount taken in from the baskets was $15. Mrs. Volkening received the prize in the spell down, after which the crowd played games of various kinds, such as throwing the bean bag, spin the platter. Miss Gilmer is a splendid type of the American school ma'm who helps build up the country schools under conditions that aren't always the most desirable. A great deal of credit is due the plucky little school mistress.

Arlington Heights

Pastor Noack had the honor to officiate at a grand double wedding — two brothers married two sisters at St. Peter's Lutheran church, Sunday, Feb. 6, 1910. Mr. George D. Niemeyer and Miss Elsie Piepenbrink were attended by Messrs. Louis Beese and Wm. Piepenbrink, Misses Emma and Christina Niemeyer. The other couple were Mr. Wm. C. Niemeyer and Miss Anna Piepenbrink whose groomsmen were Messrs. Louis Niemeyer and Herman Piepenbrink; bridesmaids were Misses Emma Hograver and Martha Niemeyer. It was a gay and festive occasion witnessed by a large crowd of relatives and friends driving stylish teams. The editor was not invited so cannot do the grand affair justice.

The American Legion minstrel show played to a packed house Wednesday evening at the hall. Wm. Kuhs as middle man and Geo. Kost and Al Adam as end men, brought down the house with their witty sallies. The trombone solo by Dick Boeger was a big hit and the numbers by the Nichols orchestra were good and appreciated by the audience. A 35 minute sketch, entitled "Good Morning Judge," closed the program and sent the audience home happy, voting the Legioners good fellows. The local post has a good membership of hustling fellows and we hope to hear more of them in the near future.

Miss Kunie Horcher, who has been our first grade teacher for a number of years and who has been absent from her duties for nearly three weeks on account of flu, is back again. The teachers and pupils were more than joyful over her return. She was sorely missed in the school. It is understood that nearly every parent of the 49 pupils in her room visited her during her sickness. This speaks a high compliment for those parents. We should see more of such appreciation in our schools. Miss Horcher, as well as the rest of the teachers, no doubt would appreciate it if the parents would visit the school in such numbers and spirit as they visited Miss Horcher during her incapacitation.

During Miss Horcher's absence, 4 different teachers had charge of her work. They were the Misses Marjorie Berbecker, Clara Kellogg, Rose Zoll, Mrs. Newton Plagge of Barrington, and Mrs. Milton Daniels. On account of the coal dust in the unloading of coal creeping into the second grade rooms, Miss Irene Russel and her flock of 45 were dismissed.

Roselle

One of the worst wrecks that Roselle ever experienced occurred Sunday at 8:30 p.m. when a double header freight train, east-bound, jumped the track at the west switch, derailing and throwing 26 cars in every conceivable manner, one of which was sent half way through Hattendorf's big department store. The derailment was caused by either a broken truck or switch. Both engines and several cars remained on the track. The damage to the rolling stock and carloads of corn, lumber and canned goods will possibly amount to over $100,000.00. The damage to Hattendorf's store and merchandise will amount to approximately $4000.00.

Zoning was the topic in the morning session and city and village officials and members of the plan commissions and Board of Appeals from the Chicago area had a busy and instructive morning . . . Arlington Heights, with a population of 4800, is zoned with business frontage for a city of 65,000; not taking into consideration the industrial zones which also may be used for stores. According to the estimates of zoning experts Palatine is well fortified in business frontage for the big growth which this village is expected to enjoy during the next few years.

At the bakery sale tomorrow (Saturday) at 3 o'clock, at the Health Center at the village hall, members and friends of the Woman's Club will have the opportunity to see the new library furniture which is to be given by the club to the people of Arlington Heights.

Schaumburg

After being without a store a number of years, Schaumburg now has a modern grocery and ice cream parlor. W. J. Lattner, of Chicago, is the proprietor. The store is north of the creamery and convenient to patrons of that institution. Mr. Lattner is experienced and is looking forward to an excellent trade.

Wheeling

Albert Rateike, for many years resident and farmer of the town of Wheeling, passed on to eternity Feb. 11 at 2 p.m. Born in Germany, he lived to be 75 years and 9 months of age. Merle Guild Post of the American Legion will be hosts to all scouts in Arlington Heights and their parents at the northside school house Friday evening, Feb. 9, as a local observance of National Boy Scout Week. There will be movies and short talks by men prominent in scouting in this territory. Recognition will be paid to Wm. Freyermuth who won the award as the honored camper last summer at the camp maintained by Merle Guild Post at Lake Zurich. His name will be engraved on the cup which stands on the mantel at the headquarters in the legion home. At the present time scoutcraft is sponsored by the following groups: Troop 5, American Legion, Troop 7, Parents' Committee, Cub Pack, Parent-Teachers, and a third group if present plans go thru, to be sponsored by the Presbyterian church.

The organization of Boy Builders met Tuesday evening in the field house and installed George Milligan, master builder with due ceremony.

Arlington Heights Public Health Committee announced this week that dental clinics for school children will be interrupted Thursday for lack of funds. The Health committee has been able to finance 22 hour clinics in the offices of local dentists. These clinics have been able to treat elementary school children whose parents were financially unable to give their children the care they should have.

Palatine

Mrs. Elnora Foster brought to the last meeting of Sutherland W.R.C. four interesting old time pictures. Two were of the first bazaar the corps held in Abelman hall; some on those pictures were Mrs. Elnora Hunt, Mrs. Betsy Fenton, Mrs. Henrietta Schierding, Mrs. Lydia Hicks, Mrs. Ellen Pierce, Mrs. Alma Smith, Mrs. Blanche Reuse, Mrs. Amanda Julian, Mrs. Alma Arps, Mrs. Abbie Stroker with her twin sons as babies, and many who are still active in the work. These were taken in 1901. Another picture was of American Corps at the time Mrs. Ella Work was department president and Mrs. Alma Arps was department inspector in the year of 1911. Mrs. Nettie McGowen, a member of Sutherland Corps, is on the picture. Another picture was of a lawn party held on the Ralph Peck lawn and was taken by John Collins. In the group of children sitting on the ground can be found Mae Howes, Robert Schoppe, Albert Putnam, Alma Olson and Clark Kuebler, and many others. Sutherland Corps was organized in March 1901 by the late Alma Arps, and her mother, the late Elnora Hunt.

From Tales of the Street, by T. C. Hart: When Albert J. Kraemer, tax collector of Elk Grove township, died last week a well known and well liked resident of this area passed over the great divide. "Al" Kraemer was a friendly fellow always with the sunny disposition and ready with a helping hand. Many years ago "Al" operated a large coffee route through this part of the county and was known as the "coffee man." He knew every farmer and truck grower in the area and the friends he made in those days remained his friends. During the years he was tax collector of Elk Grove Township, "Al" continued to make friends, and a firm friendship developed between himself and collectors Annen of Wheeling township and Hart of Palatine township. "The three Horsemen," the fellows down at the county building called the three northwest towns collectors, as they were always together when tax time came around. Mr. Kraemer also worked for some time in the county treasurer's office and there again his sunny disposition and helpful manner made many friends. He was a good husband, a good friend, a good public official, a man with a genial sunny disposition who was a friend to all who knew him, and his memory will live long in the hearts of those who are left behind.

All five generations of the family of Mrs. Louise Rohlwing were present at her 86th birthday party. Daughter Mrs. Emma Pfingsten, 68 of Roselle; Mrs. Esther Benhart 43, of Roselle; Mrs. Lou Ellen Hansen, 22 of Keeneyville, and Lou Ann Hansen 4 months, Keeneyville. Twenty-five members of the family were present at the dinner. Mrs. Rohlwing has 29 grandchildren, 54 great grandchildren, and 3 great great grandchildren. No member of the family resides more than 25 miles away from home. Mrs. Rohlwing has a sister, Mrs. Engel Nerge of Mt. Prospect, who is 83, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Engel Lichthardt of Arlington Heights, who will be 89 in May.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Just what does "bowing" mean for a woman?

A. This does not, of course, mean a deep, formal bend. It is, rather, a pleasant nod and smile, accompanied by a slight bend forward from the waist. Bowing should be a friendly gesture, rather than a stiff one. You would use it in greeting friends across a room, and some naturally graceful women combine it pleasantly with shaking hands

Q. When a man and woman are leaving a crowded bus, is the man always supposed to get out first in order to help the woman?

A. Yes — but only if he can do so without too much jostling and squeezing.

Q. When applesauce is served with pork, should it be eaten with a spoon or fork?

A. It is better to use the fork.

Q. I've heard that elbows-on-table rule of eating has been relaxed. Is this true?

A. Yes. It is now generally acceptable to lean the elbows on the table — so long as you do it only between courses, and not while you're actually eating.

Q. Does the mother of the bride stay in her pew after the party has gone up the aisle and wait for an usher to return and escort her out of the church?

A. Correctly, she should wait for the usher to return and escort her up the aisle.

Q. Is a man always supposed to light the cigarette of the girl he is escorting?

A. When he can do so easily, yes. He doesn't have to get up and run across the room to light her cigarette, or if he's driving his car, he doesn't take his attention from traffic to perform this rite.

Boy Scouts Number Over 5 Million!

On the eve of its 50th anniversary, to be observed February 7 to 13, the Boy Scouts of America announced it had passed the 5 million mark in active membership, according to Frank B. Newton, scout executive of the Northwest Suburban council.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, told local Scout officials that 1959 closed with 5,043,195 boys and adult leaders active in the movement, an all-time high in active membership.

The boy membership shows 3,686,763 registered, a gain of 71,690 or 2 per cent during the year.

CUB SCOUTS, a program for boys eight, nine, and 10 years of age, total 1,822,062, a gain of 7,558. There are 1,589,138 Boy Scouts, a gain of 46,090 or 3 per cent.

Explorers in posts, ships, and squadrons total 275,563, a gain of 18,042 or 7 per cent.

Dr. Schuck also said there are 1,356,432 adult leaders in the movement, a gain of 20,620 or 1.5 per cent.

On December 31, there were 129,097 units, a gain of 4,548 over the previous year or 3.7 per cent. There are now 47,286 Cub Scout packs, 60,505 Boy Scout troops, and 21,306 Explorer units.

Since its founding 50 years ago, February 8, the Boy Scouts of America has ended each year with a gain in membership. Since 1910, there have been more than 31,500,000 boys and leaders identified with the Boy Scouts of America.

Square Dance Club News

Palatine Squares

A Valentine Eve hoe-down will commence Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Paddock school, Palatine, and club officials invite everyone to come out 'n' dance to the calls of Art Mathew. A special invitation is extended to anyone who just likes to watch other people have fun and spectators are very welcome.

At the club's last dance a full square of visitors came from Crystal Lake, home of square dance enthusiasts from 'way back. Everybody had a ball and in the half-hour pre-dance session of round dance instruction caller Don Finfrock and his wife, Kay, taught the currently popular, "It Had to be You."

Melody Squares

The Melody Squares (formerly the Alumni Squares) will hold their Valentine party tomorrow night, Friday, starting at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Park fieldhouse, Arlington Heights. Members, friends and visitors will be welcomed by the newly elected officers, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keefer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dargatz, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Straub and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Quarnstrom.

The dance committee asks, "Please bring a dish for the potluck supper that will follow the dancing." Walter Meier, the "old master" of square dancing, will call the turns for all the sweethearts who come to the fieldhouse for an evening of Valentine fun.

Further information may be had by calling the Straubs, Cl9-0470, or the Quarnstroms, F19-0805.

Arlington Heights

The Arlington Heights square dance this Saturday night will honor everything that's timely. Officials invite everyone to "emancipate" themselves from chores and leap into the "Honey Hop" at the Miner Junior High school. The old heart specialist Bill Clarke will begin the calling at 8:30. Dancing is at popular level.

Bucks and Does

Elk Grove club members extend an open invitation to Saturday night at Higgins school, Touhy and Higgins, Elk Grove. They guarantee a honey of a time, hearty dancing to the calling of Bob Kim and refreshments to sweeten all sweethearts. Anyone who won't feel the impact of Valentine's day after the Bucks and Does dance just ain't got a heart. Dancing starts at 8:30.

The club's last dance had many guests, among them several guest callers. You can't keep a caller from calling if you want to, but nobody wanted to and everybody enjoyed hearing from Bob Kim, Dan Larkin, Lenny Roos and John Pearson. Among them, regular caller Frank Walker had his say.

A last minute note comes from the Bob Kims. Anyone interested in lessons can still join the group that meets at Higgins school Tuesdays at 8 p.m. Registration will remain open for one more week.

Art Center Sponsors Film Festival Series

The Arlington Art Center is sponsoring a series of classic films to be shown through the spring months at the Arlington high school Little Theatre.

The series will serve a double purpose: it will further the aim of the Art Center to bring all forms of good art to the northwest suburbanite and it will aid the group in establishing a workshop-gallery for the community.

Tickets are $5 for the series of six film programs. No single admissions will be sold. The Little Theatre is located in Arlington Heights on Ridge and Euclid avenues.

Membership in the series will be limited to 200 so early registrations are suggested. All tickets must be sold by February 28.

Application blanks may be obtained from any member of the Art Center or you can send your check directly to: Arlington Art Center c/o Gallagher, 726 N. Gibbons Ave., Arlington Heights, Ill.

FOR FURTHER information you may call William Wimmer, chairman of the Art Center at Cl. 3-6561 or Will Gallagher, Cl. 5-6047.

The Sunday evening programs beginning at 8 p.m. will include:

March 6: "Tillie's Punctured Romance" - One of the first feature comedies starring Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler, this movie directed by Mack Sennett is hilariously funny slapstick. Also, "The Bespoke Overcoat" - filmed in England, an excellent version of Gogol's short story. Winner of many film awards.

March 27: "Rasho-Mon" - A stunning work of art. It is truly a great film and one of the first Japanese dramas to receive unanimous acclaim. Superb acting, directing and photography.

April 24: "Diabolique" - a murder thriller, ghost story and character play rolled into one. A tense story with French actors. Starring Simone Signoret.

May 15: "Sawdust And Tinsel" - A Swedish film written and directed by Ingmar Bergman. This circus drama stars Ake Gronberg and was the winner of the Grand Prize, Venice Film Festival.

JUNE 5: "Bicycle Thief" - Academy Award winner, Best Foreign Film of the year. A touching story of a man, his son and a bicycle. Directed by Vittorio De Sica.

June 26: "Julius Caesar" - Roman - styled Chicago buildings were used as backgrounds in this independently made version of Shakespeare's play. Experimental photography far removed from the Hollywood approach to classic subjects. Charlton Heston stars as Caesar.

The center has tried, in programming this series to cover many phases of the film. The countries represented are: England, Japan, Italy, France, Sweden and the United States. These are all first rate films and to our knowledge not one has been shown on television.

A short feature, either a cartoon or comedy, will be shown each evening. W. C. Fields in "The Pharmacist" and a Mr. Magoo, "Fuddy Duddy Buddy" have been scheduled so far. (Bill

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Here are three ways to combat that old problem of getting the cake out of the pan:

1. For a cake that will slide out easily, coat the bottom and sides generously with ½ cup shortening mixed well with ¼ cup flour.

2. The easiest method is to cover the center of the bottom with a circle of brown paper, peeling it back over the cake to avoid breaking off pieces.

3. Grandma's old-fashioned method still works good . . . grease the bottom and sides generously with butter.

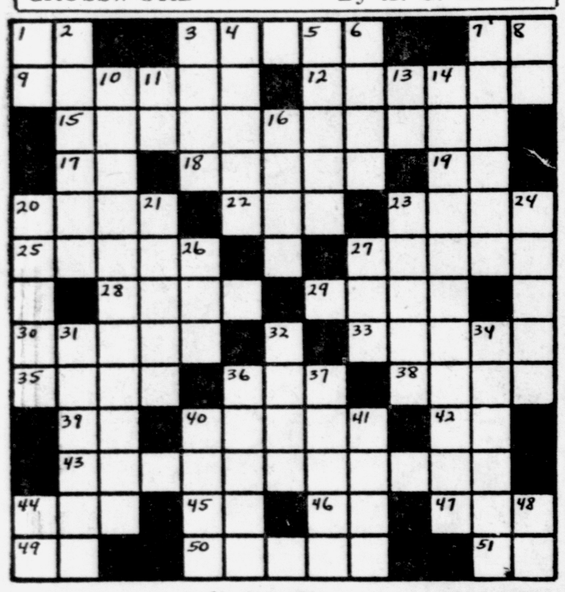

Regardless of method, there is a best time to remove the cake. Cool layer cakes 10 minutes, loaf cakes 20 minutes. If they stand longer, loosen the sides, warm the bottom on top of the range to loosen the paper and soften the crust so the cake will drop out easily.

Introduce Players For Palatine Play

LOOKING SHEEPISH in a ridiculous bathtub situation is Chuck Bailey, Arlington, who plays Herb in next week's Palatine Players performance of "Stalag 17." Jeering and trying to help bather Bailey along are (from left) Leon Stevens, Palatine, the play's director, John Grayson, Arlington Heights, and Don Swanson, Rolling Meadows. (Bill

With the opening of Palatine Players "Stalag 17" one week away, the roster of players is introduced.

And roster it looks like, as an all-male cast goes to work to bring the psychological tenseness of a wartime prison camp to view.

Heading director George Daniels' line is Leon Stevens as Sefton. Stevens will draw upon 3½ years of personal war experience as an infantryman and airforce member in Germany during the second war. He has appeared in three other Players' productions: "All My Sons," "Tender Trap" and "More than Meets the Eye."

A LOAN from Arlington Heights' Village Theatre is Joe H. Neyneber, who takes the role of Hoffy in the Palatine production. Neyneber is a fifth grade teacher at the Westgate school, Arlington. A graduate of Illinois Weslyan university, he got his start in amateur dramatics as a member of National Maskers.

John Grayson portrays Price, a security man who is a well-educated executive. Also a member of Village Theatre, Grayson has belonged to Uptown Players. He is a veteran of the Navy; works now for Rainsoft Water Conditioning, Wood Dale.

A young man from Lake Zurich, Bill Kollars, plays Stosh. He is a senior at Ela Vernon high school and has been in six productions there. The youngest member of "Stalag's" cast hopes to study dramatic education at Northwestern university.

William Nelson, Palatine, plays Corporal Schultz, a man who hides innate cruelty and arrogance under a cloak of good humor and cheerfulness.

HARRY IN the play is portrayed by Gaylon "Swede" Paske. He has worked backstage for the Players for a year. This Palatine barber helps break the tension of the prison barracks with humor.

Bill Appelquist, as Marco, is custodian of news and radio broadcasting in the play. A member of the Palatine Junior Chamber of Commerce, he runs his own business, the Appelquist Aluminum and Siding company.

A baby photographer, Dan Swanson, plays Reed. He has been a member of the New Castle Players, Footlights, Play Makers, and Chicago's Goodman Theater. His appearances include roles in "Desert Song," "Sally," "Good News," and "Stage Door."

Herb Gegenhuber is captain of the famed German Stormtroopers, S.S. In real life he is a sales engineer for Commercial Filter corporation and cub master of St. Theresa's pack 91. Gegenhuber is currently studying German at Arlington high school.

CHARLES BAILEY plays Hub Gordon. He is a Village Theatre member and surveyor for Suhr-Peterson corporation.

One of the most difficult parts in the play is taken by George Van Der Bosche. As Horney, he does no talking, but acts entirely by motion. Van Der Bosche's love of theater grew while he studied dramatics at Loyola university.

Another borrowed actor is Thomas Rowland who plays Dunbar. He is a Hoffman Estates Theater guild member, and did directing while at Fordham university, New York city.

A bit of the brogue is brought to the stage with James "Scotty" Kinsella's portrayal of Geneva Man. Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, "Scotty" is a veteran of the British Royal airforce and the Scottish vaudeville stage. He has done music productions in connection with the immigration department of Chicago.

JOE CRITTENDEN plays an S.S. guardsman. A member of the Arlington group, for 10 years, he has appeared in "You Can't Take it with You," "Sleeping Beauty," "George Washingt Slept Here," "Life with Father," "The Male Animal," "The Mna Who Came to Dinner," and "My Three Angels."

Tickets for next week's performances, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, may be obtained from the Players and members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. at Cutting Hall, Palatine high school. (Bill

'Ben-Hur' Not Great Film in Its Entirety

By JIM PHILLIPS

By now, you've read most of the reviews of "Ben-Hur" and are probably sick of hearing "spectacular movie," "dynamic story" and "devastatingly-exciting motion picture." So let's take a different viewpoint.

"Ben-Hur" is not a great picture in its entirety. It has moments of greatess, yes. So did the novel. It also has its slow scenes, but these I find are necessary in order to keep alignment with the novel's original theme — the relationship of two men — Ben-Hur, the Jew; and Messala, the Roman officer. Characterization is one of the strong points of the film, due to the fine acting turned in by Chadlton Heston as Judah Ben-Hur; Stephen Boyd as Messala; Haya Harareet, as Esther; and Jack Hawkins as the Roman naval officer who adopts the Jew as his son. Hugh Griffith turns in a superb job as the Arab who treats his horses as "his own children" and his pocketbook as if every chariot race were a "last betting opportunity." These people make the film live, together with the sensitive direction of the accomplished William Wyler.

YES, you've already heard about the sea battle, which has the gore of ancient hand-to-hand fighting coupled with the pitiful helplessness of the galley slaves who are chained to their oars. And "Ben-Hur" has the famous chariot race, which is called by many to be the high point of the film. It is a wonderfully-exciting secondary climax to the film, with it's astounding detail to bloodshed, calamity and competitive chaos. I call it a secondary climax becuse it satisfies Ben-Hur's desire to revenge the cruelty given his mother and sister at the hands of Messala.

But the real climax of the film deals with Ben-Hur's struggle to find, both in body and faith, the man called Jesus of Nazareth. When Christ is crucified, His blood runs over the ground, mingled with the waters of the rainstorm that follows His death. Ben-Hur's mother and sister have become lepers, and with the touch of the bloody stream that runs from Calvary, they are cleansed and the Ben-Hur family is reunited. Here is where the film ends, and rightly so.

The real success of this production is due to this climax and the many scenes that have reference to the events in Christ's life and how they affect Judah Ben-Hur. One of the most poignant scenes takes place after Ben-Hur and other captives are taken over the barren desert to the place where they will become galley slaves. The Roman officers stop at a well to water their horses; the exhausted slaves receive small amounts of water, but orders have been given to give nothing to Ben-Hur. When he collapses from the unbearable heat and thirst, Jesus comes forth and gives him a cup of the cool liquid. The few seconds of eye contact Ben-Hur has with Christ at this moment is worth the entire picture. The scene is touching, beautiful and reverent.

THE DIRECT parallel to this incident comes later. Jesus is forced to carry the cross through the streets, and when He falls, Ben-Hur forces his way through the Him water. The same "eye crowd and attempts to offer contact" technique is used here, too. These and other brief scenes are what give the picture its power. You can show chariot races and sea battles, but you can't always use a film successfully to reveal the inner feelings of human beings. William Wyler's efforts were a success, with the help of an intensified, but uncomplicated musical score by Miklos Rozsa.

Camera work on the film is excellent, with a special note of "well done" to the difficult filming of the chariot race. Special effects, color, and sets you'll find comparable to the typical "big" motion picture. The late Sam Zimbalist, who produced this epic would be proud of the entire job. It will be a money-maker for MGM.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject of "Ben-Hur" however, I think it's time we talked about the problem of theaters and why most of them are so blasted uncomfortable! Let me warn you now. Take a cushion with you when you go to the Mike Todd theater. It still has legitimate theater seats, which were unbearable in the "live drama" days, not to mention the present.

Also, you'll find the balcony a much better deal. It's cheaper, and you'll see and hear everything with ease. And with all the shenanigans going on in redecorating, tearing down prosceni um arches, building stage levels and providing room for the big screen, they still haven't solved the problem of how to get 900 people in and out of the washroom in 10 minutes of intermission time. I would suggest that a bigger theater be used for the next large-scale motion picture showing. It's time somebody thought of the movie-goer as a human being who likes to relax in comfort, and not some entertainment "automaton" who shoves his money through the box-office window when "the big ones come to town!"

Welfare Workers Never Cease in Fund-Raising Efforts

AS FOUR MT. PROSPECT Infant Welfare members discuss last minute plans for their February 20 dinner dance to be held at Inverness country club, their children, Vicki Ross, Grant McCullagh, Cindy Rancke and Jackie Leutz pretend that they have been invited along with the grownups. Their mothers are Mrs. Irving Ross, Mrs. Robert McCullagh, Mrs. Al Rancke and Mrs. Walter Leutz.

The ever-present flu changed plans of some Mt. Prospect Infant Welfare members who had hoped to attend the 49th annual meeting of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, held February 3 in the Sherman hotel. Those who did attend, Mrs. Irving Ross, Mrs. William Stanton, Mrs. Francis Stahr, Mrs. William Hunter, Mrs. Carl Sundberg Jr., Mrs. Donald Kane and Mrs. Walter Muskat, learned that $266,699 had been raised by the 50 centers, an $8000 increase over the year before.

1960 winter fund-raising project of the Mt. Prospect group is its dinner dance to be held February 20 in Inverness country club, Palatine. Among other money-making projects of the centers are thrift shops, antique shows, fashion shows, book clubs, candle teas, children's theatres, calendars, bazaars and horse shows.

FOUNDED IN 1913, Infant Welfare stations were originally milk stations, but soon changed to include nutritional and sanitation advice for pre-natal and post-natal situations. Now the needy mother can receive comprehensive medical attention through the child's youngest years. Infant Welfare has 17 stations scattered throughout Chicago's low income areas where children can be brought in for medical conferences or be visited at home by professional nurses.

Since its beginning, Infant Welfare has raised more than $5 million; in 1959 members contributed 8400 hours of volunteer work and 12,000 sewn baby garments.

Guest speaker at the annual meeting was Joan Beck of the Chicago Tribune, who emphasized the need of more Infant Welfare clinics to care for needy mothers and babies. (S

LATEST MONEY making project for a neighboring group, the Barrington Senior Infant Welfare center, is a furniture project. Proceeds will be used to maintain the health clinics sponsored by the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago.

The furniture has been divided into six different sets, and displays may be seen in the Bob and Betty shop, 106 E. Main, and Potpourri shop, 117 S. Cook, Barrington. This particular project began February 6 and will continue until April 22.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Behind-the-Scenes Tour

Dear Peg:

Besides helping the girls work on their requirements for first class this year, we try to plan "extra-curricular" activities to keep their scouting program interesting. Where last year simply the playing of a few games during the scout meeting would provide a change of pace and satisfy the girls, this year, as 10 year olds their surprising mental growth demands more "intellectual" activity. With this in mind, we've arranged trips to the city hall, the police station, the hospital, where on two occasions the troop rolled bandages, and most recently to the telephone company.

I think I was more amazed than the girls to see the intricate wiring necessary to the telephone system of a town. Have you ever seen the "insides" of your telephone company? There is aisle after aisle of high walls filled with tiny wires crossed and criss-crossed in an unbelievable maze. My first thought was how would they ever find the trouble if something went wrong with one of these delicate wires. Our guide explained that there was another system of wires whose function was only to locate such trouble mechanically. I don't know what happens if the trouble-locating wires have trouble!

We also visited the operating room (many giggles and funny jokes over the name of the room in which many operators sat at switchboards answering questions and making calls).

In the office on the first floor there were lovely colored telephones on display and of course the girls had to pick up and try the pretty (this one was pale pink) little Princess telephone — a newly designed, lightweight phone.

The girls were each given a set of books about the telephone company, the use of the telephone and a nicely illustrated story of Alexander Graham Bell. The troop enjoyed this experience — it might be a nice idea for your troop.

My love,
Patty (Soc

Quite Contrary by Mary

That Agonizing First Day

While it is divine to go to Florida in the winter, there are moments when I wish I had chosen the North Pole instead. That first day in the sunny south is a little agonizing. At least it is for me.

After journeying from the frozen steppes and emerging into the balmy breezes and bright sunshine, I look not unlike something that just crawled out from under a rock. That first morning is awful. I get into my last year's shorts which have definitely shrunk, particularly around the middle. I weasel my feet with their unpolished toenails into my old thong sandals and sally forth.

The object of the game is to get burned, suntanned, freckled or something just as fast as possible. The first couple of days I am diffident, meek, humble, shy and retiring. I feel and look like an outlander. I say pardon me if I even think I am going to pass in front of someone's chair.

But, just let me turn a mild pink and give me a pair of this year's shorts that fit and watch me strut. Add a pair of jazzy sunglasses and I become urbane, slinky, sophisticated, a wee bit arrogant but nicely, and almost unfit for human companionship. I get so Floridian that even the Floridians gasp when I go by. I may not look it but I feel teddibly, teddibly high style.

I'm sure that Florida is glad to be rid of me when I have to wend my reluctant way back to the land of ice and snow. I am more than sure that the poor unfortunates who have stayed bravely at home loathe me on sight. I am inclined to run around in shorts and sunback dresses even though the thermometer may be registering 20 below.

However, after a couple of weeks I start turning sort of a dirty yellow. Then is when I notice that people are beginning to speak to me in a more friendly fashion. I sort of let up on the talk of sunbathing, surf fishing, tennis and such. They sort of let up on sneering in my direction. (Soc

The parent is constantly confronted with problems which must be met with immediately.

Does the baby have a fever? Could that rash be the measles? Are his lungs congested? Should we call a doctor?

These are situations which cannot be passed over, but must be met with now! Your past experience and good judgment must be the key to helping you to the correct answer. However, a wise key might be to call your doctor whenever there is the slightest doubt as to the outcome.

SITUATIONS which are not as acute are often neglected due to the inexperience of the lay-person to detect them.

Fevers, rashes always prompt immediate action on the part of the parent. Such things as spinal curvatures, a slight limp, leg bowing, sagging posture, and many other structural changes may be neglected or overlooked by even the most cautious parent due to the lack of training in detecting these problems.

Such things as curvitures, round shoulders and other physical problems may be prevented if the child is made aware of the proper manner of prevention. Begin your child's postural training now whether he be of crib or school age, allow him a complete freedom of movement by not limiting his activity with heavy garments. They should be of sufficient warmth but also allow for maximum movement. Clothing worn should not bind any specific area, this is especially important in the chest and the abdominal regions.

Cribs should have firm mattresses so that marked sagging of the midportion of the body will be prevented. The baby's head should not be raised high with pillows, as this will cause increased flexion of the upper spine and flattening of the chest.

Part of a baby's development depends on things outside himself: so a baby left to lie in his bed all the time with little attention doesn't develop fast. He isn't alert because he has so little to stir or rouse him. Another part comes from within. Parents cannot "make" a child develop any faster than he will naturally. But they can give him surrounding and care that will allow him great freedom for using his abilities.

A 'HIGH-CHAIR' is a perfect instrument for teaching the very young the correct sitting position. The child should be made to sit back in the chair, so that hips touch the back of the chair, but feet flat on the foot support.

As to the carrying of your child about, hold him closely against your body with both hands. If the child is held loosely or with his spine markedly bent a severe strain may result.

Many parents are concerned with precocious walking on the part of their offspring. It is important that the child develop the large muscle groups supporting the torso and the hips before the walking stage. This can be done by encouraging his crawling for long periods. This in turn will enable the child to develop sufficient strength and control of his muscles to stand erect without fatigue and sag of his body.

AS THE CHILD begins to stand, with, and later without support, he can be taught to hold himself with the head up, the back almost flat, the abdomen retracted, and the feet carrying the weight firmly without sagging. This training cannot be pushed but must follow the natural development of the child in strength and size.

Allow these comments to act as a reminder to be aware of the postural and structural development of your children. For the child with an erect and correct posture will be the healthier child.

Active Musicians Show Their Stuff

GETTING INSTRUCTIONS on his instrument's part in the band scheme of things is Keith Brauer. Another band member, Ruth Gumm looks over his shoulder. (Her turn will come next!) Pointing the way for these youthful musicians is school band director Lou Dochterman.

FUTURE GENE Krupa's get pointers from music instructor Lou Dochterman. Learning how to hold the drumsticks is a most important part of the art of drumming, as these two sixth graders in district 15 are learning. Not so easy either! The boys are (from left) Joe Coffaro and Donald Pecor. They attend Winston Park school.

PATIENTLY LOU Dochterman corrects a dissonance from one of his band trumpeteers. District 15 has a band and concert orchestra. Dochterman organizes the music program for the district. Listening here to his advice are Steve Garnod and Fred Hodgdon.

Haltingly, Young Hands Seek Notes

Every day, in small rooms and gymnasiums, some students in the Palatine and Rolling Meadows elementary schools make music. At first the notes are halting, often incorrect, as untrained fingers struggle learning to play note upon note on a piano keyboard or find accurate positions on a violin string.

Every day in Palatine and Rolling Meadows, students from the fourth through the eighth grades become surer as they play simple scales and exercises, then an actual melody. Every day somewhere, a student progresses until he can take his place on a piano program or in one of the district bands or orchestras.

The music program in this elementary school district is unique for its size and scope in this area, as it pioneers to bring a bit of culture, a bit of beauty and creative outlet to students who are able to participate.

About 450 students take a weekly instrumental lesson in one of the six district schools. These students are a small fraction, a tenth, of the entire school population. But the program is bound to grow as school facilities can handle more students, and as the cost of music lessons decreases.

Music lessons in district 15 public schools are costly — an extra $32 a year to a student's family. Nor may parents even get a Rachmaninoff or Isaac Stern for their efforts. But district educators hope parents will get children with an appreciation for music and a part of America's cultural heritage.

Superintendent Marion Jordan, a strong fighter for a large, thorough music program, hopes his students will learn "the greatest importance of the art is as a communication of the most magnificent, the most inspiring of spiritual messages — messages which so transcend the power of the written or spoken word that their translation into speech would be utterly futile.

"Music, like philosophy and like religion in their noblest moments, offers spiritual sustenance which the world greatly needs in this era of automation. For, although living in an age of automation, man is not an automation. He is a living, breathing, spiritual being, and the nourishment of that spirit can be neglected only at our very great peril."

THE NEWEST ADDITION to the music department in Palatine and Rolling Meadows is a Hammond organ. The instrument is kept in the Winston school, but moved all over the district for special concerts. Learning to master the double keyboard is Michael Brooke, a Winston fourth grader. Pointing to the notes is a sixth grader David Willy.

STRIKE UP THE BAND, and strike up they do under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Paulsen. From this picture one can see the variety of instruments students in the district play. Equipment and music is rented, which a music student's $32 yearly fee covers. This group practices in the Salk school gym, Rolling Meadows.

THE JOYS OF THE piano are shown to four Wood st. school third graders by their teacher Miss Marjorie Nelson. If these little girls are like most little girls, the joys of piano lessons will fade when it comes time to practice. But despite the effort, they learn an appreciation for music that lasts a lifetime. The beginners shown here are (from left) Rebecca Jones, Ann Lindberg, Arlene Koepple, and Willa Madden.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

For Women

Marianne Scott, Women's Editor

A Mardi Gras Party

Come Flying Down to Rio or to New Orleans for the age-old custom of the pre-lenten festival of Mardi Gras. Deck the walls with masks and serpentines and plan to give a Mardi Gras at home.

Invitations

For the Mardi Gras, choose the smiling theater mask backed with gold and tied at the side with red, green, blue and yellow ribbons and make a lot of large size masks for the walls, mirrors and centerpiece, smaller ones for your prize decorations, crowns, tallies, matchboxes and invitations. A double fold card with the black mask on the front and Mardi Gras spelled out in glitter is an attractive invitation. Inside write the following verse:

Put on your mask and costume bright,
There's going to be a MARDI GRAS night.
Games, confetti, food and fun
Surprises and prizes for everyone.

State the time, date and instructions as to masking and unmasking, and costumes. Of course, the latter is optional but it is a wonderful way to have a "dress up" party other than Halloween.

Menu

Carnival colors and abundant southern cooking make the menu an easy one to plan. For a buffet supper: shrimp cocktail, Georgia yams, baked ham, bright, sparkling, colorful jello molds, hot biscuits, pecan pie, pralines and coffee.

Mint Juleps served during the evening in tall, frosty glasses add the southern touch. For a late snack: shrimp or other seafood salad, relishes, buttered pecans, easy-to-make pralines and lots of hot coffee. Prepare as much of the menu as you can ahead of time so that you won't miss any of the fun.

Decorations

With such a bevy of colors to choose from and with all the masks you have, decorating the room will be easy as you can use up all the left over crepe paper from every party you have had the past year or so. Any decorations are "legal" from lanterns, fringe, posters to flags, anything that gives the carnival flavor. The more decorations and masks, the more "atmosphere" you will create.

Have plenty of noise makers, extra masks for those who may forget, confetti, serpentines and balloons which make wonderful, extra take home favors. The table can be set with any colored cloth and for a centerpiece use a large mask fastened to an extra long taper. Make a ruffle of several shades of crepe paper around the base of the candlestick holder, or use an inverted tin horn, the noisy, New Year's eve type.

IF YOU HAVE the table under any kind of overhead fixture fasten a large bunch of multicolored balloons and let serpentines hang from them, draping more over the mask and let them curl along the table. Sprinkle the table liberally with confetti and you may want to limit its use to the table as it is terribly difficult to pick up and does cling to the clothing, thereby getting distributed all through the house.

Entertainment

Of course if there are costumes, you will want to have the costume-judging first so that any difficult "props" can be done away with and not bothered with all evening. Have a closed vote balloting and the winner, man and woman, will be the Mardi Gras king and queen so have paper gold crowns with the black mask symbol in the center of each. Pictures of everyone is fun too and a reminder of the party for years to come.

Choose a few games and let your guests enjoy conversation or dancing. If you need help call CLearbrook 3-3996 for party counciling service. One game would be to design Mardi Gras hats and have a fashion show. A mixer game, two guessing games, alternating between active games and passive ones, is a party rule to remember.

Why go to New Orleans. Just bring New Orleans and Rio and France to your own backyard and have a ball, a Mardi Gras ball.

Plan Sixth Ann'l Dance

Northwest Home Owners League of Mt. Prospect will hold its sixth annual dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 20, in the Mt. Prospect VFW club, 601 Main st., Mt. Prospect.

The committee believes this dance will be one of the social highlights of the year for Mt. Prospect. Music will be by Jerry Betts and his Hightones.

Tickets, which may include prizes, can be purchased at $4 per couple and are available to non-members of the League. Social Chairman Ruth Breihan, CLearbrook 5-6778, can be contacted by those who wish further information about the affair.

HAPPY 65TH BIRTHDAY is wished the Chicago Maternity center by Mrs. George N. Mastrogany, chairman of the Arlington Heights team, and team members, Mrs. Richard W. Carlson and Mrs. John D. Patterson at the 1960 enrollment drive kick-off luncheon held February 4 at the Casino. The women are among the 350 who will be seeking contributions to help meet the "traveling maternity hospital's" 1960 budget. Foremost on their agenda is their seventh annual cocktail dance scheduled for March 19 in Elmhurst country club. Previously held in Inverness country club, the affair was switched last year to Elmhurst after fire destroyed the Inverness club. (S

'Mothers' Sought in New Group Home Program Setup

If you needed mothers for two groups of eight children, what kind of women would you look for?

The task of finding "mothers" for 16 boys and girls is one that Norman Herstein of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society is embarking on in connection with the society's new "group home" program. As director of this program he is starting two group residences — one for boys and one for girls — for teen-agers who have no homes of their own. The group homes will be the "families" of the children who live in them.

THE ILLINOIS Children's Home and Aid Society, largest non-sectarian child care agency in the state, provides adoption services and foster home care for dependent children, and treatment for troubled children. The society's group home program is aimed at helping youngsters who have lost their own or foster homes, or have been graduated from children's institutions.

What does Herstein seek in someone to "mother" eight youngsters?

"First of all," he says, "I look for more than one mother. Even in large families the children are not all in the same age group as they will be in the society's group homes. We have plans for two homes, one for boys and one for girls, each with two full-time housemothers as well as other staff members."

As housemothers for the boys and girls in the group homes, Herstein hopes to employ women who have professional experience in working with youngsters of high school age. He says that college background is not required, but that it would be helpful. Because the staff of the group homes will be working closely with the society's casework and medical staff, he said the housemothers should be people who can work well as members of a team.

THE FIRST of the society's group homes is scheduled to open in the summer of 1960. It will be in a pleasant residential community in the Chicago area. The boys and girls who will live in the group homes will have individual rooms. Their housemothers will have private quarters, reasonable hours and liberal salary and vacation.

"The group homes willl be more than mere residences where teen-age boys or girls are fed and housed while they attend high school or vocational school," said Herstein. "The aim of the program is to help the youngsters living in the home be good neighbors, achieve socially acceptable manners, develop good standards of conduct, and prepare for their adult responsibilities as wage-earners, citizens and parents."

Essential aspects of both home and small club will be combined in the group homes. While living in them the youngsters will be obtaining a high school education or vocational training to equip them to be self-supporting. They will learn to live with other youngsters and the community in a home atmosphere that is closely supervised by adults.

Any persons who want more information about the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society's group home program, including possible employment there, are urged to write Norman Herstein, Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, 1122 N. Dearborn st., Chicago 10, Illinois. (S

The Way We See It

Suburbs Represent New Voting Strength

As the strength of the cities declines, so does the potential influence of the suburbs increase.

There is new appreciation of the dormant political power of the suburbs as the changing character of suburban politics and the growing discomfort of Old Guard leadership becomes more evident.

Predicting a history-making outpouring of suburban voters this year, one candidate declared recently: "Newly-arrived suburbanites find they can have a direct say-so in their government, something they found extremely difficult to get while they lived in Chicago. They like their new-found political freedom and they will vote to keep it and extend it throughout the state."

For decades, the Republican party has been willing to take our suburban Republicanism for granted. Weak, ineffectual local organizations have either ignored or insulted the intelligence of voters.

GOP is learning, however, that it can no longer assume suburban loyalty; the "apathetic" suburban voter is showing signs of dissatisfaction with the old, well-dug-in suburban political factions. This is reflected in the strong tendency toward independent or split-ticket voting.

Suburbanites are beginning to ask questions. Candidates are being required to publicly spell out what they consider our problems to be and how they would help us to meet them.

Suburban voters want to know what is or has been the candidate's position on such questions as state aid to schools, commuter transportation, the confusing hodgepodge of governments and their overlapping authority, slum conditions in the incorporated and unincorporated areas of the county, integration, inadequate water supply, over-all metropolitan planning, drainage, the pollution of streams, and many others.

A dramatic example of our new political "independence" is the attention being paid to suburbs by Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) in his campaign for re-election.

His interest in suburbia was reflected this week with a string of special appearances in such communities as Highwood, Antioch, Barrington, Wheeling, Tinley Park, Homewood, Evergreen Park, Blue Island, Calumet Park, Skokie, Northbrook, Algonquin, Markham, and Park Forest.

This afternoon (Thursday) he will visit in Arlington Heights to meet and talk with village officials, businessmen, civic leaders, citizens.

We hope that Senator Douglas' recognition of the suburban voter will inspire a fresh approach from other candidates as they come to realize that the suburbanite represents a potent new force in Illinois politics.

New Approach to Mental Illness Is Desperate Need

Institutionalized care for the mentally distraught—with all its herding handicaps—is to be abandoned in England if Parliament acts on recommendations by the Royal Commission for Mental Health.

The commission would eliminate the huge, unwieldy "insane asylum," replacing this anachronism with many small units which would not even bear the legend, "mental hospital."

Within the clinics, factories would be established for patients to work and receive compensation for what they accomplished, while social clubs would further complement the restoring of confidence to this socially disoriented group.

Other recommendations include: 1) protected work shops in which assistance from psychiatrists would be available; 2) a preventative program to keep potential patients from becoming casualties; 3) "night hostels," similar to the Salvation Army's program, where beds and meals would be provided; 4) better regulations for the detention of persons over 72 hours, with the patient having recourse to petitioning a special commission for review of his case.

There is not one of these proposals that is startling; variations on these themes have been put into practice in American psychiatric circles.

But the amount of emphasis placed on such practices has been woefully lacking in this country.

And the old adage of "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is nowhere more flagrantly ignored.

The unhappy truth is that of the estimated toll of $3 billion a year which mental illness extracts, only one per cent of this sum is devoted to research.

The nation's number-one crippler, whose sufferers total more in number than the combined amount of cases of heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, and all other physical infirmities, appears to have that quality about it which inspires the three famous postures: see no evil, speak no evil, hear no evil.

But no amount of wishing or blindly ignoring will exorcise this devil; only an increased awareness, a community concern and "crash" program in research will set these spirits to flight.

That northwest suburban residents gave so generously of their time and money to build the Northwest Community hospital and Little City points to the contradiction that medical need is more obviously seen in terms of broken legs or cruel errors of nature than in the still so little understood cases of mental fractures.

There is only one suburban mental health clinic in the huge populous belt girdling Chicago (in LaGrange); Illinois mental hospitals are 31.8 per cent overcrowded, meaning in human rather than mathematical terms that these patients receive the barest requirements of custodial care.

That England is attempting to break with the archaic chains of the past that hold a mental patient is cousin to the criminal is evident by the commission's insistence that the asylums be dispatched with haste from the contemporary scene.

Suburb Homemakers: Everybody Needs You

The pundits keep telling us that our time is an era of specialization.

That may be true in the man's world.

But today's typical suburban homemaker is every bit as versatile as the food mixer in her kitchen.

Mom has certainly earned a breather but it's inevitably shortlived.

For as soon as she settles back into the cushions of her favorite armchair and flicks off her shoes, a knock at the front door brings her back to her feet.

IT'S that energetic woman down the block who wonders if she wouldn't care to make new acquaintances and broaden her field of interests by becoming a Red Cross driver or a Civil Defense organizer.

Of course, that's just the beginning. The American Legion and VFW auxiliaries, PEO, OES, PTA, DAR, AAUW, and a host of other initialed institutions of social endeavor are also girding themeslves for the spring season.

And they all need you.

Women's clubs — junior, senior, and middle age — need you. Then there're book review, sewing, garden, card, and dancing clubs; Parent Teacher council and the school for retarded children; the hospital auxiliary and cancer dressings, not to mention Mothers Marching on Polio and 38 other dread diseases; sorority and college alumnae groups, fund raisers and benefit boosters, church guilds and ladies aids, cotillions, women's choruses and experimental dance societies; Lady Lions, Jayncees, Jobs Daughters, and hundreds of teas — they need you, too.

Girl scouts, Campfire Girls, Brownies, Future Homemakers, and 4-H need you and so do Infant Welfare, Newcomers club, Nurses club, Couples, Lady Bowlers, the Ground Observor corps, and the Opportunity Council.

THERE'RE Republican Women and Democratic Women and don't think being undecided is going to spare you, because there's always the League of Women Voters.

And if time hangs heavy on your hands between programs, meetings, rallies, lessons, committees, lectures, sessions, calls, crusades, and campaigns there're the washing, ironing, cleaning and cooking.

So put your shoes back on, mother, and get out of the cushions. There's someone at the front door and your telephone is ringing.

Monroe Doctrine Is Ineffectual Barrier

by WILLIAM DULANEY

"We owe it, therefore, to candor, and the amicable relations existing between the United States and those (European) powers, to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."

This paragraph, the heart of the Monroe Doctrine, voiced in 1823 as United States policy toward Latin America is being cited by some observers as justification for our intervening in Cuba's post-revolutionary problems and those that might arise in other Latin American countries, should they be associated with Communism.

THIS country would do better to discard such an unenforceable and unrealistic policy in favor of a pronouncement that might go as follows: "We owe it, therefore, to the Latin American people to identify ourselves with their aspirations for social reforms, higher standards of living and abolition of dictatorial regimes."

That the Monroe Doctrine is an ineffectual barrier between Latin American countries and foreign ideologies is obvious.

The red carpet was recently rolled out for Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan in both Mexico and Cuba.

Communist China has become quite active in cultural exchanges with Latin American countries. Peking and Moscow cooperated to pay the expenses of some 900 Latin Americans to the 1959 Communist Vienna Youth Festival. A variety of Chinese and Soviet friendship fronts have been established, especially in Chile and Uruguay, for setting up forums and cultural gatherings.

CHINA has sent newspapermen around Latin America representing the New China News Agency. Tass, the Russian news agency, has correspondents in Cuba, Argentina, and Uruguay.

Communist orbit countries continue to open up Latin American trade markets.

While Communist and Latin American countries are drawn closer together, the United States continues to support the strongmen, such as General Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, who denounce Communism and support American investments, despite their oppression of their countrymen.

As in the rest of the world, a new era is making itself felt in Latin American countries. Land reforms, industrialization, a demand for increased diplomatic recognition, and the desire of the masses for a better life are shaking our southern hemisphere.

SUCH stirrings will inevitably lead to increased nationalization of resources and industry and a demand for less dependence on the "Colossus of the North."

We can attribute such actions, as we have in other instances, to Communist intrigues. We can threaten reprisals, lower import quotas and wave a big stick. Such courses of action, as they have in other instances, will drive Latin American countries further into the Communist camps.

We can, on the other hand, identify ourselves with the aspirations of the Latin American peoples. We can, as urged by Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, draw up an imaginative economic aid program "holding for Latin America the same meaning of hope and economic and social development that the Marshall Plan had for Europe."

We can deny support to dictatorial regimes of any kind. We can identify the enemy as totalitarianism at both extremes of left and right. And, finally, we can exercise understanding and patience.

Such policies would hold rich rewards for both the United States and Latin American countries.

Dream and Nightmare

Church Offers New Potential

by MARTIN E. MARTY

No one can accuse the Paddocks of exercising thought control over their columnists. They don't even do any quarterbacking, and so we write without checking signals.

Last week they seemed to be mixed. I usually feel, "Good old Charles Hayes can be counted on to show again his sunny faith in human nature," and he seems confident, "Good old Martin Marty, he can be counted on to fuss and storm about how things are going."

So last week I chronicled what I believe to be true: an awareness on the part of ministers of the human needs of today. And Hayes pulled the rug out with an analysis of the impotence of suburban religion today.

MAYBE WE'D better stay true to form. I am reading Maurice R. Stein's "The Eclipse of Community."

It is an interpretation of American sociological studies. His chapter on the suburbs interested me most. Suburbs, representing in their modern form the newest American social grouping, have been the most studied entities of the 1950s.

Stein observes: they are to the scholars of the '50s what the slums were to those of the 20s; they are the best place to see the social disorganization of our day.

This seems strange. Where more do we seek order and pattern and coherence than in our new, neatly laid out suburbs?

YET ALL the studies which Stein summarizes are consistent, and an eavesdropper on a commuter train or a kaffee klatsch would tend to agree. The suburbs represent dream and nightmare. They present apparent order and real human disorder. On the surface, they demand an over-scheduled life; under it all there is psychic and spiritual confusion.

The use of leisure is as much a problem as the attempt to find meaning in the "rat race."

Mental illness hovers just around the corner from our cults of health.

Childhood is the ideal, but children are expected to live like adults.

Everyone must adjust.

All the time there is that sense that someone is watching, watching. There is the feeling that we must be part of togetherness, we must keep a certain standard or a show of standard. Others are watching.

I ALWAYS contend that there is one institution or force or agency or thrust that should be able to counteract these tendencies and that is the church (or synagogue, if you will).

But contending this and observing it seem to be two different things. Stein and the men he studies all agree: religious affiliation plays a big part in the dream, the order, the leisure of the suburbs. But, he summarizes, "religion seems trivial (in these suburbs), turning into one more status symbol counting well below most others in the all-important secular realm."

And if I make some noise about the work we have ahead, it is because I believe that churches cannot permanently create this image of external success and internal lack of moral passion. So some people must through these "fat years" publicly expose some of our leanness so that, for the long pull, the churches will not be abandoned should some subtle social shift bring about change of interest in them.

THERE IS good reason for investment with hope in the churches. They have the potential of being the "radical' elements in society in the original sense of going to the root of things. They are to be the gatherings of those who seek no status except acceptance in the kingdom of God. They should be the fellowships of the people who don't care about appearances, who "don't give a hang about what people say, instead of being the refuge of tradition - bound thinking. They should be the places where social passion is generated, as people ask, "Lord, what wouldst thou have us to do?" They are the places where people still hear: "Seek first the Kingdom of God and all these things shall be added unto you," instead of as it turns out: "Seek all these things and look — you lucky people! — the Kingdom of God comes easy, then."

And because I have these hopes for the churches and because I sometimes see signs of stirring I like to talk about the ideal and the distance we all are from it.

In the weeks ahead I'd like to enlarge upon this, if the other columnists will please camp a few feet away from the topic. I'm not worried about the Dulaney's — they're rocking a new baby. But friend Hayes seems ready to don his preaching stole and that worries me.

Letters to the Fence Post

Reader Answers Criticism Of Arlington's Schools

Mr. H. W. L'Hommedieu's letter January 28 was most interesting to me since I recently taught in the Arlington Heights grade school system and my husband teaches in the Arlington high school. I was rather surprised at some of his comments, because they described a public school system quite unlike the Arlington Heights public school system I know.

First of all, he claimed that first grade pupils are not taught phonetics.

Perhaps his children used the old edition of the reading series that preceeded the one in use now. That series did delay the teaching of phonics until second grade. Any first grade teacher in our system now will confirm the fact that she spends a great deal of her time teaching phonetics to her students. The reading series that is used in our grade schools includes a very comprehensive phonics program that starts in grade 1.

MR. L'HOMMEDIEU says that six-year-old children who are taught phonics can recognize a great many words without previously having seen them.

However, the fact that "they have blocks with animals and names under them" does not mean that "they should be able to spell the names of most familiar animals before going to school."

The English language is not consistent enough for anyone to spell correctly with just a knowledge of phonics. There are other ways in which we learn to recognize words, and this necessary combination of methods is as dificult for a child as learning a foreign language or shorthand is for us. It has been found best to start the spelling program in second grade after students have had an opportunity to learn some of the principles of phonetics and word recognition in the first grade.

HE SAYS THAT pupils are forbidden to learn the arithmetic tables in a systematic manner, such as the table of twos, threes, etc." Numerous studies have been made of groups that learned the tables by rote, attaching no meaning to them, versus groups who were taught the same arithmetic facts in a meaningful manner.

Those who both understood and memorized what they were learning remembered the same facts over a longer period of time and recalled them more easily than those who just memorized the same facts. The school is attempting to teach arithmetic meaningfully, and in many cases teachers ask parents to help their children review these same facts.

A systematic review will never harm anyone as long as it is not done under pressure and tension for an excessive period of time.

He objected to fifth and sixth graders reviewing second and third grade arithmetic. I know that I add and subtract in my checkbook, so I guess that I am still doing first and second grade arithmetic.

I AGREE that it would be nice if there were enough copies of books containing information in the public library so that each student could have one, but neither the public library nor the schools are provided with enough money to have such a quantity of books on hand. You might recommend that a reserve system be initiated in school libraries.

Mr. L'Hommedieu feels that schoolrooms should have three-quarters of the wallspace covered with blackboards that some children cover with homework problems while other children recite.

In a school room like this, a teacher couldn't be working with both groups exclusively at the same time and most children would simply watch the child who knew all the answers and copy his work. Reciting the same thing together is a very convenient way of not hearing the one who diesn't know the answers. It would be a lot less work to teach in this manner, but the students wouldn't learn as much as they do now.

Mr. L'Hommedieu doesn't feel that homework should be necessary.

In today's complex society people must know more than the three r's, and the schools are required to teach an enormous amount of material. Some students require more study time than others and feel more burdened with homesork. Judging from what I have heard of today's homework and from my experience with homework, it has not increased much.

When I complained of homework in public school days (approximately 1940-1950) my parents told me they had had much more in their school days.

HE TELLS US that European high school graduates are two or three years ahead of our high school graduates and cites Admiral Rickover's analysis of this in the Saturday Evening Post.

First of all, European college preparatory high schools teach only the intellectually superior where American high schools are required to teach every boy and girl of high school age. Weed out all of our slower learners, and our high school graduates would compare very favorably with theirs. American high schools for the gifted students have proven this.

Secondly, Admiral Rickover is not an authority on education. He is a self-appointed critic of it. Also, the Saturday Evening Post is not a professional educational journal, but is a publication containing stories and articles that will sell the magazine to the public.

HE SAYS that studying Greek, Latin, and mathematics is too much for the student of today.

Arlington high school has elected to omit Greek from its curriculum, but has expanded the language department to include Latin, Spanish, French, German, and Russian which is a very impressive listing for a country that is known throughout the world for knowing only English. He should call the high school someday and ask about the accelerated math program. Analytic geometry is included in its comprehensive program, and that is usually college material I believe.

Mr. L'Hommedieu complains that students do not read an entire book or story but glean the necessary facts for a report, reading as little as possible.

When teachers assign a book report, I am sure that they do not intend that it be done in this way. The textbook of shortened versions of stories to which he refers may be a text used in a survey of a certain period of literature. To read every work in its entirety would greatly increse the amount of homework a student would have to do.

He says, "The selection of literature is also poor: "Great Expectations," instead of "David Copperfield." They happen to both be written by the same author and both be great classics. He would like to see students read four plays written by Shakespeare. There is a need for liberal education, and the textbook selected is the one that teachers believe contains the best selection of good works.

HE MUST have hunted far and wide for his two examples of "overofficious, retrogressive, unfair, stupid and wasteful disciplinary mood in the school system."

If teachers have had to resort to keeping an entire class after school for 45 minutes "because of some talking" you can be sure that the children have earned it. No teacher is going to go out of their way looking for an opportunity to police a classroom later than she is required to be there. Disciplining is the least enjoyed part of teaching.

Mr. L'Hommedieu recommends that extra-curricular activities time be spent in teaching students manners. This is one of the things that we believe should be taught in the home, and while teachers do insist on good manners in school, they believe students should be offered extra curricular activities too.

HE SAYS, "Whatever methods are adopted by the school, they should be based upon evidence that they work, and not upon the idea that anything new is necessarily better." I believe that is exactly how every administrator and teacher in the Arlington public school system feels.

If a school system is a very poor one, it is very evident in the lack of good teachers. Many teachers would like to teach in the Arlington school system but have not been able to because the administrators feel they are not qualified or would not be good teachers.

I feel very proud to have been able to teach in this school system, and from my knowledge of other school systems that I know of, I feel that we can be very proud of the job the Arlington Heights public schools are doing.

Boost Morale Of Policemen

The recent scandal in the Chicago police department should prompt us to review our situation in Arlington Heights.

I had occasion, in the last few months, to call upon the police department in connection with certain matters and I was very well impressed by the courtesy and their genuine interest over and above their call of duty and the time they gave me outside of working hours.

SINCE that time some of my friends and I have discussed the responsibilities that we, as citizens of Arlington Heights, have toward upgrading the caliber of our police force and uplifting their morale. While it is a fine thing to hand out praise, it seems that more than just words are required, and it would be well in line for the village council to review salaries of people on our police force with a view of attracting the best people available and of giving our force a reason for knowing that we in Arlington Heights appreciate their dedication in our behalf.

If a person would only take the time to attend the council meetings and would keep track of the large amount of money being disbursed for matters of expediency and if a comparison would then be made to the salaries of our police force, the conviction would certainly grow upon one that the proportion paid out for their valued services is a very, very small part of our annual village upkeep.

NOW IS the proper time to prevent any excuse for a repetition of the Chicago scandals in our own village. It seems that our respect for the men of the force and for their services to us should be reflected in a tangible and material way.

There is another area where we citizens can boost morale, I and those of my friends who attend the bimonthly village council meetings, occasionally, have seen very few observers there. Some nights you will see the Paddock reporter and one other lone citizen. This has actually happened several times to us. It must be discouraging to the hard working officials. They spend our money, pass our ordinances, but we the citizens, over 20,000 of us, don't care. On what level does patriotism begin if not here in the council meetings? Further, it is a shame that more of our good citizens are not aware of the high grade performance of our of our present village board and its president.

Is Frosting A Necessity?

It would behoove the residents of Rolling Meadows to reappraise the issues involved in the latest attempt of the park district to enforce the will of the minority at the expense of the majority.

When one recalls the reasons for incorporation of Rolling Meadows as a city in 1955, the majority of the people could not have been wrong in voting for city government which would also entail the responsibility for creating a city park district without the need for a special, costly referendum. We are now encumbered by the creation of an independent park district. Who is this body responsible to? And why weren't the people of Rolling Meadows permitted to choose which one they wanted rather than have the sole question of whether or not they wanted a park district created printed on the ballots at the time of that referendum?

IF YOU RECALL, only 466 voters voted "for" and 32 "against" with a total turnout of 527 voters. This is less than 10 per cent of the voters in Rolling Meadows. In a city as fully conscious of their rights and privileges of voting as past voting records prove, does this indicate apathy, disinterest, or the attempt of an organized minority to inflict its will upon the majority?

What about these 60 acres of park district land? Does the park district presently have the legal rights to this land or is this an anticipated hope that this land will eventually be turned over to the park district? How much of this acreage is Salt Creek? And what is the condition of the land directly adjoining the creek which is presumably park district land?

AS FOR THE proposed swimming pool, the breakdown of figures given in the park district pamphlet distributed last July 1959 gives an approximate cost of $104,400 for the Pool and $45,400 for the bath house-a total of $149,800.00! Is anyone aware of the fact that the Cook County Forest Preserve plans a swimming pool in Elk Grove Forest Preserve which would also benefit the people of Rolling Meadows?

Let's think about the water crisis for a moment. If we are to believe that there is a water crisis and water conservation is of extreme importance. Then why do we make plans to waste this utility for the sake of pleasure or "keeping up with the Jones" of neighboring communities by having our own swimming pool also?

Frosting on cake is always pleasurable but not necessary for good health.

THE PARK district program is altogether too vague. It seems to me that the "cart is put before the horse" and although one does not question the personal integrity of each of the park district commissioners, one wonders about the apparent reality of defeated candidates joining forces. Is this good politics?

Before asking for more tax money, what about the present income levy of $16,000. How is it appropriated? Let's have more facts and let's all turn out to vote on this special park election. Remember, the minority wins when the majority stays home and refuses to vote. This can prove to be mighty expensive for all!

Good Seeds Growing, Too

The BAD seeds — articles of teen age delinquency, vandalism, grim acts of violence always "make the papers."

Many parents with young children dread seeing them reach adolescense.

So, it was with a grateful heart that on Youth Sunday one of our teenagers, Miss Kathy Eckman, wrote and presented the following message at the newly-formed Grace Lutheran church:

"THIS SUNDAY, Youth Sunday, is a very special day. It is celebrated with 25,000 other Luther Leagers all over the world . . .

"What my church means to me is hard to put into meaningful words, but the word of God I learn on Sunday in church is used all of the other six days as well as Sunday.

"I am glad that I can go to the church of my choice because I find a happiness I need and I can give help to my church which needs me."

"I have early memories of going to church, what was said didn't mean much to me then, but now as I grow older I find a place in my daily life for God.

* *

"IT IS said that environment is the most important thing in your life. This is very true and the friends you make in church have a big importance in your life. The good Christian friends you make will always be the best, faithful and truest friends you can find. The experiences I have had in helping organize Grace Lutheran church is something I shall always cherish deep in my heart. I feel in some small way I have given something to God instead of always receiving things from Him. Because our new church is still growing our youth is finding a place where we know we are needed. In helping God in this way I know I am clearing a path for other people that will follow me as our church is built and grows larger . . . Of all the nice things said about our church, I know it is and always will be my House of God, with God's word it will help me in my everyday life and I am thankful to be a part of it."

Parents relax — the good seeds are growing too — the future is in good hands —YOUTH AND GOD.

No Comment, Heads in Sand

In Lynn Melcher's commentary, "Through the Picture Window" in the Hoffman Herald, she has asked the residents several embarrassing questions about the lack of comment on the proposed expenditure for our badly needed?? Community Center

Several other groups should have been asked questions, since the underlying facts require answers.

Where is the original $40,000 Community Center that was to suit our needs so well as outlined by Mr. Netter's Community Council?

Indeed, where is the Community Council? No Comment.

THE Community Council proposed this "venture," in good faith, and intended a limited expenditure. They recommended the architects, determined our needs? checked construction costs, and stated that the Center could be built for $40,000, plus 10 per cent to allow for estimated cost variances against firm bid quotations.

We are, then, entitled to this building for a maximum outlay of $44,000 and not one red cent more.

The board's planning commission checked these original plans and, it was reported, approved same as the drawings met the needs of the Community.

Indeed, where is the planning commission? No Comment.

AS STATED previously, by several persons, our board was pushed into this action by an urgency to win a conest, the prize of which, if we won first place was the all important sum of $5,000.

Please subtract:

Mr. Gannon's (no comment), our needs have grown, I assume. $95,000

Our promised complete dream, as our needs were, rush, rush, $40,000

Result: only a small bond issue.

The architect's original plans, to Mr. Netter, were to have produced this building, to suit our needs at the original proposed expenditure.

Indeed, Mr. Architect where is your original proposed Center, that met our needs so well, for a maximum of $44,000. No Comment.

FURNISHING free sketches for the Community Council, the architects promised this building for a set figure; they should be made to produce same. Furnishing free sketches is a good means, for some firms, to obtain architectural awards. The Board should have read the American Institute of Architects brochure on "How to Select an Architect" and here I quote,

"A sales sketch might makes a pretty picture. But it does not represent an architectural solution to a building problem. Thats why free sketches are worthless as guides in seling an architect, as well as an unethical means for the architect to solicit business."

Two copies of this brochure were handed to Mr. Gannon, for the Board's use before the architectural contract was signed. The Community Council, the planning commission, the Architects, and our Board, should also be asked some rather embarrassing questions by all the publications in this area.

Pressing Need Demonstrated

Our pressing need for the Northwest Family Service was strikingly demonstrated to me one evening last week.

Walking through the police station before a village board meeting, I encountered four children—4 to 13 years' old — being questioned by an officer. Their parents were both working and had left the four to themselves. The kids wandered away from the house and were found by the police some distance away.

IT IS NO wonder that we have juvenile delinquency.

Psychologists tell us that the habits that affect our later years are developed during childhood. And these habits tend to become immutable. What chance do these four children have of the right type of guidance for the formation of good habits!

We also are told that poor parental supervision is a root of mental ailments. The emancipation of women is cited especially as having a great deal to do with mental problems.

THE assistance the Northwest Family Service can provide in this area is a matter of record. But it faces possible demise because of insufficient public interest and support. Every individual and element of the community has a grave responsibility to insure the stability of our families.

The Northwest Family Service is one means to this end.

There Must Be A Beginning

I thought Martin E. Marty's article "Suburbs Face Integration" was an excellent one. If only this could come about "naturally" with new homes springing from the earth and already occupied by people other than pure Anglo-Saxon!

However, as in all things other than, perhaps, the universe it appears that there has to be a beginning. It seems that positive action is the most difficult thing for us to reconcile. This no doubt is the result of man's instinctive resistance to change and protection of the status quo.

Thanks again for your good article.

Flood Control Study Urged By Area Plan Commission

A comprehensive flood control survey of river watersheds in northeastern Illinois and northwestern Indiana is being urged by the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission.

The commission has asked the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to make the survey and to assemble basic data needed for development of flood control plans for the region.

Suburban towns and unincorporated areas throughout DuPage and Cook counties that have been seriously disturbed by inadequate flood water drainage will be directly benefitted by the survey and the plans for flood control that will be based on its findings.

Chester R. Davis, commission president and senior vice-president of Chicago Title and Trust company, announced today he has directed letters to the Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, Maurice H. Stans, director, Bureau of the Budget; and Major General Emerson C. Itschner, chief of engineers, Department of the Army, asking that they request and support appropriations from Congress for the survey.

DAVIS, WHO was Assistant Secretary of the Army for financial management during 1955 and 1956, stated that last year Congress authorized such a study in the watersheds of northeastern Illinois and northwestern Indiana but did not appropriate funds for its conduct.

Commission spokesmen point out that this metropolitan area "was born with a flood control problem."

The recession of the last ice sheet left a poorly developed drainage system made up of streams of shallow beds and very flat slopes which result in limited flood storage area and severely limited carrying capacity. Also many basin-like depressions were left where storm waters collected and formed swamps and small lakes.

URBANIZATION has brought about further restriction to the carrying capacity of streams in the way of fills, bridges and culverts; has drained swamp areas for housing development and the natural flood plains have been encroached upon to satisfy the economic demands for land.

The three natural outlets of the area's drainage system have — by the reversal of the flow of the Chicago river, by construction of the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal and by the reversal of the Calumet river flow because of the Calumet-Sag channel — become only one outlet, namely the Des Plaines river.

The proposed study, Davis said, must be of a metropolitan scope that relates the drainage network of the area to each river basin which must accommodate its flow, as well as to each basin which contributes to its flow.

PAUL OPPERMANN, executive director of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission, indicated this study for the proposed survey:

1. Method of analysis of available storm records, run-off, infiltration and other factors in order to provide criteria for the design of drainage facilities.

Not alone in Chicago but in other metropolitan areas, these methods need to be defined for the benefit of the numerous agencies involved in comparing the variety of plans that will be called for by the rate of growth and urbanization of the area.

2. Demarcation of natural channels and the rights of way that would be required for necessary channel and storage improvements to meet severe storm runoff.

Unless land needed for flood control is delimited and set aside, the demands of urbanization will either make them unavailable for such purpose or available only at great expense. This is of especial value in guiding further land use planning, zoning and subdivision platting.

3. Determination and mapping of frequency of flooding for flood-plain areas. Many metropolitan areas are interested in this, but none, except Los Angeles, has thus far tried it on a broad scale, and at Los Angeles, it followed rather than prevented heavy engineering expenditures.

4. A pioneering analysis of possible remedial measures and alternatives that may be employed in minimizing or avoiding flood losses, such as flood proofing, land-use regulations and flood warning. This has never been done for a large urban area.

5. Development of land-use patterns in and around flood plains, that bear a proper relationship to present and proposed protective measures, in order to assure the maximum potential use of the land. Milwaukee has done this but for a single purpose — recreation.

6. Refinement of criteria and standards to be followed in estimating flood damages and in the determination of benefits versus costs. The moment attention is turned from large-scale engineering works to other possibilities, including measures by individual property owners, a more refined kind of benefit-cost analysis is required. In this pursuit there will be emphasis on identifying the tangibles and intangibles, and computing benefits and costs for individual managers or local groups

7. Analysis of statutory provisions for flood control and drainage. This is necessary for a series of recommendations leading to legislative action that will engender coordination between public agencies, drainage districts and states. Also, give recognition to an overall plan for the minimization of flood damages and provide for better assessment practices and bases for the construction of needed facilities.

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Neologism; a new word or expression; the use of a new word or of an old word in a new or different sense. (Pronounce nee-ahl-oh-jiz'm, accent second syllable). "His speech was well flavored with unusual neologisms."

Futility; uselessness. "He soon realized the futility of his efforts."

Atavism; the recurrence in a descendant of characters of a remote ancestor, as a great grandparent; renewed manifestation of heredity after remaining latent during one or more generations; reversion to a more primitive type. (Accent first syllable).

Vituperative; abounding in abusive words. (Pronounce vigh-tyu-per-ai-tive, principal accent on second syllable), on second syllable). "Some of our columnists' writings are vituperative."

Medicative; possessing curative qualities; healing. "Many of our plants possess medicative properties."

Corn Disappearing Faster Than in '58

By L. H. SIMERL

Corn disappeared at a record rate during the October-December quarter. The amount used for feed is estimated at 959 million bushels, up 9 per cent from the year before and 22 per cent more than the five-year 1953-1958 average.

Exports during the period totaled 62 million bushels, up 12 per cent from a year earlier and 62 per cent more than the five-year average. Wet process uses (for starch and syrup) took 38 million bushels, 3 per cent more than in the previous year and 8 per cent more than average. Use of corn for alcohol is extimated at 8 million bushels, which is average.

TOTAL disappearance of corn during the past quarter is estimated at 1,067 million bushels. This was 8 per cent more than a year ago and 24 per cent greater than the five-year 1953-58 average.

This disappearance left stocks on January 1 at 4,453 million bushels. That was 14 per cent more than the record for the date set the year before and 42 per cent above the five-year 1953-58 average.

The supply and disappearance figures point to a carryover next fall of about 2,000 million bushels of corn, or about one-third more than was carried over on October 1 last fall.

The carryover of sorghum grain also seems likely to be larger next fall. Disappearance in the October-December quarter totaled 187 million bushels, 7 per cent less than a year before. This left 902 million bushels on hand, 25 per cent more than last year. The carryover of sorghum grain next fall will probably be about a third larger than the 510 million bushels carried over last October 1.

THE LARGER supplies of corn and sorghum grains are partly offset by smaller supplies of oats and barley. Stocks of oats on January 1 were estimated at only 1,011 million bushels, or 24 per cent less than a year ago. Disappearance since July 1 is estimated at 667 million bushels, only 4 per cent less than in the previous year. The prospective carryover next July 1 is something like 200 million bushels, or two-fifths less than in 1959.

Barley stocks were listed at 360 million bushels on January 1, or 8 per cent less than a year before. Disappearance since last July 1 totaled 263 million bushels, only 2 per cent less than in the previous year. By next July 1 stocks of barley should be down to about 180 million bushels, or 10 per cent less than in 1959.

Altogether we calculate total stocks of the four feed grains on January 1 at 167 million tons, up 12 per cent from the year before. This increase is partly offset by a reduction of 12 per cent in stocks of hay and by some increase in numbers of livestock, particularly cattle on feed.

2 From Palatine At Horse Course

Mrs. Gladys Desort, owner, Happy Days Farm, Palatine, and Donald Sargol, Sargol Realty corporation, Palatine, attended the first Horse Breeders Short Course ever offered by the University of Illinois. It was held at Urbana, February 4 and 5.

The course is designed for both horsemen and veterinarians, according to Dr. L. E. Boley, chairman. Discussions — of use to those interested in racing, pleasure, show, and working horses, and to others interested in ponies, — were augmented by question-and-answer periods.

Speakers were U. of I. faculty and outstanding veterinary practitioners and professional horse farm managers.

The Horse Breeders Short Course was conducted cooperatively by the University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine, college of agriculture, and division of university extension.

Predict Cattle on Feed? Look on Bright Side

One of the good things about this world is that predictions of disaster often prove to be wrong. For example, at the first of October farmers reported to the USDA that they were planning to market 24 per cent more fed cattle in the October-December quarter than they had marketed the year before.

That was a dark prospect for cattle feeders. But, actually, sales of steers and heifers grading good and better at 12 markets were only 3 per cent larger in that quarter than they had been a year before.

Sometimes, of course, actual marketings are greater than farmers' intentions indicate. With these facts in mind, let's look at the latest report of cattle on feed.

Farmers in 26 feeding states reported, January 1, that they were feeding 7,198,000 head of cattle (including calves). This number was 9 per cent more than the year before.

THE SAME farmers said they planned to market 3,313,000 cattle during the first quarter of 1960, 13 per cent more than the year before.

According to the USDA, in the past four years actual marketings in the first quarter have been less than intended in two years and more than intended in two years. Marketings fell 5 per cent short of intentions in 1956, went 3 per cent over in 1957 and 5 per cent over 1958, and fell 3 per cent short in 1959.

Illinois ranked second in number of cattle on feed with 688,000 head, 7 per cent more than the year before. Iowa, with 1,510,000 head in feedlots, had 6 per cent more than last year. California, with 663,000 head, had 32 per cent more.

Farmers in 12 north-central states (corn belt) reported 4,911,000 head at the feed bunks which was 5 per cent more than in 1959. Farmers in 11 western states reported 1,896,000 on feed, 16 per cent more than last year.

FOR 21 states with comparable figures, steers made up 70 per cent of the total on feed this year compared with 71 per cent a year before. Heifers made up 29 per cent compared with 28 per cent in 1959. The remaining 1 per cent each year was cows.

In the 21 leading states, the number of cattle that had been on feed more than 6 months totaled 357,000 head, 39 per cent more than last year. The number on feed 3 to 6 months was 1,636,000 head, up 36 per cent. There was no change from last year in number that had been on feed less than 3 months.

Cattle weighing over 900 pounds were estimated at 1,840,000 head, up 17 per cent from a year earlier. Cattle in the 700- to 900-pound weight range were estimated at 2,109,000 head, up 7 per cent. Cattle and calves weighing under 700 pounds were listed at 1,665,000 head, up 9 per cent. Number of calves on feed weighing less than 500 pounds was estimated at 1,267,000 head, up less than 1 per cent from the year before.

Calves and yearlings that are being roughed through the winter are not counted as being on feed. Shipments of cattle and calves into 9 corn-belt states, July-November, totaled 3,793,970 head, 5 per cent more than in the same five months the year before.

The next important government livestock report will be the Livestock Inventory, January 1, 1960, to be released on February 12. Watch for it.

Farmers Need Plan To Use Power Tools

Too many machines to choose from without a workable system for using them is the big problem for many Illinois farmers in mechanizing their chores.

A need for enginering combined with sound farm management has enabled an electrical contractor and an agricultural engineer to build a new type of business to serve northern Illinois farmers.

Duane R. Dahnert, partner in Waterman Electric, Waterman, described his experiences today before the University of Illinois Agricultural Industries forum.

Dahnert said that finding the equipment to help him mechanize his chore work is not the farmer's problem. Instead, it is combining the various types of available equipment into a workable system.

HE URGED farm supply and equipment dealers to avoid high-pressure selling. Instead, they should provide some sound advice on how equipment can be used. Specialized equipment dealers capable of coordinating management and machinery seem to be the answer to successful adoption of mechanized choring.

After spending nine years as an agricultural engineer with the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, Dahnert formed a partnership with Kenneth C. Petersen, an electrical contractor. In the past three years they have developed a successful business with "farmstead equipment systems" that combine engineering, electrical application and a planned system of farm management built around the new system. Soil Men Elect Brough Chief; 3 1960 Officers

William Brough, Barrington twp., was elected Chairman of the North Cook county Soil Conservation district at the February meeting. This meeting was held recently at the office of the U. S. Soil Conservation service Lake Zurich.

Other officers for 1960 were also elected. Paul A. Swenningson Jr., Barrington twp., was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Melvin J. Thompson, Barrington twp., will serve as vice-chairman.

Henry Eichholz, Maine twp., and Rudolph Liska, Palatine are the other two members of the board.

Projects to increase interest and to inform both the farm and non-farm groups on the importance of soil and water conservation were discussed. Also special emphasis will be made to work with schools and other youth groups. Plans for the 1960 program will be completed at the March meeting.

In addition to the directors others who attended the meeting are Faustin A. Zeller, Hanover twp. and Elmer E. Offerman, soil conservationist.

For each gallon of fuel you burn in your car, truck, or tractor, one gallon of water is formed. To prevent this water from condensing in the crankcase, avoid low-temperature operation. Use radiator shutters, if necessary, to keep the engine temperature up.

Pigs farrowed in February and March require extra care because of cold weather and confinement. Provide clean quarters at farrowing time. Also provide additional heat if possible. Farrowing crates or stalls are the best way to reduce death loss, but guard rails also help.

Provide a source of iron so that pigs will not become anemic. Above all, watch your pigs closely so that you can spot problems early and correct them before losses are large. Large litters are necessary for profitable hog operations. With present prices, litter size may be the difference between profit and loss.

FOR THE latest information regarding beef cattle, ask for a copy of the "1960 Beef Cattle Feeding Suggestions." It contains information that will help you plan your rations, as well as suggestions for managing beef herds. You can receive your copy by contacting my office.

Castrate and dock lambs when they are one or two weeks old. Begin creep-feeding at the same time. Push early lambs for the high May and June markets.

University of Wisconsin research workers report that the larger heifers in a group of 141 two-year-old Holsteins were the best producers. They found a high correlation between the heifers' weight at calving time and their production the first 90 days of lactation. They also found that the largest heifers at calving time were also larger than their stablemates when they were six months old.

CHICKENS DRINK less water when it is either too hot or too cold. A temperature of 55 degrees F. appears to be ideal. If the water is warmer, birds drink less. If it's colder, they drnik even less—as much as 25 per cent less when ice crystals form. So it's important to keep water from freezing while the weather is cold.

Dryness and heat in eggrooms are the chief causes of egg deterioration in winter, especially when open basements are used for storage. If you store eggs in the basement, keep them in a separate room, insulate the walls and keep the temperature around 55 degrees F. and the humidity at about 75 to 80 per cent. Spraying the eggs with oil will help to offset heat and dryness.

Before your baby chicks arrive, clean the brooder house thoroughly with lye water, a steam cleaner or a pressure sprayer. Let the house dry out and disinfect the interior thoroughly. Then fill feeders and waterers and regulate the brooder temperature before the chicks arrive.

When you buy chicks, do you buy price or quality? Good chicks usually cost more, but they usually return more too. So don't buy prices—as baby chick cost influences egg production cost very little. (FM

10 Men to 10,000 Cattle If Mechanical Feeder Used

Three or four men can easily feed a thousand cattle a day. And, when properly equipped, ten men can handle 10,000.

This is the way an experienced western feedlot operator described the highly efficient cattle feeding program now competing with corn-belt operations.

Speaking before the second University of Illinois Agricultural Industries forum here today, Charles Wetzler, Phoenix, Ariz. reported that western feedlot operations are highly mechanized and all have sizable investments in plant and equipment.

Most lots use a mechanical feeder, generally truck mounted. The mills are equipped with a hay grinder, a grain grinder or roller and often a molasses impregnator. Some mills are adding equipment to put fat into the feed. Scale-type batch mixers are prevalent, but some also have percentage mixers.

LIKE ALL cattle feeders, the western feedlot operators use the cheapest feeds they can get. In central California, barley is the main feed grain. In Colorado, corn is most common. In Texas, sorghum grain is used. California and Arizona feeders use large amounts of cotton by-products. Silage, hay and molasses also find a place in the rations.

Feeding lots seldom have fewer than 2,000 head, and several of the largest can handle 20,000 head at a time. A cattle rancher or feed producer may own a feedlot for his use. Or a lot may be operated as a service business, providing feed, care and pens for cattle owned by others. Often a feedlot may be a combination of these two types.

The feedlots draw cattle from all cattle-producing states of the West and across the South as far east as Florida. The average commercial feedlot operator also buys all his feed, usually unprocessed.

FEEDLOT operators carefully produce the type of finished cattle their market demands. The West Coast market demands a steer grading choice and not weighing over 1,025 pounds. Wetzler reported practically no demand for prime grade beef or cattle weighing over 1,200 pounds.

Marketing is almost a continuous operation. Many lots sell cattle eight months out of the year. The larger lots sell continuously. As a result, direct feedlot to packer marketing has developed. Many packers go to the feedlots and contract several loads. Then they order them in as they are ready. The feedlot operator sends the packer an invoice for his purchase.

Some cattle are sold to packers on a rail basis. Under this plan the packer pays a pre-established price per pound for the dressed beef after slaughter. Some cattle are also sold on a grade and yield basis. This plan is much like the rail basis except that different prices are established for different grades. Sometimes cattle are sold on consignment. The packer then pays a price based on what the beef is sold for.

Wetzler is also chairman of the feeder committee of the American National Cattleman's association. Working with this organization, he has helped to establish a more complete reporting system of cattle feeding by the U. S. department of agriculture. The western beef feeding industry has become a major part of the total feeding business. During 1958, California, Colorado and Arizona fed 2,276,000 head. At some times, California has had more cattle on feed than Illinois.

Concentrated Milk Boosts Slow Market

A new high-quality product, concentrated milk, may open a new era in milk production and marketing in this country. Producers with lowest costs and consumers will get the big benefits.

Economists, dairy scientists, milk producers and a New York advertising executive all share a cautious optimisim during dairy marketing sessions at the second University of Illinois Agricultural Industries forum.

The advertising agency executive, C. R. Sheldon of Compton advertising, Inc., declared that concentrated milk has a definite place in the milk field. He called it a "marketing challenge seldom if ever, put before an industry."

SHELDON pictured concentrated milk as an improved evaporated milk that many consumers could not tell from fresh whole milk. Judging from selling experience to date, he estimated that a good concentrate could capture about 15 per cent of total fluid milk sales. He recognized that the best sales opportunities would be in the high-priced fluid milk markets, where the concentrate would have a definite price advantage. These markets are mainly in the South and East.

He cited the small builk and long keeping qualities of concentrated milk that will make it more convenient in many ways than fresh whole milk.

R. W. Bartlett, U of I. professor of dairy marketing, reported that trade barriers preventing milk movement across state borders may receive a "sharp jolt' in the not-too-distant future. Competition may be restored in 11 or 12 states still under state milk price control.

C. A. IVERSON, Iowa State university professor of dairy industry, reported the successful sale of the new concentrated milk on rural milk routes in Iowa. Keeping quality has been good. Production and sale have also been successful in Canada and on the west coast. One Illinois dairy has had satisfactory experience in handling the product.

The Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers association has operated a concentrate plant to dispose of sterile milk for one branch of the military forces and to use in ice cream and milk shake mixes. William B. Hopper declared that sterile concentrate milk can make milk porducts available where location, transportation problems and lack of refrigeration have made milk sales impossible. He urged, however, that concentrated milk maintain high quality and not be used to upset present marketing patterns.

Two forms of concentrated milk have been developed by dairy scientists. A fresh concentrate that requires refrigeration takes only one-third as much space as fresh fluid milk. A sterile concentrate packaged in a tin can requires no refrigeration. When reconstituted with water, both taste much the same as regular fluid milk. (Fm

More Service To Help Food Market Grow

The way to expand the market for food is to add extra value and services to the basic product, a leading chain store executive said here today.

Franklin J. Lunding, chairman of the board of Jewel Tea company, Chicago, asserted that future food consumption per person will not increase to any extent. But consumers will pay more for added services they will get with their food. These services will cut kitchen drudgery and free homemakers for more desirable work in the community and around the house.

Speaking before the second University of Illinois Agricutural Industries forum, Lunding said that more than 55 per cent of the total food bill is for services performed on the basic food product.

COMPARED with the years before World War II, consumers now buy fewer fresh fruits and vegetables because they require longer preparation time. At the same time, use of canned fruit and vegetables has jumped 50 per cent. Use of frozen vegetables has increased more than 20 times and continues upward.

Lunding praised the potato industry for its efforts to hold its market in the face of declining consumption. He reported that, besides builk and bag sales, the industry has developed 18 other ways to sell potatoes. As a result, consumption per person is now holding steady.

He cited chicken as another example. An improved product at a low price in a convenient form has found a larger market.

LUNDING questioned the long-run benefits of price supports for wheat in this country. Farmers have lost their foreign markets, and their domestic market has gradually declined on a per capita basis, he said.

In contrast, Lunding cited the great advancements made by lettuce growers. They have grown the kind of product the customer wants. Cleaning, sorting, and packaging add extra value to the product before it moves to the next handler. A good product and rising income has boosted lettuce consumption by 50 per cent since World War II.

Opposition Is Expected To Annexation Petition

Opposition is expected at the February 15 hearing on a substitute petition to annex about 600 acres to the village of Barrington Hills. The hearing will open at 10 a.m. in Cook County court.

Mrs. Emily Rodenwald, owner of 80 acres of land, on the perimeter of the territory sought to be annexed, according to her attorney, opposed the first petition for annexation filed in December.

IT WAS withdrawn and another filed in its place in January.

J. William Braithwaite, attorney representing the petitioners, said it was "necessary" to include the Rodenwald tract.

"It's one of the major pieces," Braithwaite said. He denied the land is on the perimeter of the territory included in the petition. The tract consists of 40 acres on the north side and 40 acres on the south side of Wichman road at a point north of Higgins road.

THE annexation movement takes in all unincorporated land lying between southerly limits of Barrington Hills and the limits of the newly established village of South Barrington.

The petition now before the court carries 18 signatures, or three more than the first.

The additional petitioners are Edward Wietzke and his wife, Evelyn, and Roland G. Plum.

Others who signed the petition are Albert E. Schaefer, Jeanette Schaefer, Catherine McGibbon, Harold Holtz, Laura Holtz, Robert Goodspeed, Henrietta Goodspeed, Edmund McGibbon, Charles Barthel, Sally Barthel, Louis Thies, Emma Thies, Laura K. Witt, Harvey Krunfus, and Mildred W. Plum.

They say they constitute a majority of owners of land involved and a majority of the electors in the territory. They ask the court to sumit the question of annexation for final action by the corporate authorities of Barrington Hills.

TRACTS included in the petition lie in sections 28, 29, 33, and 34 of Barrington township. It joins the south end of Barrington Hills in section 29 and the western edge of South Barrington in section 34 at the Barrington - Hanover township line.

Most of the property is between Higgins road, but a little more than a quarter section lies south of Higgins road in sections 33 and 34.

The petitioners also are represented by two Chicago firms, Graham, Stevenson and Krupp, 228 N. LaSalle st. and King, Robin, Gale, and Pillinger, 135 S. LaSalle st.

CTA May Oppose Suburb Bus Plan

The Chicago Transit Authority most likely would oppose moves by suburban bus companies to switch routes to and from downtown Chicago over the Northwest and Edens expressways.

No such request from a suburban carrier operating in this area is up for consideration before the Illinois Commerce Commission now.

BUT BLUEBIRD Coach Lines is laying the groundwork for a state franchise to route its west suburban runs to and from Chicago's Loop over the Congress expressway.

This prompted the CTA board Thursday to go on record against this on grounds this would be "competition contrary to the public interest" and also contrary to "the rights" granted the CTA by a 1945 Chicago ordinance.

The CTA operates rapid transit trains in Congress expressway between downtown and Forest Park. It has launched a program, already approved by Chicago's City Council, for authority to run rapid transit trains in the median strip of Northwest expressway between O'Hare airport and the Logan Square elevated line, which enters the Loop.

MAYOR DALEY has council authority to negotiate an agreement for this with the county and state. A section of the authorization ordinance reports the parties to the agreement "anticipate rapid transit facility in Northwest expressway will be constructed and in operation by July 1, 1965." (B8
